Laying City Water, Interstate Phone Lines Along Thruway

A large crane and bulldozer are changing the course of the Esopus creek by filling in old stream bed near the Sawkill bridge, before workmen complete laying of three City of Kingston water lines, one 18-inch and two 20-inch, substantial enough to withstand heavy traffic of new Thruway. The water line job is temporarily delayed by muddy conditions.

200 Women Ready For Final Effort In Polio Campaign

Workers Are Announced Who Will Take Part in Hour's Drive for Funds

Mrs. John J. Hogan, chairman of tonight's big Mothers' March on Polio, has announced the various chairmen and workers who will help canvass the city of Kingston and outlying areas.

About 200 women volunteers have been recruited by Mrs. Hogan and her aides to carry out the march tonight between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock.

Residents who wish to make contributions to the polio drive are requested to turn on their porch lights at 7 o'clock. Ward workers will make their calls with proper identification during the hour-long campaign.

First Area March

"We have received wonderful support and cooperation in mapping out tonight's drive," Mrs. Hogan said, "and we in charge of the march and the officials of the Ulster County Infantile Paralysis Chapter feel that tonight's event will be popular."

Mothers' Marches on Polio, although new in this area, have met with considerable success in other sections of the country where large sums of money from the various home contributors have been gained through the marches.

The following workers were named today by Mrs. Hogan:

Campaign Workers

Lincoln Park, town of Ulster—Mrs. Martha Scanlon, Mrs. Bessie Williams, Mrs. Kathryn McAndrew, Mrs. Bertha Halwick and Mrs. Walter Burger.

Ward 1—Mrs. Hamilton Boyd, captain; Mrs. O'Dell Black, Mrs. Nicholas Reis, Miss Gertrude Birmingham, Mrs. Margaret Smith, Mrs. Arthur Bitter, Mrs. James Rapp, Mrs. Thomas Maines, Mrs. Claude Crispell, Mrs. William

Favors Drop Of 100,000 Employes

Senator Johnston Tells of Waste, Overlapping, Irresponsible Actions Abroad

Contempt Is Cited

Plush Living Is Seen as Reason for Jealousy Among Foreigners

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—Sen. Olin D. Johston (D.-S.C.) urged a sweeping overhaul today of the government's activities abroad, saying at least 100,000 employes overseas could be discharged.

He recommended not only an immediate reduction in "the variety, scope and size of our foreign programs and activities" but major changes in the organization and management of government operations around the world.

His proposals were set out in a report submitted to Vice President Nixon, the Senate president. They were based on a survey Johnston made last fall, as chairman of the Senate Civil Service Committee, of federal pay and personnel practices in the Near East, Africa and Europe.

Foundation Is Damaged

Johnston said:

"While great progress has been made in the execution of our many tremendous projects abroad x x x the very foundation of our foreign policy is being damaged by an undertow that is steadily increasing its pressure.

"This undertow derives its strength from streams of indecision, overlapping authority, duplication of effort, wasteful practices, overstaffing, and irrespon-

Police Bullets Only Speed Up 'Mugger'

Local police today were faced with the problem of finding an alleged "mugger" and he who got mugged.

After a downtown chase, which included the firing of some shots in the air, Officers Meyer Levy and Sheldon O'Rourke, said they returned to the scene of the reported attack and found that the victim had also disappeared.

Reports Call for Help

Harry Abramowitz, of lower Hasbrouck avenue, reported to police headquarters at 3:05 a. m., that a man was yelling for help on Hasbrouck avenue near Mill street. Officers Kenneth Gaffney and Francis Loeffler, along with Levy and O'Rourke were dispatched there, but the latter two, arriving first, went on the chase.

They said the man "who had been attacking another, took off, and they chased him through back yards. They saw him last as he jumped from the railroad bridge on East Union street and ran around a corner on Chambers street. The shot, fired in the air, failed to stop him.

Dewey Budget Is 36 Millions Less Than 1952; Total $1,072,484,440

Governor Says Statement Is 'Delicate Balance', Warns Any Unforeseen Development Might Take Surplus — Provides Tax Cut

Albany, Jan. 29 (AP)—Gov. Dewey sent the Legislature today another billion dollar state budget for fiscal 1953-54. The total—$1,072,484,440—is 36 millions less than this year, but calls for no cut or increase in taxes.

It was the third time since Dewey took office in 1943 that he produced a budget cutback from a preceding year. But it was the state's second billion-dollar-plus budget in a row.

The governor termed his new fiscal program beginning April 1 "one of the most delicately balanced" of all his 11 budgets, and warned that "any untoward development" might wipe out a small anticipated surplus.

Won't Ask Increases

"Although our state revenues are scarcely sufficient to finance adequately all the essential needs of the state," Dewey said, "I can not recommend increases in state taxes which would add to the already heavy burdens borne by our people during this crucial time."

Highlights of the new budget:

1. Your personal income tax will be collected again at 90 per cent of the full, legal rate. The unincorporated business tax will be levied for another year at 3 per cent of net income, instead of the full, 4 per cent rate.

2. Two temporary, cost-of-living pay increases granted the state's 70,000 state employes will be continued another year, but no further boost is provided.

For Capital Construction

3. A total of $165,300,000 in actual cash is allocated for capital construction projects, such as highways and hospitals. Of this, $54,900,000 is for highways, parkways and grade crossing, and will be supplemented by another $35,300,000 in federal highway aid.

4. Fifty-six per cent of the overall total is earmarked for state financial assistance to localities and 40 per cent is allocated for actual operating costs of the state government. The other 4 per cent is this year's contribution to the capital construction fund.

5. No funds are provided for construction or operation of a

Stevens Is To Dispose Of His Stock

Appointee Will Do So, if Senate Committee Insists; Asks Them to Think It Over

Navy Secretary-Nominee Seems Assured to Get Clearance

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—Robert T. D. Stevens said today he would dispose of his stock in a family textile company if the Senate Armed Service Committee insists he must to win approval as secretary of the army.

"If the committee feels I should dispose of my stock, he said, I am prepared to do so."

Stevens, who earlier had asked for more time to decide the question, said he hoped the committee members would not "take quick action" on the issue.

Goes Before Committee

Stevens went before the committee after President Eisenhower took a personal hand in the fight for speedy confirmation of his selections for secretaries of the armed services.

Eisenhower decided to send formal nominations to the Senate and, in advance of their actual dispatch, asked for hearings by the Senate Armed Services Committee on the nominees.

The hearings quickly developed that the administration was relying heavily on an order issued by Charles E. Wilson, the new secretary of defense, to clear the way for approval of Stevens and Harold Talbott, secretary of the Air Force designate.

The Senate seemed inclined in advance to approve Robert Anderson, secretary of the navy designate. He holds no stocks which have come into controversy.

Must Give to Another

The Wilson order directs that any Defense Department official must turn over to some one else any business matter involving a concern in which he has an interest.

Stevens presented to the committee an opinion from John W. Davis, one time Democratic presidential nominee, that he could retain his stock in the family concern and meet requirements of the law in the light of Wilson's order.

But the senators pressed him as to whether he would be willing to sell his stock if they insisted.

Stevens made clear that he felt he should not be required to sell his stock in the J. B. Stevens Co., Inc., a major supplier of textiles for the army.

If he had to do so, he said, he feared that other people whom the government might want to call into service might be unable to respond.

"I plead with the committee to consider the best interests of the United States," he said.

At the outset of the hearing, chairman Saltonstall (R.-Mass.) read a letter from Eisenhower asking for the hearing. He also called the committee's attention to Wilson's directive.

Wadsworth Nominated

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated James J. Wadsworth, former civil defense leader, to be deputy chief of the U. S. Mission to the United Nations. The President also sent to the Senate the nomination of Francis A. O'Neill, Jr., of New York for a new term as a member of the National Mediation Board. Wadsworth, a New Yorker, is son of the late James W. Wadsworth who was a member of Congress for many years. The younger Wadsworth is a veteran of 16 years of government service.

Wins Approval

Roger M. Kyes appears briefly Jan. 28 before the Senate Armed Services Committee in Washington. A short time later the committee gave unanimous approval of the former General Motors vice president as Deputy Secretary of Defense. The committee action sends the nomination on for expected Senate approval.

Union to Get Plan To Adjust Strike

About 500 Workers Leave Jobs at Hercules— No Time Given

At a meeting held yesterday afternoon and extending into the evening a plan was devised for submission to the union membership today by which the strike at the Hercules Powder Company at Port Ewen may be adjusted.

The meeting was attended by local union officials; Regional Director Lee Hoover from the Albany headquarters of District 50, United Mine Workers of America; William H. Hazell, New York State Mediation Board at Albany and representatives of the company.

At the conference held yesterday a plan was discussed and outlined. This plan is to be submitted to the union membership today but this morning no time had been set for the meeting and the membership had not been notified as yet of the meeting. It was expected the notice would be sent out later today.

'Operation Smack' Bogs Down on Spud Hill; Guests Had Operation Cards

Army Is Dismayed

Korean Military Men Are Surprised at U. S. Reaction

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP) — Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) today asked the House to demand a full explanation from Defense Secretary Wilson for an American combat raid in Korea last Monday before invited guests.

The attack, known as "Operation Smack," stalled under heavy fire near the top of Spud Hill, north of Seoul. It was witnessed by Army and Air Force generals and war correspondents who were provided with advance timetables.

Hoffman introduced a resolution asking the secretary of defense to explain "whether this raid was actually for justifiable military purposes or whether it was a show staged for some as yet unknown purpose."

Will Go to Committee

The resolution probably will be referred to a House committee which may summon Wilson for an explanation.

Pentagon officials said they have requested a full report from the field. They said they had no information on "Operation Smack."

Another Republican House member, Bray of Indiana, said yesterday he had demanded an explanation from the Defense Department. Bray, an army reserve colonel with four years' service in the Pacific, said he was "mad as Hell" and "never heard anything like it."

In a statement, Hoffman said:

"I am sure our people want to know whether these invited guests were witnesssing a spectacle similar to that where gladiators performed for the entertainment of invited guests in the time of the Roman emperors."

Calls It Wicked

Hoffman's statement also said:

"It is bad enough to fight a purposeless, unending war where the men who are doing the fighting are sacrificing their lives, but it is wicked to use them as expendable cannon fodder for propaganda purposes."

The attack, planned since Jan. 19, moved along on schedule—airplanes, artillery, tanks—until the infantry ran into deadly Communist groundfire and hand grenades within 15 yards of Spud Hill's crest.

The soldiers finally pulled back to their own lines.

The spectators watched from a forward observation bunker. They were provided with mineographed seven-page time-tables, bound in cardboard with a three-color decoration on the cover.

Churchill Is Pleased Over Eisenhower Trip

London, Jan. 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill returned home from America today full of confidence that "nothing but good can follow" President Dwight Eisenhower's flying visit to Korea.

Tanned and full of bounce after a Jamaican holiday and talks in New York with Eisenhower, the 78-year-old leader plunged right back to work at his official residence in London, No. 10 Downing street. He huddled with Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, who held the reins of government while Churchill was away, and scheduled talks with other senior cabinet ministers.

Churchill's remarks on Eisenhower's Korean trip appeared aimed at easing fears expressed in some British quarters that it might lead to an extension of the Korean war.

Morgan Hill Teacher Says State Ignores Food Requests

Education Dept. Pays No Attention, Is Report; Says Need Real

The energetic teacher of a one-room school at Morgan Hill is supplying snacks on her own initiative for her pupils while trying to fathom the red tape which apparently surrounds the various subsidized school lunch programs.

In a little white schoolhouse a short distance off Route 28A near Stony Hollow, Mrs. Fern Fafejta teaches grades one through eight. There are 13 children, and three more are expected to enter the school on Monday.

Not Like Others

Although the children all appear normally active and bright—only two were absent this morning—the majority of them are less fortunate than some of their counterparts who start their days with bountiful breakfasts, have hot lunches in well equipped cafeterias and have an occasional candy bar to munch on when teacher isn't looking.

Only one boy in the class is able consistently to bring his own bottle of milk. It was reported outside of school circles that one cup

Westport, Conn., Jan. 29 (AP)—What William Davis, 29-year-old Negro ex-convict handyman, has told Connecticut authorities about the alleged rape slaying of attractive Senada (Penny) Coates Evans here last Monday night, wasn't available for publication today.

State Attorney Lorin W. Willis has cloaked the investigation with official secrecy, ordering his investigators not to talk. This became known last night as investigators prepared to question Davis after he was brought back from Newark, N. J., where he had been captured earlier in the day.

Police spokesmen at Newark quoted Davis as admitting he had slain the 30-year-old former actress and socialite, during a quarrel over payment for work he had done for her at her newly occupied Woodside avenue home.

New York Bus Strike Ends; Basic Demand Is Recognized

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—The biggest bus strike in New York City's history ended early today and some buses started rolling.

Full resumption of service was not due until tomorrow.

The strike of 8,200 drivers and maintenance men was entering its 29th day as the last of eight struck private bus companies signed an arbitration formula at 3 a. m.

The strikers were ordered back to work by union chiefs.

A three-man arbitration board will handle the wage-hour dispute between the companies and the CIO Transport Workers Union (TWU).

Lines which normally carry 2,300,000 fares on a business day had been halted since New Year's Day. This load constitutes almost one-quarter of the 9¾ million daily fares of all private and municipal transit lines in the city.

The arbitration terms recognize a basic union demand for a 40-hour week with no cut in the take-home pay they had been receiving for working 44 to 48 hours. A demand for a further pay increase is among issues to be arbitrated.

The agreement to arbitrate was hammered out with the aid of Theodore W. Kheel, former impartial chairman of the private transit industry here. He flew back from a vacation in the Bahamas last Sunday at the request

Raiders Hit Chinese, Kill 27; New Turn in War Might Come

Seoul, Jan. 29 (AP) — Tank-led Allied raiders hit a Chinese position southwest of the Panmunjom Truce Conference site today and killed an estimated 27 Reds with bullets, grenades and flame-throwers.

In Tokyo, three top U. S. military commanders conferred amid persistent speculation that the stalemated Korean War soon might take a new turn. But it was only speculation—no concrete signs.

Meeting were Gen. J. Lawton Collins, chief of staff; Gen. Mark Clark, far east commander; and Lt. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, who takes command of the Eighth Army in a few days. Collins leaves tomorrow to inspect Japan's northern defenses.

Taylor leaves Tokyo in a day or two to replace retiring Gen. James A. Van Fleet, who bade a tearful farewell in Seoul today to 50,000 cheering Koreans. The popular 60-year-old Eighth Army commander promised to return to Korea someday because of his affection for the Korean people.

The raid pulled off by his troops on the Far Western front earlier in the day was the heaviest action reported along the frozen, 155-mile battlefront. It was only about 30 air miles north of Seoul.

An Eighth Army spokesman said hit-and-run raiders struck in sub-zero weather at daybreak,

In a little white schoolhouse a short distance off Route 28A near Stony Hollow, Mrs. Fern Fafejta teaches grades one through eight. There are 13 children, and three more are expected to enter the school on Monday.

Not Like Others

Although the children all appear normally active and bright—only two were absent this morning—the majority of them are less fortunate than some of their counterparts who start their days with bountiful breakfasts, have hot lunches in well equipped cafeterias and have an occasional candy bar to munch on when teacher isn't looking.

Only one boy in the class is able consistently to bring his own bottle of milk. It was reported outside of school circles that one cup

New York Bus Strike Ends; Basic Demand Is Recognized

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—The biggest bus strike in New York City's history ended early today and some buses started rolling.

Full resumption of service was not due until tomorrow.

The strike of 8,200 drivers and maintenance men was entering its 29th day as the last of eight struck private bus companies signed an arbitration formula at 3 a. m.

The strikers were ordered back to work by union chiefs.

A three-man arbitration board will handle the wage-hour dispute between the companies and the CIO Transport Workers Union (TWU).

Lines which normally carry 2,300,000 fares on a business day had been halted since New Year's Day. This load constitutes almost one-quarter of the 9¾ million daily fares of all private and municipal transit lines in the city.

The arbitration terms recognize a basic union demand for a 40-hour week with no cut in the take-home pay they had been receiving for working 44 to 48 hours. A demand for a further pay increase is among issues to be arbitrated.

The agreement to arbitrate was hammered out with the aid of Theodore W. Kheel, former impartial chairman of the private transit industry here. He flew back from a vacation in the Bahamas last Sunday at the request

Wadsworth Nominated

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated James J. Wadsworth, former civil defense leader, to be deputy chief of the U. S. Mission to the United Nations. The President also sent to the Senate the nomination of Francis A. O'Neill, Jr., of New York for a new term as a member of the National Mediation Board. Wadsworth, a New Yorker, is son of the late James W. Wadsworth who was a member of Congress for many years. The younger Wadsworth is a veteran of 16 years of government service.

Raiders Hit Chinese, Kill 27; New Turn in War Might Come

Seoul, Jan. 29 (AP) — Tank-led Allied raiders hit a Chinese position southwest of the Panmunjom Truce Conference site today and killed an estimated 27 Reds with bullets, grenades and flame-throwers.

In Tokyo, three top U. S. military commanders conferred amid persistent speculation that the stalemated Korean War soon might take a new turn. But it was only speculation—no concrete signs.

Meeting were Gen. J. Lawton Collins, chief of staff; Gen. Mark Clark, far east commander; and Lt. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, who takes command of the Eighth Army in a few days. Collins leaves tomorrow to inspect Japan's northern defenses.

Taylor leaves Tokyo in a day or two to replace retiring Gen. James A. Van Fleet, who bade a tearful farewell in Seoul today to 50,000 cheering Koreans. The popular 60-year-old Eighth Army commander promised to return to Korea someday because of his affection for the Korean people.

The raid pulled off by his troops on the Far Western front earlier in the day was the heaviest action reported along the frozen, 155-mile battlefront. It was only about 30 air miles north of Seoul.

An Eighth Army spokesman said hit-and-run raiders struck in sub-zero weather at daybreak,

Churchill Is Pleased Over Eisenhower Trip

London, Jan. 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill returned home from America today full of confidence that "nothing but good can follow" President Dwight Eisenhower's flying visit to Korea.

Tanned and full of bounce after a Jamaican holiday and talks in New York with Eisenhower, the 78-year-old leader plunged right back to work at his official residence in London, No. 10 Downing street. He huddled with Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, who held the reins of government while Churchill was away, and scheduled talks with other senior cabinet ministers.

Churchill's remarks on Eisenhower's Korean trip appeared aimed at easing fears expressed in some British quarters that it might lead to an extension of the Korean war.

Expert Views Liner For Possible Clues

Southampton, Eng., Jan. 28 (AP)—A Scotland Yard expert joined detectives combing the British liner Queen Elizabeth today for clues to the cause of a fire that broke out—and was quickly put out—last night in a main deck cabin of the world's biggest ship.

"It might have been accidental, it might have been wilful," said Southampton's chief constable Charles Box after the mid-evening blaze.

Reporting the fire, the British press suggested sabotage.

Scotland Yard sent a specialist to examine charred wood which had been carefully preserved after the fire.

The 83,673-ton Cunard liner is in drydock, undergoing her annual overhaul before resuming trans-Atlantic service to New York Feb. 11. Officials noted that smoking is banned among workmen refitting the ship in the King George V drydock.

Fires on Queen Mary

The investigation into the blaze coincides with inquiries now underway into the fire destruction last weekend in Liverpool of the Canadian trans-Atlantic liner Empress of Canada. Three small mystery fires broke out aboard the liner Queen Mary, sister ship of the Elizabeth, while she was in drydock last month.

Swarms of shipboard and Southampton firefighters rushed aboard the Elizabeth at the fire alarm. The blaze was declared under control a half hour after the firemen arrived and 15 minutes later was definitely out.

The fire apparently started in the clothes closet of a main deck cabin. The cabin was the chief casualty—wrecked by the flames and firemen's axes chopping away the panelled bulkhead and ceiling to prevent the blaze spreading. Nearby cabins also were damaged by water and smoke.

Congressman Asks

tary men in Korea expressed surprise and dismay today at the angry reaction in the United States to Sunday's allied attack on Spud Hill—an outpost on the western front.

Rep. Bray (R-Ind.) asked the Defense Department for an explanation of what he called a "dress rehearsal" in which people got killed.

A spokesman for the division involved said:

"To call the operation a dress rehearsal is completely wrong.

"I think his criticism is unfair. There are no theatrical trappings. Not a single one. This is deadly serious business and every one here knows it."

The officer and the division cannot be identified for security reasons.

Reports on 'Score Card'

To criticism that a "program" or "score card" had been distributed to generals and newspapermen watching the operation from a bunker, the officer said:

"Every operation has an operation order and all we had was a complete operation order. An operation order is a time table. It says that certain things will happen in a certain sequence. The only difference between this one and any other operation order was that this one had a little fancier cover. And it was a homemade cover at that."

Another officer of the same division said the purpose of the operation was to test and demonstrate the effectiveness of close air-ground support. He said that explained the presence of air force generals and other military observers.

Mothers' Marches Set For County Districts

Three Ulster county areas also have scheduled Mothers' Marches on Polio campaigns tonight between 7 and 8 o'clock.

Addison Jones, county campaign director, reported this morning that Highland, Saugerties and New Paltz will hold marches similar to the one scheduled in Kingston.

Mrs. Rosenberg Honored

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—Anna M. Rosenberg, former assistant secretary of defense, was honored last night by Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders at a dinner sponsored by the Defense Department's Armed Forces Chaplains Board. Among those paying tribute to Mrs. Rosenberg were Francis Cardinal Spellman; the Rev. David De Sola Pool, of the New York City Spanish-Portuguese Synagogue, and William C. Martin, president of the National Council of Churches. A resolution by the chaplains board cited Mrs. Rosenberg for emphasizing the spiritual life of the men and women of the armed services while she was director of manpower.

To Offer New Bill

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—Sens. Ives (R-N.Y.) and Humphrey (D-Minn.) announced last night they will reintroduce today an anti-job discrimination bill they sponsored in the last Congress. They said that joining them in offering the measure to ban discrimination in employment because of race, religion, color, national origin or ancestry will be 17 other senators—eight Republicans, eight Democrats and one independent. The bill was reported out of the Senate Labor Committee just before Congress adjourned last summer but was not called up for action in the Senate. In the past such legislation has always been killed off by Southern filibusters, or the threat of them.

Youth Club Is Blasted

Tel Aviv, Israel, Jan. 29 (AP)—An explosion rocked the Communist Youth Club here today following a warning notice that it would be blown up. There were no casualties. It was believed that anti-Communists tossed a bomb into the club.

Court Tense Before Parsons Murder Case

Wichita Falls, Tex., Jan. 29 (AP)—Bickering lawyers and a tense court room marked pre-trial activities in the Mary Jean Parsons murder case with half the jury picked.

Completion of the 12-man panel was expected today.

Two days of tense questioning of veniremen, marged by occasional displays of temper by rival attorneys, had resulted in six being qualified for jury duty.

The Tulsa, Okla., heiress, 22, was charged with slaying her bridegroom, Army Lt. Richard O. Parsons, 24, last Feb. 16. Parsons, of Pleasantville, N. Y., was shot in the head as he lay on a bed in their El Paso apartment.

Mrs. Parsons was found sane in a hearing at El Paso May 27. Defense attorneys indicated in their questioning of jurors they would seek to prove she was insane when the fatal shooting occurred.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burtner Fleeger of Tulsa, have kept her in a private mental hospital at Dallas.

Defense lawyers also have served notice of an application for a suspended sentence if she is found guilty.

Mrs. Parsons sat unconcerned during yesterday's proceedings.

In the first two days of jury questioning, 48 took the stand. All but six were either disqualified or excused by the court.

Largest denomination U. S. bill is the $100,000 bill, which bears a picture of President Woodrow Wilson.

Raiders Hit . . .

after Allied warplanes and artillery blasted the hill and its 30 to 40 defenders.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter reported the action was west of the corridor leading up to the site of the suspended armistice negotiations. Thus located, it would have been well below parallel 38 on the far western front and the southernmost fighting in Korea in many months.

The battle line—generally unchanged in more than a year—runs diagonally northeastward across Korea from a point about 11 miles below parallel 38 in the west to nearly 50 miles north of the old political boundary on the east coast.

The Eighth Army reported that in addition to the Chinese slain 15 bunkers and foxholes were destroyed. The Reds resisted vainly with mortar and rifle fire.

On the central front, a platoon of Chinese Reds attacked an allied forward position but was driven off after an hour and 15-minute skirmish. Another platoon-sized Red attack northwest of Yonchon on the western front was beaten off after 10 minutes. Only patrol clashes were reported elsewhere.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported 50 fighter-bombers pounded a sprawling troop billeting area north of Sinchon, near the west coast. Pilots said they destroyed 55 buildings and damaged eight.

Secondary explosions were seen, indicating hits on ammunition stock piles.

Farther north eight U. S. Sabre jets and five Russian-built MIGs tangled in two dogfights but the air force made no damage claims. It was the 11th straight day of air battles.

B-29 superforts bombed two Communist storage centers near the Korean Red capital of Pyongyang during the night. Bomber crews said Communist night fighters made firing passes at two of the superforts.

Allied B-26 light bombers struck at Communist supply lines Wednesday night. The air force listed as destroyed 65 trucks and two locomotives with one locomotive damaged.

Ulster Hose Has Party; President Reviews Program

Ulster Hose Company 5, town of Ulster, held its eighth annual banquet Saturday night at Rose Marie Cabins on the Saugerties road at which time Edward Dingeldey, president of the fire company, reviewed briefly the many activities of the past year and also outlined some of the ambitions for the coming year.

Recently the fire company has engaged in a program for enlargement of its fire house and during the past year the membership has been active in the work of forming a water district in the area, the president pointed out.

At the meeting several guests were presented, among them Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy of Kingston, who spoke on the proposition of radio equipment for the volunteer companies of Ulster county.

Progress Is Noted

The program was opened with the presenting of the colors by the Boy Scout Troop under the direction of Assistant Patrol Leader Bruce DuBois and Tenderfoot Scout Frank White led in the pledge of allegiance.

During the evening the members stood in silence for a moment in tribute to four members of the company who have died during the year. They are Harvey Rappleyea who joined the company in 1945; John Acker who became a member in 1946; Otis Hammond who was a member from 1944 and Addison Haynes who became a member the same year.

In his talk President Dingeldey referred to the progress of the fire company, when it has completed its new addition to the firehouse will have a $30,000 investment which has been fully paid without any portion of it being charged against the people of the first district. He also referred to the honor which had come to the company this year with the election of Supervisor Percy Bush as president of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association and the extension of an invitation for that association to be guests of Ulster Hose for its 1953 annual convention. He paid a tribute to the work of Weidner Davis during the formation of the water district.

Officers Are Introduced

Officers presented were Earl Kilmer, vice-president; James Krom, financial secretary; Jerry Woodvine, treasurer; George Berry, recording secretary. Members of the auxiliary also present were Mrs. Scanlon, president; Mrs. Rappleyea, vice-president; Mrs. Halwick, treasurer; and Miss Myers, secretary, who were introduced. Others introduced included County Treasurer Horace Boice, Pratt Boice, Sherwood Davis, Bob Browning, Justice of the Peace Clarence Rappleyea, Justice of the Peace Harold Macholdt, Supervisor Percy Bush and Assistant Fire Chief Harold A. Sanford and also the members of the dinner committee: Savio T. LaGuardia, Walter Volgt, Harold Smith, Eddie Fishhang, Otto Buckman, Chief William Norton, Assistant Chief John Offermann, Captain Ernest Petersen, First Lieutenant Harry Hill, Second Lieutenant Donald Reed, Third Lieutenant Otto Buckman and Engineer Austin Brown. Firemanic officers were also presented.

Following the dinner there was a social hour with dancing to the music supplied by the Columbians.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Jan. 28—Callers in the village center Sunday included Robert Bloom, Newburgh War 1 veteran and native of the old village of Shokan. He was accompanied by his wife and his sister, Hazel Bloom, of Kingston.

Funeral services for Harry Weeks, who died Saturday, took place in the Shokan Reformed Church Tuesday morning. He had been seriously ill for the past several months. He and Mrs. Weeks came here about 12 years ago from New York after buying the Jane Stubley house on Route 28. A retired member of the metropolitan sanitation department, he had served as an election official at the Olive No. 1 polling place. He was well known throughout the twin villages.

The new A. Flad summer home in the Church Hill neighborhood is fast nearing completion. Another building well underway in the same sector is the new dwelling of the Eugene Lawlors, also along the Onteora Trail.

Mrs. John D. VanKleeck, 80, who died Jan. 19 at her home in Kingston, was a resident of Olive during much of her lifetime. She and her husband, proprietor of two livery stables in this section during waterworks years, resided at Kerhonkson for a while after leaving West Shokan. She had many friends in the town and for years was an active member of the Mt. Pleasant Rural Cemetery Association.

Among the South Olive KHS students who take the early bus here are Margaret Medal of the Sheldon Hill road and Joe Suarez of Olive Bridge.

George W. Pratt, whose funeral was held Saturday at New Paltz, was one of the larger property owners in this part of the reservoir country. The Pratt summer place near Little Tonche mountain was originally the Lemuel Winchell farmstead, and a drawing of the house and environs appears in the now scarce Sylvester's History of Ulster County. In later years the place belonged to Alvah Bogart, adopted son of the Winchells, and to Mr. and Mrs. Elva H. Bogart of Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. Pratt spent a good deal of their time here during the past few years.

Echo of Waterworks Days: Jan. 31, 1910—Ashokan Commission 15 hears claim of Ulster and Delaware Plank Road Company for section of its road between West Hurley and Beaverkill, 1082 feet long, upon which is laid two parallel rows of bridge stone, designed to provide a track for the passage of heavy loads of bluestone bound for the docks at Rondout and Wilbur. Judge A. T. Clearwater appeared for claimants. Brought out at hearing that company had paid only $225 for the land in 1856.

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Otis Terwilliger, at DeLand, Fla., where they are spending the winter. The Terwilligers, Port Ewen residents, were born and brought up on the west side of the Esopus Creek in Olive.

Arrangements have been completed for the big March of Dimes party Friday night at the Reformed Church. This annual event has attracted capacity crowds for the past several years.

Echo of Waterworks Days: Jan. 31, 1910—Ashokan Commission 15 hears claim of Ulster and Delaware Plank Road Company for section of its road between West Hurley and Beaverkill, 1082 feet long, upon which is laid two parallel rows of bridge stone, designed to provide a track for the passage of heavy loads of bluestone bound for the docks at Rondout and Wilbur. Judge A. T. Clearwater appeared for claimants. Brought out at hearing that company had paid only $225 for the land in 1856.

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Otis Terwilliger, at DeLand, Fla., where they are spending the winter. The Terwilligers, Port Ewen residents, were born and brought up on the west side of the Esopus Creek in Olive.

Arrangements have been completed for the big March of Dimes party Friday night at the Reformed Church. This annual event has attracted capacity crowds for the past several years.

PSEUDO-DEMOCRACY

Marshal Tito's Yugoslavian government seems to believe that by adopting some of the trappings of democracy he can convince the world that his people are really free. But the most clever wolf, in the best tailored sheepskin, remains a wolf and even if he tries to bleat like a sheep his eventual behavior gives him away.

Tito was elected President of his country in a recent election, by a secret ballot. But his victory surprised no one for he was the only nominee. This play-acting is reminiscent of the recent repeal of democratic processes in Venezuela, accomplished during the midst of a supposedly free election.

The government of Venezuela, confident that its candidates would win, assured the people that they might decide for themselves. When election returns showed that voters were doing just that and the government appeared to be losing, a news blackout was imposed on the country and the ruling officials took over the elections. The next news from Venezuela declared the old leader the provisional president.

Tito had a jolt, too. When the votes were tabulated there was one against him, some brave, nameless voter who kept the decision from being unanimous. Observers wonder who dared mark his ballot against the dictator. Tito must wonder too, for to a dictator one courageous opponent is always a threat.

KINGSTON BRIDGE

The Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge will be constructed in the very near future, Assemblyman Lee B. Mailler declares in his announcement that a draft of a bill is being prepared to empower the New York State Bridge Authority to construct and maintain a bridge in the vicinity of Newburgh and Beacon.

At the present time, he states it is impossible to forecast how soon the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge will be in operation and producing revenue sufficient to take care of the interest and amortization together with pooled revenues from the other bridges to permit issuance of additional bonds.

The State Bridge Authority report on the bridges and also on the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry shows a great increase in the use of bridges and on the ferry. In 1952 the bridges clocked 6,369,457 against 5,894,885 in 1951, an increase of about a half million. The ferry carried 75,986 vehicles in 1952 against 73,469 in 1951, a gain of 2,517. It also carried 25,891 pedestrians compared to 22,529 last year, a gain of 3,362.

This is additional evidence that the bridge is needed now and should not be delayed further. We hope construction will get underway in the spring.

CONCURRENT ADMINISTRATIONS

For the first time in 30 years, Republican administrations are operating simultaneously in Washington and Albany. The last time Republican officials served concurrently as President and Governor was in 1921-22 when Warren G. Harding was in the White House and Nathan L. Miller was Governor of the Empire State.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey, now serving his eleventh year, has established a record for modern times. He has held the confidence and support of the people for the longest tenure since New York's first chief executive, Governor George Clinton, who was inaugurated in this city and served from 1777 through 1795. After a six-year term of John Jay, Governor Clinton was returned to office for three years more.

EARLIER TAX HEADACHE

People who must file an amended estimate of the 1952 income are reminded that January 15 is the deadline for filing. Most taxpayers do not have to worry about the January 15 date but there are several million, mostly people in business, self-employed or receiving income from investments, who are affected by the January deadline.

If 1952 final returns are filed and the tax on the 1952 income paid in full by January 15 the amended estimate will be unnecessary.

This sounds rather involved. Stated as simply as possible it means that some Americans will get their headache over with before others by dealing with the tax collectors on January 15 instead of March 15.

'These Days'

ANOTHER MOVIE VOICE

The original theory of private enterprise, often referred to as laissez-faire, was that the increase of capital by a profit was right no matter how it was earned. I personally knew in the Far East opium merchants who were regarded as fine gentlemen engaged in legitimate business. They were members of the best clubs. Prostitution was once a legitimate business and while the women were scorned on moral grounds, the landlords were good businessmen.

This attitude toward profits could not stand up in a conflict with moral law. It was not long before the people, through their governments, imposed upon private enterprises restraints and restrictions so that a profit could be produced which included no taint of indecency. Most successful businesses policed themselves by adopting codes of ethics, often more rigid and morally more correct than governments dared to impose.

When I first encountered the motion picture industry intimately, I had assumed that all the stories I had heard about furriers in excelsis were true. Instead, I found in Columbia, Metro, Fox, and other companies, intelligent men, with a deep sense of responsibility. I found the same type of public and moral responsibility which men of large affairs always assume. That did not mean, and does not mean, that they will not pursue a hot profit; it does mean that they will let one go if they can be convinced that it will harm the country.

I want to praise Loew's and Fox West Coast, two of the largest theatre chains, for rejecting "Limelight," Charlie Chaplin's picture. The time to show that picture will be when Chaplin is readmitted to the United States, after a hearing. Before that time, it is just making money for a disreputable person who has been ordered to be kept out of this country by the Attorney General of the United States. This is the time to test whether Charlie Chaplin is bigger than the United States.

It would seem that Gunther Lessing has picked a quarrel with one of the most patriotic labor officials in this country, Roy Brewer. Mr. Lessing objected to the opposition of the American Legion to "Limelight," the Chaplin picture, an opposition which Brewer endorsed. Lessing said that he is against the principle involved.

Although you may not have heard of Gunther Lessing before, he is actually a person of considerable importance in Hollywood, as chairman of the Independent Motion Picture Producers. Also he is an officer of the Walt Disney Productions. So far as I know, he has no unfavorable personal record of any kind. He does say that for the American Legion or any other organization to express an opinion about a picture, perhaps in strong language, is wrong in principle.

What principle?

The principle of opposition to Communism? The principle of protecting the young against indecency? The principle of not permitting Hollywood to continue as the treasury for the American Communist Party?

Upon what principle does Mr. Lessing wish to put his case? Let us discuss it.

He further objects to Roy Brewer's complaint about large numbers of American stars and large numbers of Hollywood Communists making pictures abroad to the harm of American workers. Lessing is reported by "Variety" to have said:

"What is not good for the country is not good for either union or management. If the union leaders had any sense and went along lines of integrity and morality and not just of what is best for them, they would have a much larger following."

If he really said that, he said nothing because the reason the stars prefer to make pictures in Europe is that it gives them a tax exemption. If they stay out of the country for 18 months, they do not pay an American income tax on their income from that source. Brewer says that about 32 personalities in the motion picture industry will no longer accept assignments to make American pictures unless they are made outside the United States.

In other words, you and I pay taxes because we live here and work here and—what the hell!—this is our country. But these pampered mummers who talk about art and beauty and the higher thoughts, etc., etc., will sell their country down any river to make an extra buck. Let's not help them do it.

As for the Communists, they cannot work in Hollywood, so they work in Italy.

CATARRH WITH DISAGREEABLE ODOR

While there appears to be some help for bad breath by use of various antiseptic mouth washes, tooth powders and pastes, there is the one form of bad breath that seems to defy all local applications and requires general or systemic treatment to obtain results. I refer to what is called atrophic rhinitis, third form of catarrh, ozena, and other names.

In the New England Medical Journal, Dr. H. J. Sternstein (Harvard University) reports his study of 13 patients between the ages of 27 to 73 in whom symptoms had been present for 15 to 50 years.

The outstanding symptoms of atrophic rhinitis are a strong, permeating, offensive odor, due to the extensive formations of green crust, and wasting of the turbinate bones of the nose. Loss of smell is usually a symptom, and there are various organisms present.

Dr. Sternstein treated these cases with antiseptics, which kill harmful organisms, and also by vasodilators, drugs which widen or enlarge the blood vessels thus helping the circulation to and away from the vessels supplying the nose. The drugs were used in one of three ways: streptomycin, histamine and niacin; streptomycin and priscoline (the new drug used successfully in dilating blood vessels and lowering blood pressure); streptomycin, pencillin and prisoline. In addition, bacitracin and gantrisin were used with these combinations.

All patients were advised to stop the nasal irrigations or washing out of nose. Lambs' wool plugs were inserted in each nostril three to four times an hour during the day to stimulate secretion or moisture from the lining of nose and help to remove crusts. Apparently any method that will soften and remove these crusts causes the terrible odor to disappear.

The results obtained by these methods were fairly satisfactory, but long treatment is necessary as results showed that significant improvement was noticeable after the third month of this form of treatment.

I have written before of the success obtained by research workers by use of prostigmin (neostigmin) and also by the use of sex extracts.

As atrophic rhinitis with its disagreeable odor prevents such patients from mingling freely with others, any form of treatment that is reported as successful by outstanding clinicians should be tried.

For ordinary bad breath, many obtian relief by cutting down or avoiding fat foods.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—The dirtiest brat left on the Eisenhower doorstep by the departing Democrats is the now-celebrated international oil cartel case.

The inside story of last-minute handling of this problem child by the Truman administration is just now beginning to come out. It involved a wide split in the Truman cabinet and the National Security Council, which is the top government defense planning group.

The sequence of events leading up to this grand snafu goes back to Iran's 1951 nationalization of its oil properties, then under long lease to the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

In July, 1951, J. Howard McGrath, the U. S. attorney general, granted to Defense Production Administrator C. E. Wilson authority to form a foreign petroleum supply committee from 19 leading U. S. oil companies, with complete immunity from any possible anti-trust prosecution. Purpose of this "voluntary agreement," as it was called, was to help meet the world oil shortage caused by the shutoff of 700,000 barrels of daily oil production from the Iranian fields.

By July, 1952, the world oil supply situation had been largely straightened out. The 19-company "plan for action No. 1," under which this had been accomplished, was therefore suspended.

Two of the companies dropped out of the agreement. But the other 17, continued to work together in a Park avenue, New York, headquarters, which they maintained at their own expense, to furnish the government with world oil supply information on request.

Sought to End Agreement

Last September, however, Attorney General James P. McGranery, who had succeeded McGrath, wrote to Henry H. Fowler, who had succeeded Wilson, that there was no longer any need for continuance of this voluntary agreement among the oil companies. Mr. McGranery requested that their association be suspended. This would automatically end the immunity from possible anti-trust action.

Mr. Fowler wrote back in October that in the opinion of the secretaries of Defense and Interior, the need for government cooperation with the oil companies still existed.

Some areas of the world had only a 10-day reserve of aviation gas on hand. It was necessary for the U. S. government to know what these supplies were at all times. The information could be secured only from the oil companies who could also get information on foreign oil stocks.

In spite of this, Attorney General McGranery on Jan. 7 repeated his request to Mr. Fowler that the voluntary agreement be suspended. The matter was then taken to the cabinet meeting on Jan. 16.

Mr. Fowler explained that with a settlement of the Iranian oil crisis pending, the world oil supply situation might again be upset. He then showed Mr. McGranery an unsigned draft of a letter in which he asked authority to continue the foreign petroleum supply committee.

Mr. McGranery then asked Mr. Fowler not to send that letter until Department of Justice aides were consulted. That same afternoon, however, Mr. McGranery sent to Fowler a third letter asking that he withdraw all requests for continued action under the old agreement.

The apparent reason was that the Department of Justice, with its grand jury investigation of the oil cartel under way, felt that its case would be weakened if the voluntary agreement were continued.

Threw Oil on Fire

In the meantime, the National Security Council had met. On the urging of the secretaries of State and Defense, a flat recommendation was made that the criminal anti-trust case against the oil companies be dropped unconditionally. President Truman approved it.

In place of this, however, an attempt was made by Department of Justice to get the oil companies to agree to continuation of the grand jury investigation and a civil anti-trust action, in exchange for dropping the criminal suit.

That did throw oil on the fire. On Jan. 19, the last day of the Truman administration, Mr. Fowler sent off his letter to Mr. McGranery, urging that the voluntary agreement be continued.

So there the matter rests, until the Eisenhower administration can get together to decide what to do about it.

Sometime soon a Department of Justice attorney must again appear before Federal Judge James R. Kirkland in District of Columbia Court to state the government's further intent in the oil cartel case. Up to now this case has been in charge of Leonard Emmerglick, acting as a special assistant attorney general.

The attorney general, Herbert Brownell, has at this writing given no indication whether Mr. Emmerglick will continue in charge of the case, or what the new administration oil policy will be.

Would Limit Releases

Albany, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Legislature has been asked to bar judges from releasing their decisions directly to newsmen, and to limit this function to official court reporters. The bill introduced yesterday by Sen. John H. Cooke, Alden Republican, would direct the court reporters to release such news "as soon as possible." Cooke said in the bill that it was aimed at "avoiding errors and insuring accuracy and an orderly and uniform reporting of the judicial decisions of the courts." The measure would affect surrogates as well as justices.

Dulles' Speech Viewed as Best Statement on U. S. Foreign Policy Since Roosevelt's in '37

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 29—The address of John Foster Dulles, secretary of state, Tuesday night on the state of the world is the foundation of President Eisenhower's whole program for world peace. It is by far the most enlightening and the most forceful pronouncement on American foreign policy that has been delivered since the famous "quarantine" speech of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1937.

Then as now, America told the world that despotism must be thwarted by the common action of free peoples. But Mr. Dulles has gone further than any of his predecessors. He explains in detail not only why the United States cannot and will not remain aloof from either Asia or Europe but why the United States cannot and will not keep on pouring into allied countries billions of dollars as well as divisions of our troops unless there is "effective unity" among the free nations.

It is at one and the same time a clear presentation to the American people as to why allies are necessary for the actual defense of the United States and a veiled warning to Europe that the American people will have to reexamine their relationship to Europe if the British, the French and the Germans go their separate ways. The exact words of that sensational warning are as follows:

"The United States has made a big investment in Western Europe on the theory that there could be unity there. Of the 40 billion dollars which we have sent abroad since the end of the Second World War, almost 30 billions have gone into Western Europe. If, however, there were no chance, and that I just refuse to believe, but if it appeared there were no chance of getting effective unity, and if in particular France, Germany and England should go their separate ways, then certainly it would be necessary to give a little re-thinking to America's own foreign policy in relation to Western Europe."

Coming, as this statement does, on the eve of the departure of Secretary Dulles for conferences with the top statesmen in Europe, it could have a profound impact on the course of world policy in the years to come.

Mr. Dulles has made the best argument ever made to an American audience as to why the United States must have allies in Asia as well as in Europe, and how the Soviet encroachments will menace America's own safety if not stopped in their tracks. But this address applies equally as well to a European audience. For lately the impression has grown up in Europe that America would keep on sending troops and money indefinitely without a corresponding manifestation of responsibility on the part of European nations hitherto allied with us.

For it might as well be faced—the United Nations is but a forum for debate and, thought it is allimportant as an influence on world opinion, the peace of the world will be enforced only by regional alliances and mutual-security pacts based on military and economic resources pooled to give the most effective combination that can be presented against Soviet Russia.

Secretary Dulles significantly pointed to the neglect of Latin America by our own government, but he condoned this as being due merely to our recent preoccupation with Europe and Asia. He indicated, however, that Soviet Russia is busy infiltrating not only in this hemisphere but in Africa as well as in Europe and Asia.

Most encouraging was Mr. Dulles' boldness in taking American policy out of the realm of stagnation and frustration and bringing it, even this early, to a positive stage. His effort to get rid of the inferiority complex of the Truman-Acheson policies is most refreshing.

Those who say they have not seen the differences between the Acheson and Dulles foreign policies need now only to read carefully the Dulles speech to observe the courageous step forward which he takes, especially the release he displays from the curious timidity which has heretofore given the Communists so much to build upon.

"That's a gloomy picture," said Mr. Dulles, after presenting his review of Soviet infiltration in every continent, "but it need not and it must not discourage us. These Russian Communists are not supermen and their strategy is not irresistible. I feel absolutely confident that we can make it fail."

It is logical that Secretary Dulles should withhold details of future policy at this time, but Moscow might as well realize it—the American government isn't afraid of Stalin and his crew, and will not act as if it is either.

"Not only shall we not invoke war," said Secretary Dulles, "to achieve our purposes but we shall try to the best of our ability to stop the wars that are now going on in the world, notably these wars in Korea and Indo-China. Today these wars go on because the enemy thinks he is getting an advantage by continuing the war. I believe that General Eisenhower will find the ways to make the enemy change his mind in that respect so that they too will want peace."

It is especially worth noting that Mr. Dulles speaks of "the enemy" and he does not fail to name names. He says: "We have enemies who are plotting our destruction. These enemies are the Russian Communists and their allies in other countries."

Here is a frankness of statement which has not been matched before. It calls a spade a spade, and notifies Stalin that the American people not only know what is going on but that they will not fail to approve any proper measures to change the situation from a "cold war" to a state of peace. It is a historic utterance.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Jan. 28—During my interview with Carmel Offie, a past member of the weird system of epsionage, cliques and conspiracies operated by our government in cahoots with the AF of L, another man sat by as Offie's friend, putting in explanatory comments. He had had long experience in the State Department but finally had gotten out, convinced that the department was no place for an aggressive anti-Communist. The subject of my mission was not Offie's arrest in 1943 on a charge of homosexual offense but the State Department's cynical resort to the American Federation of Labor as an "instrument" of intrigue and cold warfare in France, Italy, Greece and other "friendly" nations.

I must interrupt myself to say that Offie says he was framed, being slugged by four or five men and thrown into a cell, when he went to a corner of La Fayette Park, across from the White House, to keep a rendezvous in compliance with an official order of the State Department. He abandoned his $25 bond without defending himself. He said neither he nor his lawyer saw the police charge at the time although his lawyer did read it later. I asked him "do you want to see it now?" For I had the record in my hand. Offie said "no." The friend at Offie's side has held the rank of minister and seemed thoroughly versed in the system of intrigue which our State Department and, latterly, the Central Intelligence Agency have borrowed from the old world. He said that, of course, it was very immoral of us to violate the sovereignty of friendly nations in order to wage our politico-military and economic cold war against Soviet Russia. But it was necessary nevertheless. He said the Soviet propaganda was making use of my disclosures to discredit the United States.

Here was the proposition:

The Roosevelt administration had been imbued with a faith in communism as a messianic force which would dominate the world. Therefore anti-Communists were severely persecuted. Offie was a protege of William C. Bullitt, our first ambassador to Soviet Russia, who broke with Roosevelt when he, Bullitt, became disillusioned and begged Roosevelt to get next to himself.

"I was one of the few who got nailed and suffered for fighting them," he said.

The friend at Offie's side went on:

The governments of these friendly countries were not too strong and it was obviously in our interest to move in and keep their native Communists off balance and prevent their seizing control through the political "labor" movement. The obvious way was to muscle into their unions, which are all Socialist political organizations to say the best of them. To be sure this was not the honorable thing to do. After all, we had complained bitterly about the intervention of the Moscow Communists in our internal affairs, mainly through the unions of the CIO. Now we were doing that very thing in many other nations. It was immoral but it was practical and we figured that the AF of L would be the best force at our disposal because it was a "labor" organization. Furthermore the AF of L was politically ambitious, it had almost unlimited money subject to no accounting, and it was not inhibited by ethics or morals.

Thus far, we had given the AF of L about $3,000,000 of the American taxpayers' money to spend secretly for intrigue in

PSEUDO-DEMOCRACY

Marshal Tito's Yugoslavian government seems to believe that by adopting some of the trappings of democracy he can convince the world that his people are really free. But the most clever wolf, in the best tailored sheepskin, remains a wolf and even if he tries to bleat like a sheep his eventual behavior gives him away.

Tito was elected President of his country in a recent election, by a secret ballot. But his victory surprised no one for he was the only nominee. This play-acting is reminiscent of the recent repeal of democratic processes in Venezuela, accomplished during the midst of a supposedly free election.

The government of Venezuela, confident that its candidates would win, assured the people that they might decide for themselves. When election returns showed that voters were doing just that and the government appeared to be losing, a news blackout was imposed on the country and the ruling officials took over the elections. The next news from Venezuela declared the old leader the provisional president.

Tito had a jolt, too. When the votes were tabulated there was one against him, some brave, nameless voter who kept the decision from being unanimous. Observers wonder who dared mark his ballot against the dictator. Tito must wonder too, for to a dictator one courageous opponent is always a threat.

KINGSTON BRIDGE

The Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge will be constructed in the very near future, Assemblyman Lee B. Mailler declares in his announcement that a draft of a bill is being prepared to empower the New York State Bridge Authority to construct and maintain a bridge in the vicinity of Newburgh and Beacon.

At the present time, he states it is impossible to forecast how soon the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge will be in operation and producing revenue sufficient to take care of the interest and amortization together with pooled revenues from the other bridges to permit issuance of additional bonds.

The State Bridge Authority report on the bridges and also on the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry shows a great increase in the use of bridges and on the ferry. In 1952 the bridges clocked 6,369,457 against 5,894,885 in 1951, an increase of about a half million. The ferry carried 75,986 vehicles in 1952 against 73,469 in 1951, a gain of 2,517. It also carried 25,891 pedestrians compared to 22,529 last year, a gain of 3,362.

This is additional evidence that the bridge is needed now and should not be delayed further. We hope construction will get underway in the spring.

CONCURRENT ADMINISTRATIONS

For the first time in 30 years, Republican administrations are operating simultaneously in Washington and Albany. The last time Republican officials served concurrently as President and Governor was in 1921-22 when Warren G. Harding was in the White House and Nathan L. Miller was Governor of the Empire State.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey, now serving his eleventh year, has established a record for modern times. He has held the confidence and support of the people for the longest tenure since New York's first chief executive, Governor George Clinton, who was inaugurated in this city and served from 1777 through 1795. After a six-year term of John Jay, Governor Clinton was returned to office for three years more.

EARLIER TAX HEADACHE

People who must file an amended estimate of the 1952 income are reminded that January 15 is the deadline for filing. Most taxpayers do not have to worry about the January 15 date but there are several million, mostly people in business, self-employed or receiving income from investments, who are affected by the January deadline.

If 1952 final returns are filed and the tax on the 1952 income paid in full by January 15 the amended estimate will be unnecessary. This sounds rather involved. Stated as simply as possible it means that some Americans will get their headache over with before others by dealing with the tax collectors on January 15 instead of March 15.

'These Days'

ANOTHER MOVIE VOICE

The original theory of private enterprise, often referred to as laissez-faire, was that the increase of capital by a profit was right no matter how it was earned. I personally knew in the Far East opium merchants who were regarded as fine gentlemen engaged in legitimate business. They were members of the best clubs. Prostitution was once a legitimate business and while the women were scorned on moral grounds, the landlords were good businessmen.

This attitude toward profits could not stand up in a conflict with moral law. It was not long before the people, through their governments, imposed upon private enterprises restraints and restrictions so that a profit could be produced which included no taint of indecency. Most successful businesses policed themselves by adopting codes of ethics, often more rigid and morally more correct than governments dared to impose.

When I first encountered the motion picture industry intimately, I had assumed that all the stories I had heard about furriers in excelsis were true. Instead, I found in Columbia, Metro, Fox, and other companies, intelligent men, with a deep sense of responsibility. I found the same type of public and moral responsibility which men of large affairs always assume. That did not mean, and does not mean, that they will not pursue a hot profit; it does mean that they will let one go if they can be convinced that it will harm the country.

I want to praise Loew's and Fox West Coast, two of the largest theatre chains, for rejecting "Limelight," Charlie Chaplin's picture. The time to show that picture will be when Chaplin is readmitted to the United States, after a hearing. Before that time, it is just making money for a disreputable person who has been ordered to be kept out of this country by the Attorney General of the United States. This is the time to test whether Charlie Chaplin is bigger than the United States.

It would seem that Gunther Lessing has picked a quarrel with one of the most patriotic labor officials in this country, Roy Brewer. Mr. Lessing objected to the opposition of the American Legion to "Limelight," the Chaplin picture, an opposition which Brewer endorsed. Lessing said that he is against the principle involved.

Although you may not have heard of Gunther Lessing before, he is actually a person of considerable importance in Hollywood, as chairman of the Independent Motion Picture Producers. Also he is an officer of the Walt Disney Productions. So far as I know, he has no unfavorable personal record of any kind. He does say that for the American Legion or any other organization to express an opinion about a picture, perhaps in strong language, is wrong in principle.

What principle?

The principle of opposition to Communism? The principle of protecting the young against indecency? The principle of not permitting Hollywood to continue as the treasury for the American Communist Party?

Upon what principle does Mr. Lessing wish to put his case? Let us discuss it.

He further objects to Roy Brewer's complaint about large numbers of American stars and large numbers of Hollywood Communists making pictures abroad to the harm of American workers. Lessing is reported by "Variety" to have said:

"What is not good for the country is not good for either union or management. If the union leaders had any sense and went along lines of integrity and morality and not just of what is best for them, they would have a much larger following."

If he really said that, he said nothing because the reason the stars prefer to make pictures in Europe is that it gives them a tax exemption. If they stay out of the country for 18 months, they do not pay an American income tax on their income from that source. Brewer says that about 32 personalities in the motion picture industry will no longer accept assignments to make American pictures unless they are made outside the United States.

In other words, you and I pay taxes because we live here and work here and—what the hell!—this is our country. But these pampered mummers who talk about art and beauty and the higher thoughts, etc., etc., will sell their country down any river to make an extra buck. Let's not help them do it.

As for the Communists, they cannot work in Hollywood, so they work in Italy.

CATARRH WITH DISAGREEABLE ODOR

While there appears to be some help for bad breath by use of various antiseptic mouth washes, tooth powders and pastes, there is the one form of bad breath that seems to defy all local applications and requires general or systemic treatment to obtain results. I refer to what is called atrophic rhinitis, third form of catarrh, ozena, and other names.

In the New England Medical Journal, Dr. H. J. Sternstein (Harvard University) reports his study of 13 patients between the ages of 27 to 73 in whom symptoms had been present for 15 to 50 years.

The outstanding symptoms of atrophic rhinitis are a strong, permeating, offensive odor, due to the extensive formations of green crust, and wasting of the turbinate bones of the nose. Loss of smell is usually a symptom, and there are various organisms present.

Dr. Sternstein treated these cases with antiseptics, which kill harmful organisms, and also by vasodilators, drugs which widen or enlarge the blood vessels thus helping the circulation to and away from the vessels supplying the nose. The drugs were used in one of three ways: streptomycin, histamine and niacin; streptomycin and priscoline (the new drug used successfully in dilating blood vessels and lowering blood pressure); streptomycin, pencillin and prisoline. In addition, bacitracin and gantrisin were used with these combinations.

All patients were advised to stop the nasal irrigations or washing out of nose. Lambs' wool plugs were inserted in each nostril three to four times an hour during the day to stimulate secretion or moisture from the lining of nose and help to remove crusts. Apparently any method that will soften and remove these crusts causes the terrible odor to disappear.

The results obtained by these methods were fairly satisfactory, but long treatment is necessary as results showed that significant improvement was noticeable after the third month of this form of treatment.

I have written before of the success obtained by research workers by use of prostigmin (neostigmin) and also by the use of sex extracts.

As atrophic rhinitis with its disagreeable odor prevents such patients from mingling freely with others, any form of treatment that is reported as successful by outstanding clinicians should be tried.

For ordinary bad breath, many obtian relief by cutting down or avoiding fat foods.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—The dirtiest brat left on the Eisenhower doorstep by the departing Democrats is the now-celebrated international oil cartel case.

The inside story of last-minute handling of this problem child by the Truman administration is just now beginning to come out. It involved a wide split in the Truman cabinet and the National Security Council, which is the top government defense planning group.

The sequence of events leading up to this grand snafu goes back to Iran's 1951 nationalization of its oil properties, then under long lease to the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

In July, 1951, J. Howard McGrath, the U. S. attorney general, granted to Defense Production Administrator C. E. Wilson authority to form a foreign petroleum supply committee from 19 leading U. S. oil companies, with complete immunity from any possible anti-trust prosecution. Purpose of this "voluntary agreement," as it was called, was to help meet the world oil shortage caused by the shutoff of 700,000 barrels of daily oil production from the Iranian fields.

By July, 1952, the world oil supply situation had been largely straightened out. The 19-company "plan for action No. 1," under which this had been accomplished, was therefore suspended.

Two of the companies dropped out of the agreement. But the other 17, continued to work together in a Park avenue, New York, headquarters, which they maintained at their own expense, to furnish the government with world oil supply information on request.

Sought to End Agreement

Last September, however, Attorney General James P. McGranery, who had succeeded McGrath, wrote to Henry H. Fowler, who had succeeded Wilson, that there was no longer any need for continuance of this voluntary agreement among the oil companies. Mr. McGranery requested that their association be suspended. This would automatically end the immunity from possible anti-trust action.

Mr. Fowler wrote back in October that in the opinion of the secretaries of Defense and Interior, the need for government cooperation with the oil companies still existed.

Some areas of the world had only a 10-day reserve of aviation gas on hand. It was necessary for the U. S. government to know what these supplies were at all times. The information could be secured only from the oil companies who could also get information on foreign oil stocks.

In spite of this, Attorney General McGranery on Jan. 7 repeated his request to Mr. Fowler that the voluntary agreement be suspended. The matter was then taken to the cabinet meeting on Jan. 16.

Mr. Fowler explained that with a settlement of the Iranian oil crisis pending, the world oil supply situation might again be upset. He then showed Mr. McGranery an unsigned draft of a letter in which he asked authority to continue the foreign petroleum supply committee.

Mr. McGranery then asked Mr. Fowler not to send that letter until Department of Justice aides were consulted. That same afternoon, however, Mr. McGranery sent to Fowler a third letter asking that he withdraw all requests for continued action under the old agreement.

The apparent reason was that the Department of Justice, with its grand jury investigation of the oil cartel under way, felt that its case would be weakened if the voluntary agreement were continued.

Threw Oil on Fire

In the meantime, the National Security Council had met. On the urging of the secretaries of State and Defense, a flat recommendation was made that the criminal anti-trust case against the oil companies be dropped unconditionally. President Truman approved it.

In place of this, however, an attempt was made by Department of Justice to get the oil companies to agree to continuation of the grand jury investigation and a civil anti-trust action, in exchange for dropping the criminal suit.

That did throw oil on the fire. On Jan. 19, the last day of the Truman administration, Mr. Fowler sent off his letter to Mr. McGranery, urging that the voluntary agreement be continued.

So there the matter rests, until the Eisenhower administration can get together to decide what to do about it.

Sometime soon a Department of Justice attorney must again appear before Federal Judge James R. Kirkland in District of Columbia Court to state the government's further intent in the oil cartel case. Up to now this case has been in charge of Leonard Emmerglick, acting as a special assistant attorney general.

The attorney general, Herbert Brownell, has at this writing given no indication whether Mr. Emmerglick will continue in charge of the case, or what the new administration oil policy will be.

Albany, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Legislature has been asked to bar judges from releasing their decisions directly to newsmen, and to limit this function to official court reporters. The bill introduced yesterday by Sen. John H. Cooke, Alden Republican, would direct the court reporters to release such news "as soon as possible." Cooke said in the bill that it was aimed at "avoiding errors and insuring accuracy and an orderly and uniform reporting of the judicial decisions of the courts." The measure would affect surrogates as well as justices.

Dulles' Speech Viewed as Best Statement on U. S. Foreign Policy Since Roosevelt's in '37

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 29—The address of John Foster Dulles, secretary of state, Tuesday night on the state of the world is the foundation of President Eisenhower's whole program for world peace. It is by far the most enlightening and the most forceful pronouncement on American foreign policy that has been delivered since the famous "quarantine" speech of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1937.

Then as now, America told the world that despotism must be thwarted by the common action of free peoples. But Mr. Dulles has gone further than any of his predecessors. He explains in detail not only why the United States cannot and will not remain aloof from either Asia or Europe but why the United States cannot and will not keep on pouring into allied countries billions of dollars as well as divisions of our troops unless there is "effective unity" among the free nations.

It is at one and the same time a clear presentation to the American people as to why allies are necessary for the actual defense of the United States and a veiled warning to Europe that the American people will have to reexamine their relationship to Europe if the British, the French and the Germans go their separate ways. The exact words of that sensational warning are as follows:

"The United States has made a big investment in Western Europe on the theory that there could be unity there. Of the 40 billion dollars which we have sent abroad since the end of the Second World War, almost 30 billions have gone into Western Europe. If, however, there were no chance, and that I just refuse to believe, but if it appeared there were no chance of getting effective unity, and if in particular France, Germany and England should go their separate ways, then certainly it would be necessary to give a little re-thinking to America's own foreign policy in relation to Western Europe."

Coming, as this statement does, on the eve of the departure of Secretary Dulles for conferences with the top statesmen in Europe, it could have a profound impact on the course of world policy in the years to come.

Mr. Dulles has made the best argument ever made to an American audience as to why the United States must have allies in Asia as well as in Europe, and how the Soviet encroachments will menace America's own safety if not stopped in their tracks. But this address applies equally as well to a European audience. For lately the impression has grown up in Europe that America would keep on sending troops and money indefinitely without a corresponding manifestation of responsibility on the part of European nations hitherto allied with us.

For it might as well be faced—the United Nations is but a forum for debate and, thought it is all-important as an influence on world opinion, the peace of the world will be enforced only by regional alliances and mutual-security pacts based on military and economic resources pooled to give the most effective combination that can be presented against Soviet Russia.

Secretary Dulles significantly pointed to the neglect of Latin America by our own government, but he condoned this as being due merely to our recent preoccupation with Europe and Asia. He indicated, however, that Soviet Russia is busy infiltrating not only in this hemisphere but in Africa as well as in Europe and Asia.

Most encouraging was Mr. Dulles' boldness in taking American policy out of the realm of stagnation and frustration and bringing it, even this early, to a positive stage. His effort to get rid of the inferiority complex of the Truman-Acheson policies is most refreshing.

Those who say they have not seen the differences between the Acheson and Dulles foreign policies need now only to read carefully the Dulles speech to observe the courageous step forward which he takes, especially the release he displays from the curious timidity which has heretofore given the Communists so much to build upon.

"That's a gloomy picture," said Mr. Dulles, after presenting his review of Soviet infiltration in every continent, "but it need not and it must not discourage us. These Russian Communists are not supermen and their strategy is not irresistible. I feel absolutely confident that we can make it fail."

It is logical that Secretary Dulles should withhold details of future policy at this time, but Moscow might as well realize it—the American government isn't afraid of Stalin and his crew, and will not act as if it is either.

"Not only shall we not invoke war," said Secretary Dulles, "to achieve our purposes but we shall try to the best of our ability to stop the wars that are now going on in the world, notably these wars in Korea and Indo-China. Today these wars go on because the enemy thinks he is getting an advantage by continuing the war. I believe that General Eisenhower will find the ways to make the enemy change his mind in that respect so that they too will want peace."

It is especially worth noting that Mr. Dulles speaks of "the enemy" and he does not fail to name names. He says: "We have enemies who are plotting our destruction. These enemies are the Russian Communists and their allies in other countries."

Here is a frankness of statement which has not been matched before. It calls a spade a spade, and notifies Stalin that the American people not only know what is going on but that they will not fail to approve any proper measures to change the situation from a "cold war" to a state of peace. It is a historic utterance.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Jan. 28—During my interview with Carmel Offie, a past member of the weird system of epsionage, cliques and conspiracies operated by our government in cahoots with the AF of L, another man sat by as Offie's friend, putting in explanatory comments. He had had long experience in the State Department but finally had gotten out, convinced that the department was no place for an aggressive anti-Communist. The subject of my mission was not Offie's arrest in 1943 on a charge of homosexual offense but the State Department's cynical resort to the American Federation of Labor as an "instrument" of intrigue and cold warfare in France, Italy, Greece and other "friendly" nations.

I must interrupt myself to say that Offie says he was framed, being slugged by four or five men and thrown into a cell, when he went to a corner of La Fayette Park, across from the White House, to keep a rendezvous in compliance with an official order of the State Department. He abandoned his $25 bond without defending himself. He said neither he nor his lawyer saw the police charge at the time although his lawyer did read it later. I asked him "do you want to see it now?" For I had the record in my hand. Offie said "no." The friend at Offie's side has held the rank of minister and seemed thoroughly versed in the system of intrigue which our State Department and, latterly, the Central Intelligence Agency have borrowed from the old world. He said that, of course, it was very immoral of us to violate the sovereignty of friendly nations in order to wage our politico-military and economic cold war against Soviet Russia. But it was necessary nevertheless. He said the Soviet propaganda was making use of my disclosures to discredit the United States.

Here was the proposition:

The Roosevelt administration had been imbued with a faith in communism as a messianic force which would dominate the world. Therefore anti-Communists were severely persecuted. Offie was a protege of William C. Bullitt, our first ambassador to Soviet Russia, who broke with Roosevelt when he, Bullitt, became disillusioned and begged Roosevelt to get next to himself.

"I was one of the few who got nailed and suffered for fighting them," he said.

The friend at Offie's side went on:

The governments of these friendly countries were not too strong and it was obviously in our interest to move in and keep their native Communists off balance and prevent their seizing control through the political "labor" movement. The obvious way was to muscle into their unions, which are all Socialist political organizations to say the best of them. To be sure this was not the honorable thing to do. After all, we had complained bitterly about the intervention of the Moscow Communists in our internal affairs, mainly through the unions of the CIO. Now we were doing that very thing in many other nations. It was immoral but it was practical and we figured that the AF of L would be the best force at our disposal because it was a "labor" organization. Furthermore the AF of L was politically ambitious, it had almost unlimited money subject to no accounting, and it was not inhibited by ethics or morals.

Thus far, we had given the AF of L about $3,000,000 of the American taxpayers' money to spend secretly for intrigue in

Rent Control Fight Grows in Albany

Albany, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Legislature's dominant GOP ranks are split wider today in a mushrooming battle over rent control.

The issue waged hotter yesterday when two upstate Republicans sponsored companion bills to junk rent restrictions in the 57 counties outside New York city.

The measures were introduced only three weeks after Gov. Dewey had spoken in favor of continuing controls. The governor, however, indicated in his annual message that he favored some relaxation, and urged a "thorough study" of the situation.

Unless the Legislature extends them, rent control in the state will expire next June 30.

The bills to scrap restrictions upstate and on Long Island were introduced by two Erie county Republicans, Sen. John H. Cooke and Assemblyman Julius Volker.

Minority Fight Ahead

The Legislature's Democratic minority earlier this week promised to fight any GOP attempt to remove or weaken the rent control structure.

The Assembly's majority leader, Republican Lee B. Mailler of Orange county, declared in a radio interview last week that housing conditions had improved to a point where "we could eliminate rent control north of New York city."

Mailler made it plain, however, that he was not speaking for the Dewey administration. He also said he would favor a provision for local rent controls in communities with housing shortages.

More fuel is expected to be heaped on the controversy next Tuesday when the temporary state commission on rents holds a public hearing here.

D. Mallory Stephens, commission chairman, said the hearing would deal with state-wide residential controls and with business and commercial rent control laws, which apply only to New York city.

Other Measures

Other measures introduced yesterday would:

Make it unlawful to operate a New York-registered motor vehicle manufactured after Jan. 16, 1956 unless it is equipped with windshield defrosters of an approved type. (Assemblyman Carlo A. Lanzillotti, R.-Long Island City).

Permit workers to claim partial disability from silicosis or other dust diseases in Workmen's Compensation cases.

Make federal income tax payments deductible from taxable income in state returns.

Authorize a legislative investigation to establish a state aviation code and safety regulations. (Sen. Seymour Halpern, R.-Queens).

Require eye examinations and fingerprinting for all persons renewing operators' or chauffeurs' licenses.

Prohibit the manufacture and sale of inflammable clothing. Violations would be punishable by fines up to $500 or one year in prison, or both. (Assemblyman Angelo Graci, R.-Queens).

Europe and the Orient. This money was passed without receipts, book records or accounting.

"Why," I exclaimed, "this is absolutely crazy. I wouldn't trust anybody in the AF of L with $5 on that basis. It is a holding company for the damnedest gang of racketeers in the country and yet we hand it $3,000,000 of our money!"

Nevertheless, something had to be done and the AF of L, he said, seemed the obvious "instrument." By the way, although the CIO has tried to horn into the conspiracy, using Victor Reuther as its European "ambassador," it seems to have been muscled aside by the AF of L crowd.

Well, to proceed:

Carmel Offie had become well acquainted with Irving Brown in Europe about 1946, Brown being, as you may recall, the AF of L's "ambassador" in these foreign plots. So, when the CIA wanted to plant an "adviser" in the AF of L Offie was selected and the AF of L put him on its payroll in May, 1950.

I interrupted to ask pointedly just how the money was transmitted. There must be check-stubs or book entries somewhere. Was it given to George Meaney, Matt Woll and/or Dave Dubinsky in currency or in checks?

Offie simply would not answer. His friend said, "didn't you ever hear of the use of unvouchered funds in the government?"

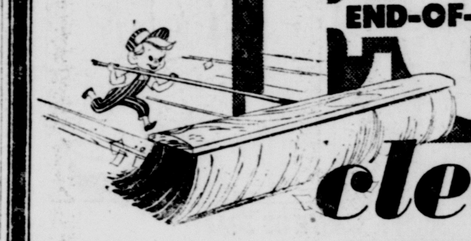

I had. Roosevelt, for example, had millions to do with as he pleased and Congressman John Taber, of New York, a cold-eyed skeptic with no religious faith in Roosevelt's honesty with money, had been unable to learn how many millions much less what he did with it. The figure seemed to be around $25,000,000.

Offie said the AF of L had spent a good deal of its own money. But again he would not say how much. His friend shrugged when I pointed out that the AF of L had absolutely no right to do this with money taken from American working men and women to support their unions solely as "bargaining agents." Maybe this was no proper function of unions. But such was the case just the same. Offie said the Confederation of Free Trade Unions, the flimsy front rigged up by Irving Brown under the direct command of Jay Lovestone and Dubinsky, had "a lousy measly budget of only $120,000 a year." On the other hand, he put in brightly, Dubinsky had "absolutely freedom to use the money of his garment workers" whose treasury of millions lies absolutely under his hand.

Scranton, Pa. (AP)—If you're having trouble with your TV reception, you might try a couple of beer cans as a television antenna. Joseph Srebo reports that his contraption works "almost as good as a regular antenna." He says he merely hung two beer cans outside a window and then connected them to twin lead-ins from his set.

Rent Control Fight Grows in Albany

Albany, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Legislature's dominant GOP ranks are split wider today in a mushrooming battle over rent control.

The issue waged hotter yesterday when two upstate Republicans sponsored companion bills to junk rent restrictions in the 57 counties outside New York city.

The measures were introduced only three weeks after Gov. Dewey had spoken in favor of continuing controls. The governor, however, indicated in his annual message that he favored some relaxation, and urged a "thorough study" of the situation.

"Look, dear! At last I broke him of lying on my feet!"

Dewey Budget

proposed 10-state television network for educational purposes, as advocated by the board of regents.

Total Tax Revenues

6. Total tax revenues for the coming fiscal year are estimated at $1,077,050,000, or $9,225,000 more than in 1952-53. A gross operating surplus of $11,400,650 is predicted in the coming year, compared to $11,479,054 for the current fiscal period.

7. The state crime commission was given $250,000 to wind up its current probes of organized crime by next summer. In addition, Dewey provided funds to pay county costs of special grand jury investigations ordered in Columbia, Richmond and Saratoga counties.

8. The governor indicated he expected President Eisenhower's administration might return to the states some of the federal government's taxing powers to make the state less dependent on Washington for federal financial assistance. To prepare for any such change, Dewey proposed a special study of the state's fiscal policies.

Only 20 Millions Less

The overall budget total if $1,072,484,440 is only 20 million dollars less than that originally proposed by Dewey in his budget message to the Senate and Assembly a year ago. However, his last year's total was boosted to $1,108,846,678 by supplemental appropriations by the legislature.

For the first time, Dewey took excess money from the state's war-bonus account and transferred it to the capital construction fund for highway, hospital and similar permanent projects.

He pointed out that the bonus account, set up to pay off the World War 2 veterans bonus, had accumulated $56,600,000 more than could be used to pay debt service on the bonus bonds in the coming year. He noted that the term bonds could not be paid up ahead of schedule.

Leaves 11 Million Balance

The transfer of the $56,600,000 to the capital construction fund still leaves a balance of 11 million dollars in the bonus account. To build the fund, the state has been setting aside one-ninth of its income tax receipts and collecting an extra cent-a-pack tax on levy on cigarettes.

"I think it desireable to use part of these funds for capital construction rather than recommend a tax increase or the incurring of a new debt," Dewey asserted.

Dewey continued the "spend-as-you-build" financing program he inaugurated last year for capital construction work. Under this system, the state may plan its construction work several years in advance, but need only appropriate enough money each year to take care of what actually can be built.

Slowed by Shortages

He said that the state's construction program in the past year had "been slowed somewhat by shortages of steel and personnel." But he reported that out of a total of 441 million dollars in appropriations available during the year, 130 million will have been spent by April 1 and 186 more put under contract.

For the coming year, Dewey recommended additional appropriations totalling 135 million dollars, of which $54,900,000 is for highways, parkways and grade crossings. Another $31,500,000 goes for new facilities at mental institutes, including buildings to add 1,500 beds at Kings Park, Marcy and Middletown State Hospitals.

For education, he urged appropriation of $8,800,000 for the State Education Department and the State University.

Another $7,300,000 in capital funds was allocated for the first stage of converting Great Meadow prison into a new intermediate reformatory institution for hardened, younger criminals, and for projects at other correction department institutions.

Dewey made public the local assistance section of his proposed 1953-54 budget last Tuesday.

Major Cutback

The governor racked up his major cutback in the new budget on the state purposes section—that for operation of the state government. He slashed almost 29 million dollars for the 1952-53 total of $497,779,481 to push the new total down to $469,064,660.

The major increases in the state purposes budget were for maintenance of the current cost-of-living pay increases for state workers, $4,300,000; higher contributions to the state employers retirement fund, $3,800,000; court of claims judgments, 1 million dollars, and highways maintenance and repair work, 2 million dollars.

The governor recommended that the operating allowance for state mental institutions be increased $817,000, to 119 million dollars. He estimated that the population in such institutions would increase by 2,400 in the coming year.

He also allocated an increase of $224,000 for the state police, to provide enough funds to pay higher salaries for more men authorized by the 1952 legislature. The budget, however, included nothing for expansion of the force from 900 to 1,200 men, as advocated in the governor's message.

Dewey said additional funds for this purpose could be obtained in the supplemental budget. He also has proposed that fees for driving licenses be boosted to help pay the extra cost of more troopers.

Leaves for Korea

Travis Air Force Base, Calif., Jan. 29 (AP)—Maj. John Eisenhower leaves today by plane for Korea and his duties as assistant intelligence officer of the Third Division. He arrived last night after spending part of his inauguration leave with his wife and three children in New York. Eisenhower told reporters he expects seven more months of Korean duty. He had about six months there before former President Truman ordered him home to see his father, Dwight Eisenhower, sworn in as President.

Transportation Is Cub Scout Subject

With Transportation as the theme and a large display of handicraft emphasizing the fact, the Cub Scouts and parents of Pack 15 held their monthly jamboree at Comforter Hall Wednesday evening. Two safety films supplied by the New York Central Railroad through the courtesy of Trainmaster S. J. Keating, were a feature of the evening's program.

Announcements of coming events included the participation of Pack 15 in the Scout Week window display contest beginning February 7; the stressing of church attendance by all Cub Scouts in uniform on Sunday, February 8; the annual Blue and Gold Banquet to be held on Wednesday, Feb. 25, in Comforter Hall with Scout Executive George Dennis as the speaker; and the Mardi Gras celebration planned for the March pack meeting with the den chiefs of Pack 15 in charge of the program.

A new Cub Scout, Edward Sarkies, was received into Den 2 with appropriate ceremonies honoring the entrance of the boy and his parents.

The new parent-attendance award for pack meetings was won jointly by Dens 2 and 5, the latter den having won the former pennant three times in a row and retired it at last month's meeting.

Following the opening flag ceremony for the grand assembly, conducted by members of Den 3 in charge of Boy Scout Den Chief David Eighmey, advancement awards for the past month were made. Den 3 acquired top honors in the advancement awards with Den Mother Lillian Rittie reporting every Cub Scout in her den receiving an award for the month. Awards for the month were as follows:

Dewey Budget

proposed 10-state television network for educational purposes, as advocated by the board of regents.

Total Tax Revenues

6. Total tax revenues for the coming fiscal year are estimated at $1,077,050,000, or $9,225,000 more than in 1952-53. A gross operating surplus of $11,400,650 is predicted in the coming year, compared to $11,479,054 for the current fiscal period.

7. The state crime commission was given $250,000 to wind up its current probes of organized crime by next summer. In addition, Dewey provided funds to pay county costs of special grand jury investigations ordered in Columbia, Richmond and Saratoga counties.

8. The governor indicated he expected President Eisenhower's administration might return to the states some of the federal government's taxing powers to make the state less dependent on Washington for federal financial assistance. To prepare for any such change, Dewey proposed a special study of the state's fiscal policies.

Only 20 Millions Less

The overall budget total if $1,072,484,440 is only 20 million dollars less than that originally proposed by Dewey in his budget message to the Senate and Assembly a year ago. However, his last year's total was boosted to $1,108,846,678 by supplemental appropriations by the legislature.

For the first time, Dewey took excess money from the state's war-bonus account and transferred it to the capital construction fund for highway, hospital and similar permanent projects.

He pointed out that the bonus account, set up to pay off the World War 2 veterans bonus, had accumulated $56,600,000 more than could be used to pay debt service on the bonus bonds in the coming year. He noted that the term bonds could not be paid up ahead of schedule.

Leaves 11 Million Balance

The transfer of the $56,600,000 to the capital construction fund still leaves a balance of 11 million dollars in the bonus account. To build the fund, the state has been setting aside one-ninth of its income tax receipts and collecting an extra cent-a-pack tax on levy on cigarettes.

"I think it desireable to use part of these funds for capital construction rather than recommend a tax increase or the incurring of a new debt," Dewey asserted.

Dewey continued the "spend-as-you-build" financing program he inaugurated last year for capital construction work. Under this system, the state may plan its construction work several years in advance, but need only appropriate enough money each year to take care of what actually can be built.

Slowed by Shortages

He said that the state's construction program in the past year had "been slowed somewhat by shortages of steel and personnel." But he reported that out of a total of 441 million dollars in appropriations available during the year, 130 million will have been spent by April 1 and 186 more put under contract.

For the coming year, Dewey recommended additional appropriations totalling 135 million dollars, of which $54,900,000 is for highways, parkways and grade crossings. Another $31,500,000 goes for new facilities at mental institutes, including buildings to add 1,500 beds at Kings Park, Marcy and Middletown State Hospitals.

For education, he urged appropriation of $8,800,000 for the State Education Department and the State University.

Another $7,300,000 in capital funds was allocated for the first stage of converting Great Meadow prison into a new intermediate reformatory institution for hardened, younger criminals, and for projects at other correction department institutions.

Dewey made public the local assistance section of his proposed 1953-54 budget last Tuesday.

Major Cutback

The governor racked up his major cutback in the new budget on the state purposes section—that for operation of the state government. He slashed almost 29 million dollars for the 1952-53 total of $497,779,481 to push the new total down to $469,064,660.

The major increases in the state purposes budget were for maintenance of the current cost-of-living pay increases for state workers, $4,300,000; higher contributions to the state employers retirement fund, $3,800,000; court of claims judgments, 1 million dollars, and highways maintenance and repair work, 2 million dollars.

The governor recommended that the operating allowance for state mental institutions be increased $817,000, to 119 million dollars. He estimated that the population in such institutions would increase by 2,400 in the coming year.

He also allocated an increase of $224,000 for the state police, to provide enough funds to pay higher salaries for more men authorized by the 1952 legislature. The budget, however, included nothing for expansion of the force from 900 to 1,200 men, as advocated in the governor's message.

Dewey said additional funds for this purpose could be obtained in the supplemental budget. He also has proposed that fees for driving licenses be boosted to help pay the extra cost of more troopers.

Leaves for Korea

Travis Air Force Base, Calif., Jan. 29 (AP)—Maj. John Eisenhower leaves today by plane for Korea and his duties as assistant intelligence officer of the Third Division. He arrived last night after spending part of his inauguration leave with his wife and three children in New York. Eisenhower told reporters he expects seven more months of Korean duty. He had about six months there before former President Truman ordered him home to see his father, Dwight Eisenhower, sworn in as President.

Boy Scout News

Transportation Is Cub Scout Subject

With Transportation as the theme and a large display of handicraft emphasizing the fact, the Cub Scouts and parents of Pack 15 held their monthly jamboree at Comforter Hall Wednesday evening. Two safety films supplied by the New York Central Railroad through the courtesy of Trainmaster S. J. Keating, were a feature of the evening's program.

Announcements of coming events included the participation of Pack 15 in the Scout Week window display contest beginning February 7; the stressing of church attendance by all Cub Scouts in uniform on Sunday, February 8; the annual Blue and Gold Banquet to be held on Wednesday, Feb. 25, in Comforter Hall with Scout Executive George Dennis as the speaker; and the Mardi Gras celebration planned for the March pack meeting with the den chiefs of Pack 15 in charge of the program.

A new Cub Scout, Edward Sarkies, was received into Den 2 with appropriate ceremonies honoring the entrance of the boy and his parents.

The new parent-attendance award for pack meetings was won jointly by Dens 2 and 5, the latter den having won the former pennant three times in a row and retired it at last month's meeting.

Woman's Death Is Being Investigated

State police and the district attorney's office are investigating the death on Wednesday of Harriet Lee Mason Martin, 40, of RD 1, Kerhonkson, who was found lying in a ditch along the Granite road, a short distance from her home.

She was found by highway department workers at 8:15 a. m. and died several minutes later, state police said.

Dr. Charles Rosenstock of Ellenville, Ulster county coroner, was notified and ordered an autopsy.

The cause of death is unknown, pending the laboratory examination of the body which was taken to the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home in Kerhonkson.

Stone Ridge Man Dies of Gunshot; Is Called Suicide

Samuel Nelson Abbott, 78, was found dead of a gunshot wound at his home in Stone Ridge about noon Wednesday.

Dr. Charles Rosenstock of Ellenville, Ulster county coroner, issued a verdict of death by suicide.

The sheriff's office was notified and Jailor Carl Cline conducted an investigation.

According to the report, a rifle was used to inflict the fatal wound.

Dr. Rosenstock authorized Arthur C. Chipp, former county coroner, to move the body to the H. B. Humison Funeral Home in Kerhonkson.

Engineer Dies in Station

Asks Federal Aid

Albany, Jan. 29 (AP)—The state's public works chief today urged a new system of federal highway aid to "coordinate new highways into a national system." Bertram D. Tallamy proposed the change in an address at the annual meeting of the state's County Highway Superintendents Association. He said the growing nationwide network of toll roads, such as New York's Thruway, were being built without an overall plan.

Commemorates Teddy

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—Rep. Kean (R-N.J.) asked Congress today to make it clear that the Roosevelt Memorial Association commemorates Theodore Roosevelt—not Franklin D. Roosevelt. He introduced legislation to change the name of the Roosevelt Memorial Association to the Theodore Roosevelt Association and, he said, "thereby eliminate any confusion in the public eye."

Placement Is Blamed

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP) — An Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) safety expert today blamed what he called an incorrectly placed air valve for the wreck of Washington's runaway train. Howard R. Longhurst, an oldtime railroader who has been an ICC safety inspector for five years, testified concerning the wreck at Union Station on Jan. 15. "It would appear that the angle cock at the north end of car 8665 (the third car in the wrecked train) was incorrectly located in relation to the center end sill," Longhurst said. "It further appears the top position of the angle cock was striking the bottom of the center end sill frequently and with sufficient force to result in the complete closing of the air passage."

Late Bulletin

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today approved two top diplomatic appointees after Secretary of State Dulles sent up a letter vouching for their loyalty.

They were Winthrop W. Aldrich to be ambassador to Great Britain and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord to be U. S. representative on the United Nations Human Rights Commission.

The approval came quickly after the two had testified before the group in a 90-minute hearing. Mrs. Lord won a unanimous vote. One senator, Langer (R.-N. D.), voted against Aldrich, a New York banker.

The two nominations were the first heard under a new emergency procedure under which Dulles vouches for the loyalty of the nominee. This waives a requirement that an FBI report be in hand before the committee acts.

Would Check Communism

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—A bill asking Congress to investigate communism on the nation's waterfronts was introduced today by Rep. Heller (D.-N.Y.). The bill would set up a seven-member committee to undertake an immediate study of "Communist activities among merchant seamen, their unions and in the transportation industries generally." Heller said in a statement that "even more important" than the recent revelations of graft and crime uncovered along the waterfronts of New York city and New Jersey and other dock areas is "the fact that our national interests and our security may be jeopardized as a result of these practices."

No Injuries Reported

Occupants of two cars in collision at Broadway and Pine Grove avenue last night escaped uninjured. A police report at 6:15 p. m., said a car owned and operated by John Tyler Godbey, 31, of 255 Delaware avenue, was headed east on Pine Grove avenue, and one operated by Mrs. Leona Garrity, of Glasco was going across Broadway out of Grand street at the time. Officers Ernest Bartroff and Louis Sapp, Jr., investigated.

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—Fairly liberal demand for a rather broad group of issues today sent the stock market ahead moderately.

Rails, motors, and aircrafts gathered in most of the attention along with a handful of utilities.

Gains were largely fractional but they extended out to around 2 points at times. Losses were small but in a few instances went to around a point.

Steels held steady. Youngstown Sheet & Tubs reported 1952 earnings equal to $6.84 a share as compared with $9.14 a share the previous year. That's about in line with other steel company profits that were hit by the lengthy strike last year.

New York Central gained a fraction. It reported net income last year equal to $3.83 as against $2.28 the previous year.

Morgan Hill . . .

of tea constituted the entire breakfast for another youngster.

Once when a schooltime snack of toast and jam was provided by the teacher, a youngster ate seven slices.

Has Purchased Milk

Mrs. Fafejta often brings a loaf of bread and some jam which she makes herself. She has a toaster in the school building. On occasion in the past, it was learned, she had purchased milk for the pupils but it is impossible to continue that practice for long on a teacher's salary. She does have a number of good friends who assist her at times with items for her pupils.

She has discussed the school lunch program with her trustee and with Clarence A. Johnson, supervisory principal, and has been given the proper application forms to fill out to obtain surplus foods.

Filled Forms Five Times

Five times this year, Mrs. Fafetja has filled out the forms and sent them, as per instructions, to the State Education Department's Foods Distribution Unit. So far, all the school has received has been two more blank forms—the same as those she sent in— with a letter advising that they must be signed by a school trustee and not by a teacher or principal.

Mrs. Fafejta says that the forms she had sent in were signed by Michael Zito, the one and only trustee of the school district, known as Common District No. 8. At present, Zito is out of town and just what to do about the current forms is the question.

Some Sporadic Help

In the past, there have been some sporadic shipments made available. Two years ago, there was a bag of potatoes, which Mrs. Fafejta made up into scalloped potatoes, providing her own milk and seasoning, and which she kept warm on the school's space heater. Last year there were four cases of apples which the teacher had to drive to Clintondale to pick up, and there have been various fruit juices, honey, and even a quantity of pecans.

Inquiries from several sources disclosed that the type of assistance available to schools varies according to qualifications, most of which concern facilities.

Must Have Facilities

To be eligible for the full federally subsidized school lunch program, a school must have cafeteria facilities, which of course the one-room Morgan Hill school does not have.

Other lunch or "snack" programs are available, the one applying to schools of the smaller type being the one under which certain surplus foods such as the apples, honey and fruit juices mentioned above were obtained.

Whether or not the school has running water apparently figures in the picture, and the Morgan Hill school does not. It gets its water from a pump in the front yard.

Concern for Sanitation

The insistance that schools be equipped to handle lunch programs, a Welfare Department official pointed out, was due probably to concern for sanitation requirements. The matter of keeping food in storage; facilities to properly wash the dishes used and other considerations enter in the decision.

But, as Mrs. Fafejta will point out, it is most often the schools that cannot afford the needed facilities that need the help the most.

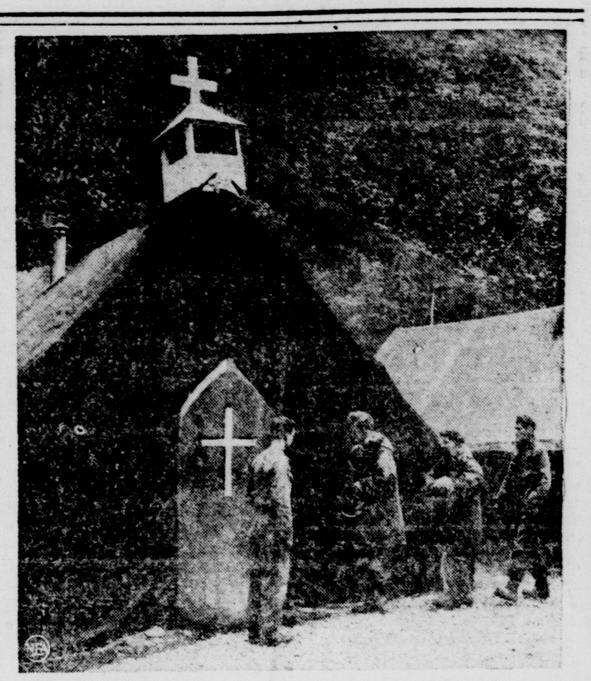

The "red tape" surrounding the food distribution program undoubtedly grew up because of past abuses in various parts of the state. One source recalled some years ago when the ingredients for making cookies were distributed to parents of pupils in one school, and the parents were to take them home and bake cookies to be returned to the school and distributed to the pupils. When the cookies came back, there was an obvious discrepency between the number of cookies and the amount of ingredients.

Although the problem at the Morgan Hill school concerns nutrition, it is not in itself a matter for either the Welfare Department or the Health Department.

In specific cases of malnutrition, either department can be called in, depending upon circumstances. The Welfare Department can provide assistance to families unable to provide for themselves, and has been doing so in some cases. The Health Department, whose staff nurses visit county schools on the lookout for such things as malnutrition, also will send public health nurses to the home to instruct mothers in providing properly balanced meals on limited budgets.

Sponsor German Doctor

Philadelphia (AP) — Because a German doctor gave of his skill and friendship to heal an injured GI, the doctor is planning to set up a medical practice in America, thanks to the GI's parents. Dr. Walter Burgmayer, 26, a German civilian attached to the Army hospital staff, set the broken bones sustained by Cpl. Albert Kessler, 24, when he fell 150 feet in a mountain-climbing accident in the Bavarian Alps last April. The soldier's father sponsored Burgmayer's immigration to America. The doctor, who arrived here recently, will go to Illinois for a year's internship before taking medical exams.

Woman's Death Is Being Investigated

State police and the district attorney's office are investigating the death on Wednesday of Harriet Lee Mason Martin, 40, of RD 1, Kerhonkson, who was found lying in a ditch along the Granite road, a short distance from her home.

She was found by highway department workers at 8:15 a. m. and died several minutes later, state police said.

Dr. Charles Rosenstock of Ellenville, Ulster county coroner, was notified and ordered an autopsy.

The cause of death is unknown, pending the laboratory examination of the body which was taken to the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home in Kerhonkson.

Stone Ridge Man Dies of Gunshot; Is Called Suicide

Samuel Nelson Abbott, 78, was found dead of a gunshot wound at his home in Stone Ridge about noon Wednesday.

Dr. Charles Rosenstock of Ellenville, Ulster county coroner, issued a verdict of death by suicide.

The sheriff's office was notified and Jailor Carl Cline conducted an investigation.

According to the report, a rifle was used to inflict the fatal wound.

Dr. Rosenstock authorized Arthur C. Chipp, former county coroner, to move the body to the H. B. Humison Funeral Home in Kerhonkson.

Engineer Dies in Station

Asks Federal Aid

Albany, Jan. 29 (AP)—The state's public works chief today urged a new system of federal highway aid to "coordinate new highways into a national system." Bertram D. Tallamy proposed the change in an address at the annual meeting of the state's County Highway Superintendents Association. He said the growing nationwide network of toll roads, such as New York's Thruway, were being built without an overall plan.

Commemorates Teddy

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—Rep. Kean (R-N.J.) asked Congress today to make it clear that the Roosevelt Memorial Association commemorates Theodore Roosevelt—not Franklin D. Roosevelt. He introduced legislation to change the name of the Roosevelt Memorial Association to the Theodore Roosevelt Association and, he said, "thereby eliminate any confusion in the public eye."

Late Bulletin

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today approved two top diplomatic appointees after Secretary of State Dulles sent up a letter vouching for their loyalty.

They were Winthrop W. Aldrich to be ambassador to Great Britain and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord to be U. S. representative on the United Nations Human Rights Commission.

The approval came quickly after the two had testified before the group in a 90-minute hearing. Mrs. Lord won a unanimous vote. One senator, Langer (R.-N. D.), voted against Aldrich, a New York banker.

The two nominations were the first heard under a new emergency procedure under which Dulles vouches for the loyalty of the nominee. This waives a requirement that an FBI report be in hand before the committee acts.

Would Check Communism

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—A bill asking Congress to investigate communism on the nation's waterfronts was introduced today by Rep. Heller (D.-N.Y.). The bill would set up a seven-member committee to undertake an immediate study of "Communist activities among merchant seamen, their unions and in the transportation industries generally." Heller said in a statement that "even more important" than the recent revelations of graft and crime uncovered along the waterfronts of New York city and New Jersey and other dock areas is "the fact that our national interests and our security may be jeopardized as a result of these practices."

No Injuries Reported

Occupants of two cars in collision at Broadway and Pine Grove avenue last night escaped uninjured. A police report at 6:15 p. m., said a car owned and operated by John Tyler Godbey, 31, of 255 Delaware avenue, was headed east on Pine Grove avenue, and one operated by Mrs. Leona Garrity, of Glasco was going across Broadway out of Grand street at the time. Officers Ernest Bartroff and Louis Sapp, Jr., investigated.

Bridge Bid Received

Albany, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Public Works Department today received a low bid of $3,182,265 for construction of 1.6 miles of steel superstructure on the New York State Thruway's Tappan Zee Bridge between South Nyack and Tarrytown. The low bid was submitted by the American Bridge Division of the U. S. Steel Corp., of New York city.

Morgan Hill . . .

of tea constituted the entire breakfast for another youngster.

Once when a schooltime snack of toast and jam was provided by the teacher, a youngster ate seven slices.

Has Purchased Milk

Mrs. Fafejta often brings a loaf of bread and some jam which she makes herself. She has a toaster in the school building. On occasion in the past, it was learned, she had purchased milk for the pupils but it is impossible to continue that practice for long on a teacher's salary. She does have a number of good friends who assist her at times with items for her pupils.

She has discussed the school lunch program with her trustee and with Clarence A. Johnson, supervisory principal, and has been given the proper application forms to fill out to obtain surplus foods.

Filled Forms Five Times

Five times this year, Mrs. Fafetja has filled out the forms and sent them, as per instructions, to the State Education Department's Foods Distribution Unit. So far, all the school has received has been two more blank forms—the same as those she sent in— with a letter advising that they must be signed by a school trustee and not by a teacher or principal.

Mrs. Fafejta says that the forms she had sent in were signed by Michael Zito, the one and only trustee of the school district, known as Common District No. 8. At present, Zito is out of town and just what to do about the current forms is the question.

Some Sporadic Help

In the past, there have been some sporadic shipments made available. Two years ago, there was a bag of potatoes, which Mrs. Fafejta made up into scalloped potatoes, providing her own milk and seasoning, and which she kept warm on the school's space heater. Last year there were four cases of apples which the teacher had to drive to Clintondale to pick up, and there have been various fruit juices, honey, and even a quantity of pecans.

Inquiries from several sources disclosed that the type of assistance available to schools varies according to qualifications, most of which concern facilities.

Must Have Facilities

To be eligible for the full federally subsidized school lunch program, a school must have cafeteria facilities, which of course the one-room Morgan Hill school does not have.

Other lunch or "snack" programs are available, the one applying to schools of the smaller type being the one under which certain surplus foods such as the apples, honey and fruit juices mentioned above were obtained.

Whether or not the school has running water apparently figures in the picture, and the Morgan Hill school does not. It gets its water from a pump in the front yard.

Concern for Sanitation

The insistance that schools be equipped to handle lunch programs, a Welfare Department official pointed out, was due probably to concern for sanitation requirements. The matter of keeping food in storage; facilities to properly wash the dishes used and other considerations enter in the decision.

But, as Mrs. Fafejta will point out, it is most often the schools that cannot afford the needed facilities that need the help the most.

The "red tape" surrounding the food distribution program undoubtedly grew up because of past abuses in various parts of the state. One source recalled some years ago when the ingredients for making cookies were distributed to parents of pupils in one school, and the parents were to take them home and bake cookies to be returned to the school and distributed to the pupils. When the cookies came back, there was an obvious discrepency between the number of cookies and the amount of ingredients.

Although the problem at the Morgan Hill school concerns nutrition, it is not in itself a matter for either the Welfare Department or the Health Department.

In specific cases of malnutrition, either department can be called in, depending upon circumstances. The Welfare Department can provide assistance to families unable to provide for themselves, and has been doing so in some cases. The Health Department, whose staff nurses visit county schools on the lookout for such things as malnutrition, also will send public health nurses to the home to instruct mothers in providing properly balanced meals on limited budgets.

For a delicious luncheon dish spread toast with deviled ham and top with creamed eggs. Serve with a crunchy carrot and green pepper slaw for good texture and color contrast.

Sponsor German Doctor

Philadelphia (AP) — Because a German doctor gave of his skill and friendship to heal an injured GI, the doctor is planning to set up a medical practice in America, thanks to the GI's parents. Dr. Walter Burgmayer, 26, a German civilian attached to the Army hospital staff, set the broken bones sustained by Cpl. Albert Kessler, 24, when he fell 150 feet in a mountain-climbing accident in the Bavarian Alps last April. The soldier's father sponsored Burgmayer's immigration to America. The doctor, who arrived here recently, will go to Illinois for a year's internship before taking medical exams.

Dulles Vouches

each nominee before conducting its hearings on him.

Two Are Heard

Two of the five persons covered in today's letter were on hand to be heard by the committee today.

They were Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, named as U. S. representative on the United Nations Human Rights Commission and Winthrop W. Aldrich, nominated as ambassador to Great Britain.

The Dulles letter also covered Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, President Eisenhower's choice for undersecretary of state; James Bryant Conant, named as high commissioner to Germany; and Herman Phleger, the selection for general counsel of the department.

The pile-up developed after the committee decided not to act on confirming any state department appointments until the FBI had made a security check.

The committee waived this rule in approving five top foreign policy officials, Dulles included, and then went back to it. Further hearings were delayed pending reports from the FBI.

Wiley commented yesterday: "It was a good procedure, but it didn't work."

Takes Two Months

The reason, he said, was that it takes up to two months for an FBI field investigation.

Dulles had written Wiley that it was of the utmost importance to get his new state department team into office at once.

The secretary said five nominations were held up in committee. About 125 others, he said, would be submitted in the next few weeks.

The committee thereupon set up an emergency procedure.

Under it, Dulles will write a letter assuring the senators each appointee is loyal and a good security risk. The committee then will hold its hearing and vote on the nominee. The FBI check will proceed, with the understanding that any appointee confirmed under this procedure would be fired if the FBI report showed such action to be necessary.

Credit Cooperative Is Owned by Members

January 1 marked the completion of the first year that members of the Farmers Production Credit Association of Middletown had fully owned their own credit cooperative. Previously a part of the capital stock was individually owned by the government through the Farm Credit Administration. Full farmer ownership has been the goal of the association ever since its formation in January, 1934.

According to the figures just released by Zar Benedict, secretary-treasurer, the association hit a new peak in loans outstanding of $1,388,544, with total loans for the year 1952 amounting to $2,274,714. The membership of 844 stockholders own $158,910 of capital stock in the organization as well as $145,925 in reserves. Operating loans for the purchase of livestock, feed, seed, fertilizer and machinery are made to all types of farming enterprises.

John L. Schoonmaker of Accord, a member of the board of directors since 1934, is currently serving as president. The other directors are Dewey Carr of Ferndale, vice-president, Melford Hurd of Clintondale, Charles Hufcut of Circleville and George Kohler of Chester. A branch office of the association is located at 54 John street, Kingston, and serves Ulster county. C. Kenneth Taber has been in charge of this office since it was opened in 1943.

Suspect on Way Back to Connecticut

William Davis, left, leaves Essex County prosecutor's office in Newark, N. J., en route back to Westport, Conn., where he is charged with murder in strangle-slaying of Mrs. Senada (Penny) Coats Evans. He is in the custody of Capt. Edward Capasse of the Westport police. Police said Davis, 29-year-old handyman, admitted slaying Mrs. Evans at her Westport home. At right is Jennie Allen who was with Davis when he was captured in Newark.

Davis' Statement

having sexually attacked Mrs. Evans.

Newsmen were unable to learn last night if he repeated this alleged statement during his questioning in a second floor room at Town Hall where he was taken after having eaten a hearty supper in a police cell.

County Detective John Hanusovsky made it clear to newsmen, as Davis was brought from his cell, that there would be no statement on the results of the questioning.

Acts on Orders

He said he was acting on orders issued by Willis, who was not available for comment.

The questioning which consumed several hours was participated in by Mrs. Virginia P. Boyd, town court prosecutor and Det. Capt. Edward Capassi of the Westport police.

Meanwhile, private funeral services were to be held here today for Mrs. Evans, arranged by her estranged husband, Montgomery Evans, 2d, a New York writer, after telephone consultation with her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Coates of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Coates were not to be present at the services, nor could it be learned where burial would take place.

Juin Criticizes U. S.

Paris, Jan. 29 (AP)—France's No. 1 soldier, Marshal Alphonse Juin, was credited today with new remarks critical of the United States. The independent paper Paris Presse said he told the Institute of Higher American Studies the U. S. "must carry a big responsibility" for Russia's present threat to Europe because America let the Soviets into Germany. After the publication, the semi-official French press agency in a note to editors said the institute's meetings were private and Juin's remarks were not for publication.

Wichita, Kas., Jan. 29 (AP)—"Shame on You" traffic tickets were handed to 857 motorists during a 24-hour period yesterday in lieu of regular tickets that ordinarily would cost violators from $1 up. On one side the cards said, "Shame on You." On the other they asked cooperation in halting violations. Officers, however, bypassed the courtesy card treatment in four cases. They considered the cases so serious the offenders were arrested.

Union to Get Plan

of the company remain away from the plant. When 14 "bridgers" left their job on Monday, followed by an additional 25 workers in the same department on Tuesday, succeeding operation workers along the production line had to be "furloughed" because of lack of work.

The work stoppage by the "bridging" department was called when an increase in wages sought by the 14 was not granted. A demand for an increase in wages was made by the workers in that department last fall and the matter had been pending since then it was said. Monday they walked off the job.

Met With Union, Management

In Albany at the District office, Regional Director Lee Hoover has called the strike "unauthorized" but he said he would do everything in his power to get the people back to work. As a result he came to Kingston yesterday and met with the local union officials and management.

"Bridgers" consider themselves highly skilled workers and on their work depends operation of a large portion of the plant. The "bridgers" are engaged in welding small platinum wires on the exploders or caps and the operation is a highly skilled operation as well as a fast operation. A skilled "bridger" turns out several thousand caps during a shift.

At the plant today it was stated that all employes, about half the staff, not depending on the struck department were at work as usual.

Assault Charge Dismissed

City Judge Raymond J. Mino today dismissed a third degree assault charge against John Melnik, 26, of 33 Abeel street, when the complainant failed to appear in court. Officers Ernest Bartroff and Louis Sapp, Jr., were sent to the house following a request for police at 6:58 p. m., and Melnik was arrested by his wife, Marilyn, the report said.

Wichita, Kas., Jan. 29 (AP)—"Shame on You" traffic tickets were handed to 857 motorists during a 24-hour period yesterday in lieu of regular tickets that ordinarily would cost violators from $1 up. On one side the cards said, "Shame on You." On the other they asked cooperation in halting violations. Officers, however, bypassed the courtesy card treatment in four cases. They considered the cases so serious the offenders were arrested.

Union to Get Plan

of the company remain away from the plant. When 14 "bridgers" left their job on Monday, followed by an additional 25 workers in the same department on Tuesday, succeeding operation workers along the production line had to be "furloughed" because of lack of work.

The work stoppage by the "bridging" department was called when an increase in wages sought by the 14 was not granted. A demand for an increase in wages was made by the workers in that department last fall and the matter had been pending since then it was said. Monday they walked off the job.

Met With Union, Management

In Albany at the District office, Regional Director Lee Hoover has called the strike "unauthorized" but he said he would do everything in his power to get the people back to work. As a result he came to Kingston yesterday and met with the local union officials and management.

"Bridgers" consider themselves highly skilled workers and on their work depends operation of a large portion of the plant. The "bridgers" are engaged in welding small platinum wires on the exploders or caps and the operation is a highly skilled operation as well as a fast operation. A skilled "bridger" turns out several thousand caps during a shift.

At the plant today it was stated that all employes, about half the staff, not depending on the struck department were at work as usual.

Assault Charge Dismissed

City Judge Raymond J. Mino today dismissed a third degree assault charge against John Melnik, 26, of 33 Abeel street, when the complainant failed to appear in court. Officers Ernest Bartroff and Louis Sapp, Jr., were sent to the house following a request for police at 6:58 p. m., and Melnik was arrested by his wife, Marilyn, the report said.

One Crashes, Two Missing

Seattle, Jan. 29 (AP)—One plane was known today to have crashed and two others were missing and presumed down in the latest series of aviation disasters along the North Pacific rim. Twenty-two persons aboard the three planes were missing, including Capt. Julian D. Greer, commander of Fleet Air Wing 6, stationed at the Alameda Naval Air Station, Calif. A total of 298 persons had been known dead or were missing in 10 previous military plane disasters around the North Pacific rim from Tokyo to Alaska to Montana which started last Nov. 7.

Salute to a New Free World

Safe in a West Berlin center after flight from the Soviet sector, a German grandmother and her somewhat perturbed grandson prepare to start a new life in the west sector. The increasing flow of refugees from the east is posing a growing problem for West Berlin authorities as emergency living quarters prove inadequate for the daily arrivals.

Watchman Tells Of Vacations, Car And Bank Account

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—A $4,200 a year pier watchman testified today he spent $2,500 on Florida vacations from 1950 to 1952, paid $3,400 on a Cadillac automobile and put more than $1,000 in a bank.

William Cox, slight and bespectacled, told his story at the State Crime Commission's open hearing into crime on the waterfront.

Cox vowed that his earnings as a watchman on Hudson river piers of the United Fruit Lines were his only source of income.

The 50-year-old witness said he had a son in college, another son in the army and a daughter who worked.

Tells of College Costs

Commission Counsel Theodore W. Kiendl asked who had paid the $1,200 a year expenses of his son in college during the past three years. Cox said his soldier son and his daughter took care of it.

To a question whether he kept "large sums of money at home in cash," Cox said he did but that he could not say how much.

He said he also owned 20 shares of United Fruit stock.

He denied he had any income from boss loaders at piers where he worked.

Four dock watchmen testified yesterday they were beaten or otherwise intimidated when they tried to stop cargo thievery and maintain order along the racket-ridden waterfront.

sible and uncoordinated supervision and direction."

Johnston also said "we are losing the respect and good will" of the peoples in western Europe despite the help they have received from this country in rebuilding their economies since the war.

Tend to Breed Disgust

He said "our wasteful practices," the large number and "plush living" of U. S. employes abroad and the extent of the government's operations tend to breed "disgust, suspicion, contempt and jealousy."

Aside from the curtailment of what he called "useless" activities, Johnston called for the development of uniform personnel policies for overseas employes, centralization of authority in the regular departments of government, improved accounting and auditing procedures and, insofar as possible, elimination of "blanket" appropriations and transfers of funds for foreign activities.

Nursery Enrollment Is Higher Than 1952

Woodstock, Jan. 29 — Enrollment at the Tinker Street Cooperative Nursery School, it has been reported, is higher than it was this time last winter. Now in its third year of existence, the school is state-approved and has a qualified teacher, Mrs. Raymond Gilkey.

New students at the school are becoming acquainted with the daily routine. Outdoors there is the jungle gym, the swing, slide, sleds and boxes. Much of this equipment has been built by the fathers. Indoors there is play with clay, puzzles, painting at the easels with a recess for juice and crackers. Both the teacher and a mother on duty for the morning participate in the story-telling hour, followed by rhythmic dancing and band activities. Later the children are encouraged to dress themselves for further outdoor activity.

Parents who participate in the program find that this type of school is invaluable for themselves as well as for their children. They actively assist with the management and in making the policies of the school. Mothers who assist the teacher one morning a week pay a reduced tuition at the school.

Nursery Enrollment Is Higher Than 1952

Woodstock, Jan. 29 — Enrollment at the Tinker Street Cooperative Nursery School, it has been reported, is higher than it was this time last winter. Now in its third year of existence, the school is state-approved and has a qualified teacher, Mrs. Raymond Gilkey.

New students at the school are becoming acquainted with the daily routine. Outdoors there is the jungle gym, the swing, slide, sleds and boxes. Much of this equipment has been built by the fathers. Indoors there is play with clay, puzzles, painting at the easels with a recess for juice and crackers. Both the teacher and a mother on duty for the morning participate in the story-telling hour, followed by rhythmic dancing and band activities. Later the children are encouraged to dress themselves for further outdoor activity.

Parents who participate in the program find that this type of school is invaluable for themselves as well as for their children. They actively assist with the management and in making the policies of the school. Mothers who assist the teacher one morning a week pay a reduced tuition at the school.

Classes in Pottery Will Begin Feb. 3

Woodstock, Jan. 29—The latest project sponsored by the Vocational Hand Arts and Crafts Program for Adults of the State of New York in conjunction with the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, will be a class in pottery at the studio of Bill Miller to the rear of the Catskill Book and Record Shop. The first class will be held Tuesday, Feb. 3, beginning at 7:30. The class session will be divided into four, 40-minute periods. The course will last for 10 weeks.

Should a sufficient number of students enroll in the class afternoon classes will also be held. Those interested in joining the class are requested to see Mrs. Bert Wangler or Miss Florence Hubbard at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen. A registration fee of $5 will be charged.

At the first class period Bill Miller will give a lecture and demonstration. A well-known exponent of the deft handling of the potters wheel, Miller will give varied instruction in the potters craft.

Stevens is interested in having Woodstock artists represented at his gallery and those interested are requested to communicate with him at Suffern for further information.

P-TA to Give Play

Woodstock, Jan. 29—A one-act play titled Fresh, Variable Winds will be performed at the Parent-Teacher Association meeting Thursday, Feb. 5, at 8 p. m.

Under the direction of Mrs. Donald Twine, the play gives an engaging picture of problems that face parents today. In the case are Edwin Ruff, who plays Jeff, a young father; Roger Dordick, his troubled son, Tucky; Mrs. Verna Herbert, who will be kindly Aunt May; Hannah Barth, as Helen, another child; and Jo McKim Chalmers, who plays Helen's obnoxious mother. Theodore Lee will act as moderator for the discussion following the play.

Joyce-Schirick Post and Auxiliary Observe VFW Week in Community

The Joyce-Schirick Post 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars, joins this week with hundreds of thousands of VFW members throughout the world in the observance of National VFW Week, January 25-31, it was announced today by local Commander Morgan Ryan.

The post, which was organized in 1926, and its auxiliary, now five years old, is "not concerned with veterans and their dependents alone, but has a general regard for the welfare of all our citizens in every walk of life," Ryan stated. The list of civic activities by the post and its distaff auxiliary is an imposing one.

"Many of our comrades," Ryan stated, "are once again in uniform, some in cantonments in this country performing peace-time duties, a great number of others in the Korea theatre fighting Communist hordes.

"This is a week set apart for members to inform the public about their 'good outfit,' as we call it. Everywhere the VFW story is being told—the story of what this organization of veterans of overseas wartime service is doing to minimize distressing internal conditions which can cause new wars and to combat the evil designs of certain countries against American peace and freedom.

"Ours is an organization which takes pride in carrying on an active, never-ending campaign to preserve American liberties and institutions from foes both within and without our borders. Though the great majority of our comrades in the VFW are now out of uniform, yet they are still in America's service. There they will always remain, in peace-time as in war, fighting for all the precepts that have made this country great and free."

Chartered in 1926

The local post, which was chartered in 1926, was named for the late George Schirick, brother of State Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick, and for the late John Joyce.

Schirick, a member of the 26th Division of the New England National Guard, served as a sniper and was the first man from the city of Kingston to be killed in World War 1.

Joyce, who served in the old Company M, a Kingston outfit, was the first man in that company to be killed in World War 1.

During the late twenties the "dugout" was located on Livingston street but had to be given up during the depression years. Earl Schufeldt was the first commander of the post after it was chartered.

During World War 2, members from World War 1 continued to operate the post and managed to accumulate a fund which, at the end of the second war was applied toward the purchase of the former Brinnier mansion on Delaware avenue, present post quarters.

Services Are Numerous . .

Among services of the post to the community are the following:

Sponsors an annua. Christmas party for orphans jointly with the American Legion.

Sponsors a boy's team (12 to 16 years) in the Fraternal Youth League. The VFW team won the Shaughnessy playoffs last season.

Its members serve in local civil defense.

Each man drafted from Kingston and Ulster county receive a "ditty bag" containing a variety of items useful to the draftee when he arrives at camp.

Participated in sponsoring the last blood drive in cooperation with the local Red Cross chapter and provided many donors.

Furnishes pallbearers for returning war-dead funerals through the Kingston Veterans Association. During World War 2 and the Korean conflict the post has participated in more than 140 such ceremonies.

Maintains Welfare Fund

Maintains a welfare fund to assist itinerant veterans to reach home or to obtain employment. Through this fund many needy families are also helped.

Furnished workers for the house-to-house canvass in the Freedom Crusade last year.

Helps support other service organizations, making donations to hospitals, YMCA, Boy's Club, Boy and Girl Scouts, etc.

Provides its post home facilities free of charge for use of three organizations at the present time—Marine Corps League, Bus Driver's Union and Radio and Television Men's Association.

Makes periodic visits to Veterans Hospital at Castle Point, furnishing gifts, cigarettes, reading materials and entertainment.

The VFW's main fund-raising activity is the annual ball held on the first Monday in October of each year with famous bands playing, such as Tex Beneke, Harry James and Johnny Pineapple.

The local post takes care of the graves of all veterans of all wars who are buried in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Auxiliary Is Active

The auxiliary has tripled its membership during the past five years and "although it is a small organization it has made every effort to do all the work for which it was organized," Mrs. Ralph Scism, president, said.

She pointed out that the auxiliary was strictly a service organization, receiving in return the satisfaction of knowing that in some way they had been able to perform civic service.

Mrs. Scism said that in 1952 the auxiliary had donated to practically all local charities, such as the heart campaign, March of Dimes, cancer fund, cerebral palsy, Kingston Boys' Club, Fifth Ward Boys' Club, Red Cross, 300th anniversary fund, Salvation Army, Lions Club blind seals, etc.

She said that financial assistance had been given to veterans and their families and that members of the auxiliary were present when local draftees left for service in the armed forces. Members have also enlisted for civil defense work and have attempted to recruit others, she said.

Mrs. Scism said that a St. Patrick's Day party had been given for patients at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital and that the auxiliary had assisted with a valentine party given by the post for children from the Convent of St. Anne and the Children's Home.

Hospital Is Visited

"Several visits were made to Castle Point Veterans Hospital at which times gifts of candy, fruit, cigarettes and cookies were distributed. Each month the auxiliary also participates in the VFW project at the hospital of giving each new patient a 'get-acquainted' gift. Canteen books are also given to the patients and the auxiliary has sponsored several bingo games for bed patients. Afghans have also been made for individual use.

This year the auxiliary helped buy new tables so that dinners could be served properly, and also purchased an entire new dinner set to serve more than 100 people. The auxiliary also helped the community by donating to the city's 300th anniversary fund and taking part in the beautiful pageant.

"During the past five years the auxiliary has donated regularly to almost all local charities and has purchased a membership in the YMCA for an underprivileged boy, and in conjunction with the post has purchased a Girl Scout campership. It tried to keep baseball alive in Kingston by purchasing baseball stock, donated to the building funds of local churches, Kingston and Benedictine Hospitals, the Ulster County Tumor Clinic, to funds for several veterans and a missionary. Each year Poppy days were observed and the money made on this project used exclusively for welfare work. Regular visits were made to Castle Point Veterans Hospital and gifts sent to Northpost Veterans Hospital. The auxiliary also sells, at no profit to the auxiliary, jewelry that is made by veterans at Castle Point. Regular donations are also made to the Cancer Research Laboratory at Bar Harbor, Me., a VFW project.

Has Hospital 'Closet'

"The auxiliary worked on the Crusade for Freedom drive and participated in parades on Memorial Day and in other Memorial Day services. Each time an overseas veteran is returned for burial the members turn out to honor the dead.

"For some years now the auxiliary has maintained a hospital closet for the convenience of Kingstonians, the closet containing hospital beds, whel chairs and crutches. These items are lent to anyone who needs them—gratis. All that is asked is that they be returned in good condition.

"The auxiliary tries to instill patrictism in the youth of the country and Joyce-Schirick Auxiliary has held two history quizzes in Kingston High School to further interest in the history of the United States of America. Flags have been presented to a Girl Scout troop—an American flag and a troop flag and a large auditorium flag and 25 small flags were presented to the new George Washington School.

"The auxiliary has helped its post with the matter of redecorating its home on Delaware avenue—meeting rooms were repainted, drapes put up, kitchen and hall redecorated, new stove installed in the kitchen. The ladies of the auxiliary also help in making the ditty bags which are given to all draftees from Ulster county, and also make donations for them from time to time."

Officers of the post, besides Ryan, are Hubert Richter and Albert Roosa, vice-commanders; Ralph Scism, adjutant, and Leslie Munson, quartermaster.

Officers of the auxiliary are Mrs. Scism, president; Julia R. Lane, secretary, and Florence Parmalee, treasurer.

Student Is Killed

Lodi, O., Jan. 29 (AP)—A Purdue University senior, Harold Schappert, 21, of Westwood, N. J., was killed in an automobile accident yseterday as he and three other Purdue upperclassmen were returning to school. The State Highway Patrol said the driver of the car, Purdue student Jack Ginsburg, 20, of (131 Brook street) Garden City, N. Y., will be charged with manslaughter. The patrol said Ginsburg was trying to pass a disabled tractor-trailer on U. S. Route 224 yesterday morning, but could not make it because of an oncoming car, driving east.

Meteorites are said to be remains of masses circulating about the sun.

They Watched Robbery

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—Broadway strollers were innocent witnesses to a jewelry store robbery yesterday. But then who notices anything unusual about a man working inside a merchandise window? What the crowds didn't know was that the window stripper was a robber, with a pal inside Murray Bricks' store. Bricks, help up and bound by the pair, watched helplessly as the window "trimmer" removed between $5,000 and $10,000 worth of gems. The bandits also left with $370 in cash.

If your electric refrigerator is unduly noisy, it may be because it is not standing perfectly level on the floor.

Policeman Freed Of Theft Charges

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—Nathan Mennen, suspended Brooklyn policeman, was cleared yesterday by a Federal Court jury of a $31,083 post office burglary.

There were tears in the eyes of the 40-year-old Mennen as the jury of 10 men and two women brought in their verdict after deliberating three hours.

Now free of the criminal charge, Mennen still must undergo a departmental trial with his policeman's job at stake.

Four other men, including Mennen's brother, Irving, 37, have pleaded guilty to the burglary charge and are awaiting sentence.

Besides Irving Mennen, the defendants are Leonard Pignatello, 38, and Fiori Orlando, 47, both of Brooklyn, and Harvey Bistany, 46, of Lawrence, Mass.

Alleged Friend of Willie

Bistany, a one-eyed former boxer, allegedly was a friend of jailed bank robber Willie (The Actor) Sutton.

Nathan Mennon was a detective at the time the Brevoort post office station was looted on April 29, 1951.

Mennen was assigned to investigate the crime. The following October, Irving Mennen was arrested in the case.

The detective brother was demoted to patrolman and shifted to another precinct.

Last April 22, he was arrested as the alleged ringleader of a burglar gang and suspended from the police force.

Bistany testified during Mennen's trial that the defendant was the mastermind of the job and that he cheated in dividing the loot.

But Irving Mennen, a defense witness, denied Bistany's story.

Pignatello and Orlando did not testify.

Jet-Age Paint

Halley Is Blasted As Stupid for His Stand About State

Albany, Jan. 29 (AP)—Rudolph Halley, president of the New York City Council, was in Gov. Dewey's "doghouse" today because of his charges that Dewey was "ruthlessly playing politics" in allocating state financial aid to the money-short metropolis.

Dewey's press secretary, Harry J. O'Donnell, said last night that Halley was "as stupid and ignorant as he is shallow and venomous" in blasting the governor for a reduction in the city's share of state financial assistance in Dewey's 1953-54 budget.

"If Halley knew anything at all about either the city or state government, he would know that every item of state aid is fixed by law," O'Donnell told reporters.

Attacks Dewey

Halley, who won national prominence as counsel to the U. S. Senate's Kefauver crime investigating committee, was elected council president on a Liberal party ticket. He blasted Dewey yesterday after the governor had made public the local assistance section of his proposed budget for the fiscal year starting next April 1. The budget allocates New York city $266,801,176, a reduction of $3,936,931 from the current fiscal period.

Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri had asked for an additional $62,700,000.

But Dewey said the city's overall total must be reduced because of mandatory cutbacks, especially those based on the number of persons unemployed in the city.

Welfare Cases Checked

Dewey also noted that state inspectors had been checking welfare cases in the city, and said the survey had been instrumental in saving some welfare expenditures.

Halley said yesterday that the "governor is ruthlessly playing politics with the needs of our city."

He said the "announced cut in state aid funds to New York city puts the seal of arrogance on the state's irresponsible attitude toward the city of New York."

Pointing to the Halley statement, O'Donnell said Halley should know that the "decline in state aid for welfare (for the city) is because, at last, under supervision by the state, some of the abuses in welfare administration in the city of New York are being eliminated."

O'Donnell added:

"If he (Halley) could even read the newspapers, he would also learn that we are in a period of full employment, which has reduced the cost of home relief and therefore state aid, which pays for 80 per cent of it."

The governor's press aide said the Dewey administration would "continue to cooperate in every way with the responsible members of the city administration" to work out some solution to the city's puzzling financial situation.

Carrot Curls

For carrot curls, slice carrots paper-thin lengthwise with a vegetable slicer. Roll slices around your finger to make curls. Crisp in ice water for an hour or more. Serve as a first course with tomato juice, or use as a garnish for a salad.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Beef took the consumer food news spotlight this week as retail prices of steaks, roasts and other beef cuts declined as much as 10 cents a pound in widespread areas.

Some markets also featured specials in fryer and broiler chickens, leg or shoulder of lamb, picnic hams and fresh pork butts. But prices of meats other than beef were generally irregular.

Eggs were unchanged to a few cents a dozen lower. A long list of fresh vegetables edged a little lower as increased shipments followed improved crop weather. Navel oranges, tangerines, pears and fresh strawberries were reduced in most places, too.

Continuation of Trend

The decline in beef prices was a continuation of a trend which has been going on for several weeks now under pressure of abundant supplies. Livestock prices recently dipped to the lowest levels in years. Many more cattle are being fattened in midwestern feed lots than at this time last year. Storage stocks are heavier. Herd-building has increased the number of cattle to an estimated 350 per 1,000 of our human population now as against 260 cattle per 1,000 persons a decade ago.

Beef Prices Lower

A leading competitive food chain on Long Island (H. C. Bohack Co.) estimated that its retail beef prices now are averaging nearly 19 per cent below a year ago. Lamb is off sharply from last year at this time, too—more than 21 per cent, while pork is roughly the same and veal averages 8 per cent lower, the chain said.

A special subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee has unanimously recommended that government price and grading controls on cattle and beef be lifted. The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Hill (R-Colo.), said the controls are interfering with normal marketing and price relationships, and argued that supplies are so large that there is no reason to expect beef prices to go above present ceilings this year.

Asparagus Comes East

The season's first asparagus from California reached eastern markets by train and plane this week (priced in the specialty class this early). Rhubarb shipments from Michigan and Canada picked up and prices eased.

Lower in most places were artichokes, snap beans, beets, broccoli, cauliflower, endive and escarole, peas, and squash. Good quality iceberg lettuce was reasonably priced but produce men said the market tone was firm and mark-up was expected. Best tomatoes were a shade higher.

Cabbage, carrots, lettuce, celery and citrus fruits were frequently listed as produce specials by supermarkets.

Here's the Agriculture Department's national list of most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying in February:

Raisins, cabbage, domestic dried figs, oranges, grapefruit, processed citrus products, pea beans, dry baby lima beans, carrots, lettuce, almonds, walnuts, filberts, peanuts and peanut butter.

Also: Heavy turkeys, eggs, butter, cheddar cheese, cottage cheese, nonfat dry milk solids, buttermilk, vegetable shortening, margarine, salad oils, lard and frozen fish.

Baking Cookies

When you are baking cake or cookies have the shortening used at room temperature. To measure the shortening accurately, pack it firmly into a graduated measuring cup. Level it off with a straight-edged knife or spatula. In measuring ¼-cup or less of shortening, it is convenient to use a tablespoon; there are four tablespoons in ¼-cup.

Youngster Loses Pet Horse

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP)—Fifteen-year-old John Haley, Jr., pitched hay for his pet 20-month-old horse Daisy every morning before he went to school. But this particular morning Daisy broke loose from her home-made stall in the family garage. The horse that Johnny had fed with a bottle after her mother died, wandered out into the street and was struck by a bus. Grief-stricken Johnny had to stand by while police shot the animal.

Manila (AP)—Large-scale trade prospects between the Philippines and countries within the pound-sterling area are slim, Governor Miguel Cuaderno of the Philippines Central Bank disclosed recently. Citing the case of Japan, which has had difficulty in trading with a portion of the approximately 100 million pounds sterling it received from sales of exports, Cuaderno said all countries, including those in the sterling bloc, prefer dollar payment for their exports.

Storing Ice Cream

Ice cream may be stored successfully in the refrigerator if it is kept in this way: Open the ice-cream container and run a thin-bladed knife or spatula around the inside to loosen ice cream. Transfer ice cream by turning the carton upside down in the center of the refrigerator tray. Lift the carton off and cut down through the center to fill tray compactly. Cover with a piece of waxed paper cut to fit the top. Slip tray into freezing compartment and store until ready to use.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Beef took the consumer food news spotlight this week as retail prices of steaks, roasts and other beef cuts declined as much as 10 cents a pound in widespread areas.

Some markets also featured specials in fryer and broiler chickens, leg or shoulder of lamb, picnic hams and fresh pork butts. But prices of meats other than beef were generally irregular.

Eggs were unchanged to a few cents a dozen lower. A long list of fresh vegetables edged a little lower as increased shipments followed improved crop weather. Navel oranges, tangerines, pears and fresh strawberries were reduced in most places, too.

Continuation of Trend

The decline in beef prices was a continuation of a trend which has been going on for several weeks now under pressure of abundant supplies. Livestock prices recently dipped to the lowest levels in years. Many more cattle are being fattened in midwestern feed lots than at this time last year. Storage stocks are heavier. Herd-building has increased the number of cattle to an estimated 350 per 1,000 of our human population now as against 260 cattle per 1,000 persons a decade ago.

Beef Prices Lower

A leading competitive food chain on Long Island (H. C. Bohack Co.) estimated that its retail beef prices now are averaging nearly 19 per cent below a year ago. Lamb is off sharply from last year at this time, too—more than 21 per cent, while pork is roughly the same and veal averages 8 per cent lower, the chain said.

A special subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee has unanimously recommended that government price and grading controls on cattle and beef be lifted. The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Hill (R-Colo.), said the controls are interfering with normal marketing and price relationships, and argued that supplies are so large that there is no reason to expect beef prices to go above present ceilings this year.

Asparagus Comes East

The season's first asparagus from California reached eastern markets by train and plane this week (priced in the specialty class this early). Rhubarb shipments from Michigan and Canada picked up and prices eased.

Lower in most places were artichokes, snap beans, beets, broccoli, cauliflower, endive and escarole, peas, and squash. Good quality iceberg lettuce was reasonably priced but produce men said the market tone was firm and mark-up was expected. Best tomatoes were a shade higher.

Cabbage, carrots, lettuce, celery and citrus fruits were frequently listed as produce specials by supermarkets.

Here's the Agriculture Department's national list of most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying in February:

Raisins, cabbage, domestic dried figs, oranges, grapefruit, processed citrus products, pea beans, dry baby lima beans, carrots, lettuce, almonds, walnuts, filberts, peanuts and peanut butter.

Also: Heavy turkeys, eggs, butter, cheddar cheese, cottage cheese, nonfat dry milk solids, buttermilk, vegetable shortening, margarine, salad oils, lard and frozen fish.

Baking Cookies

When you are baking cake or cookies have the shortening used at room temperature. To measure the shortening accurately, pack it firmly into a graduated measuring cup. Level it off with a straight-edged knife or spatula. In measuring ¼-cup or less of shortening, it is convenient to use a tablespoon; there are four tablespoons in ¼-cup.

Youngster Loses Pet Horse

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP)—Fifteen-year-old John Haley, Jr., pitched hay for his pet 20-month-old horse Daisy every morning before he went to school. But this particular morning Daisy broke loose from her home-made stall in the family garage. The horse that Johnny had fed with a bottle after her mother died, wandered out into the street and was struck by a bus. Grief-stricken Johnny had to stand by while police shot the animal.

Picture Presented Of Tax Situation

Albany, Jan. 28 (AP)—New York expects to collect less tax on alcoholic beverages in 1953-54 than it did six years ago "because of the high cost of living and high liquor prices."

Cigarette and boxing admission tax collections also have failed to keep pace with population increase. But other levies in the so-called unnecessary luxury brackets, such as those on pari-mutuel betting and race track admission tickets, are zooming.

Gasoline taxes, at least in part reflecting greater use of automobile for pleasure purposes, likewise continue to mount.

Revenue from sale of liquor reached $46,911,847 in 1947-48, are estimated at $45,350,000 this year, and are expected to contribute no more than $46,000,000 in the next fiscal period.

Cigarette tax collections, which were $33,343,064 six years ago, are expected to total but $41,500,000 next year.

Boxing revenue which has declined substantially for several years is estimated at $200,000 this year, and $225,000 in 1953-54.

Tracks Big Item

The state's take from the tax on pari-mutuel betting at race tracks is achieving mounting tax importance. Beginning at $26,944,029 six years ago, it went to $33,755,179 in 1951-52. New York is expected to collect $38,500,000 this year and to benefit from $40,000,000 in 1953-54.

Extension of harness racing zoomed admission taxes to $1,700,000 this year. They had averaged a million dollars previously. The state predicts another $100,000 increase next year.

Increased use of automobiles is expected to swell state gasoline tax collections to $111,500,000 next year. They will total an estimated $108,000,000 in the period ending March 31. This is an increase from $76,000,000 six years ago.

Bard Students Among Most Avid Readers

Annandale-on-Hudson, Jan. 29—Bard College students this past fall, Dr. Felix E. Hirsch, librarian, reports, continue to be among the most avid readers anywhere in the United States. The key figure behind this claim is the per capita circulation of books on two-week loan which jumped 30 per cent during the 1952 fall semester. Last year the average circulation had dropped from 64 to 58. Now Bard students are again back in the traditional pattern, reading at the rate of 75 books per year, more than five times that of many of their contemporaries in other institutions.

Dr. Hirsch attributed part of the improvement to the new features of the college's educational plan, particularly the five-course requirement for freshmen and sophomores. He added that he knew of no other college with a comparable reading record. He also stressed the special character of the Bard program with its emphasis on individual study and research. This factor, he believes, accounts for the preeminence of Bard students as readers over the past decade.

Teach Children to Correct, Not Defend, Their Mistakes

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

At night, when Karen was a baby, her mother checked her covers. Sometimes, as she leaned over the crib, her hands moving across her baby's sleeping body, she would be overwhelmed with a sudden feeling of great richness. And slipping back to her own bed, she would drowse off, thinking ahead to all the joy, ideas and love she and the baby would share.

It has not worked out like that. Something went wrong, so that the baby has become a cool, defiant, impudent, 15-year-old enemy.

There isn't a feeling of richness any more; just discouragement. Often the bitterness spills out in variations on an old refrain. Discovering a cigarette burn in Karen's new school coat, her mother says, "Just look at that hole. You haven't had your coat six weeks. I could understand if I were the kind of bad mother who only thinks of herself, but I'm not. I don't understand when I do so much . . ."

Then Karen snatches the coat. "Oh, for cripes' sake," she says, "it's my coat, isn't it? What did you give it to me for if I can't do what I like with it?"

Perhaps she would not have answered like this had her mother said, "How sad you must feel that you've burned your pretty coat. If you pay for a renewing job from your allowance this week, the burn won't be able to keep reminding you of your mistake."

Maybe we could call this "understanding" Karen But this is a vague term. What we've really done is free Karen from the need to defend a mistake. We have suggested the means to correct it.

Unfortunately, Karen's mother has never been able to manage this. For some years now, she has been so intent on defending herself, that she can't see how she drives Karen to defend herself, too. Nor how her child has been shoved over into enemy territory where she smokes for the same reason as do soldiers waiting for the guns to start.

Why does Karen's mother have to be forever pleading with a child to acknowledge her goodness?

It goes way, way back. Back to a little girl's need for acknowledgment of her goodness from her elders. Back to the scared times when it wasn't acknowledged, so that she was lost, cast adrift without anchor. Back to terror of phrases like "bad little girl" so that today a woman of 42 years still needs someone to tell her she's good before she can believe it. So that today, still unable to accept herself and the dead-and-gone "badness," Karen's mother can't forget herself for a minute to accept anyone else.

Some time, along the way, we have to put aside the dead-and-gone descriptions of us and say, "This is me. I'm good." Then we'll stop driving children crazy begging them to tell us we are. We'll be able to let it go for a second to show them the way to reject terror and shame of their "badness."

of TWU President Michael J. Quill that he act as mediator.

One by one, six of the companies fell in line with the arbitration formula during the night. Then there was a time of tension before Kheel announced agreement by the two holdouts.

The only buses moving early today were some of those of the Third Avenue Transit Corporation, largest of the struck lines. The bankrupt firm obtained Federal Court approval yesterday to enter arbitration, and it was the first to sign the formula. A number of Third Avenue's buses started moving at 10 p. m. (EST).

The Third Avenue was the only one of the companies with buses serviced and recently passed by state Public Service Commission inspectors. Servicing and inspection were to be rushed on buses of other firms.

The strikers voted 4,313 to 994 in secret balloting yesterday to accept the arbitration proposal, made by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri.

No date has been set for the first meeting of the arbitration panel, to be headed by Walter A. Lynch, former congressman from the Bronx and unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor in 1950.

Subways and other non-struck transit lines—most city-owned—carried extra passenger loads during the strike with no serious disruption of service. The taxicab business boomed in some areas. The struck lines operate in Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens and the lower part of suburban Westchester county.

Fire Bells, Sirens To Open Polio March

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk announced today that the city's fire bells and sirens will sound six times at 7 p. m., to start the Mothers March on Polio tonight."

The committee arranging for the campaign, he said, would appreciate the lighting of porch lights when the signal is sounded so that the women on the march may see their way around more easily.

Mothers of State Go All Out in Polio Drive

Albany, Jan. 29 (AP)—New York state mothers by the tens of thousands joined nation-wide "march on polio" last night, and early reports today sent the total of their collections soaring toward the $500,000 mark.

Women turned out across the state to visit homes and ask for funds to spur the 1953 march of dimes campaign.

In New York, as elsewhere in the nation this week, residents were asked to turn on their porch lights. "Marchers" then called for contributions where a light was on, or where a bright red scarf was tied to the door.

In Rochester, about 20,000 mothers collected $113,734 in their hour's drive. Erie county, including Buffalo reported $105,000 taken in by about 15,000 women.

Fathers, marines, high school pupils and polio victims themselves, joined the march in Syracuse. A total of $110,954, the highest figure ever raised there for polio relief was brought in.

In New York city, about 125,000 women volunteered for the two-hour drive, according to William Reidy, press official of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Reidy said he hoped the collections would surpass the $650,000 contributed in the metropolis last year, but said the total would not be known for some time.

Defendant Is Convicted

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 29 (AP)—A Superior Court rape trial which State's Attorney Lorin W. Willis said caused the victim to "come into this court room and go through a terrible ordeal" ended here yesterday with the sentencing of a 26-year-old Negro soldier to 12 to 15 years in prison. Convicted of raping Mrs. Elizabeth S. Barker, 34-year-old mother of four children, was James Higgs of Stamford, the woman's former handyman. Maximum penalty for rape in Connecticut is 30 years. Higgs, AWOL from Fort Leonard, Mo., was convicted by a Superior Court jury of eight women and four men who deliberated three and one half hours.

Central Reports Bigger Profit Made During '52

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad has reported its 1952 net income as $24,716,337, equal to $3.83 per share.

This, according to the road's report released last night, compares with $14,718,720, or $2.28 a share, in 1951.

The 1952 net, said President William White, represented a return of less than 2½ per cent on the line's net investment in transportation property.

White added that this return has averaged about 1.85 per cent for the seven post-war years since 1945.

The Central's total railway operating revenues for 1952 were given as $806,926,218: in 1951, $806,952,379.

Operating expenses dropped to $681,926,665 in 1952, a decline of $6,764,744. Equipment and joint facility rents at $13,155,437 last year were down $4,967,044 from 1951. The report said.

Fire Destroys Plant

Lawrence, Jan. 29 (AP)—Fire early today destroyed the plant of the Lock-Rite Structures, Inc., manufacturers of prefabricated houses. Firemen estimated damage at $150,000. Five two-story frame buildings and large piles of wood were burned. The plant extended over three acres next to Long Island Rail Road tracks. Origin of the fire was not determined immediately. It started about 5:40 a. m.

Fire Bells, Sirens To Open Polio March

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk announced today that the city's fire bells and sirens will sound six times at 7 p. m., to start the Mothers March on Polio tonight."

The committee arranging for the campaign, he said, would appreciate the lighting of porch lights when the signal is sounded so that the women on the march may see their way around more easily.

Mothers of State Go All Out in Polio Drive

Albany, Jan. 29 (AP)—New York state mothers by the tens of thousands joined nation-wide "march on polio" last night, and early reports today sent the total of their collections soaring toward the $500,000 mark.

Women turned out across the state to visit homes and ask for funds to spur the 1953 march of dimes campaign.

In New York, as elsewhere in the nation this week, residents were asked to turn on their porch lights. "Marchers" then called for contributions where a light was on, or where a bright red scarf was tied to the door.

In Rochester, about 20,000 mothers collected $113,734 in their hour's drive. Erie county, including Buffalo reported $105,000 taken in by about 15,000 women.

Fathers, marines, high school pupils and polio victims themselves, joined the march in Syracuse. A total of $110,954, the highest figure ever raised there for polio relief was brought in.

In New York city, about 125,000 women volunteered for the two-hour drive, according to William Reidy, press official of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Reidy said he hoped the collections would surpass the $650,000 contributed in the metropolis last year, but said the total would not be known for some time.

Defendant Is Convicted

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 29 (AP)—A Superior Court rape trial which State's Attorney Lorin W. Willis said caused the victim to "come into this court room and go through a terrible ordeal" ended here yesterday with the sentencing of a 26-year-old Negro soldier to 12 to 15 years in prison. Convicted of raping Mrs. Elizabeth S. Barker, 34-year-old mother of four children, was James Higgs of Stamford, the woman's former handyman. Maximum penalty for rape in Connecticut is 30 years. Higgs, AWOL from Fort Leonard, Mo., was convicted by a Superior Court jury of eight women and four men who deliberated three and one half hours.

The original of the famous painting by Willard, "The Spirit of '76," is in Abbot Hall, at Marblehead, Mass.

Ike's Son Heads Back to Korea

Major John Eisenhower, the President's son, prepares to leave LaGuardia airport, New York, on first leg of his return journey to Korea. Major Eisenhower had been flown home at behest of former President Truman so he could attend his father's inauguration as Chief Executive.

Central Reports Bigger Profit Made During '52

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad has reported its 1952 net income as $24,716,337, equal to $3.83 per share.

This, according to the road's report released last night, compares with $14,718,720, or $2.28 a share, in 1951.

The 1952 net, said President William White, represented a return of less than 2½ per cent on the line's net investment in transportation property.

White added that this return has averaged about 1.85 per cent for the seven post-war years since 1945.

The Central's total railway operating revenues for 1952 were given as $806,926,218: in 1951, $806,952,379.

Operating expenses dropped to $681,926,662 in 1952, a decline of $6,764,744. Equipment and joint facility rents at $13,155,437 last year were down $4,967,044 from 1951. The report said.

Fire Destroys Plant

Lawrence, Jan. 29 (AP)—Fire early today destroyed the plant of the Lock-Rite Structures, Inc., manufacturers of prefabricated houses. Firemen estimated damage at $150,000. Five two-story frame buildings and large piles of wood were burned. The plant extended over three acres next to Long Island Rail Road tracks. Origin of the fire was not determined immediately. It started about 5:40 a. m.

MJM School Paper Wins Press Award

The December issue of MJM Chatter, published by student journalists at the Myron J. Michael Junior High School in Kingston, is the winning paper in the Ulster county school press project conducted during the 1952 Christmas Seal Sale and sponsored jointly by the National Tuberculosis Association and the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. Ellenville High School's The Quill, was selected for second place.

This announcement was made by the Ulster County TB and Health Association, which directed the project in Ulster county, at a meeting of the judging committee composed of Mrs. Ross K. Osterhoudt, Christmas Seal Sale chairman for the town of Marbletown, Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, county commissioner of health, and Louis R. Netter, editor of the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Contributions in both papers were on Our County's Needs in the War on TB and What Does Tuberculosis Mean to Me? Articles in the MJM Chatter of which Lee Gershuny is the editor-in-chief were submitted by the following students: John Snyder, Katherine Wright, Donald Sickler, Betsy Milliken, Kathleen Haggerty, Lynda Marz and Pat Van Deusen. Robert Moseley and Warren Powell contributed cartoons on tuberculosis. The Ellenville Quill is edited by Gail Abramson and Billie Rosenthal. Edward Halpern, Martha Granam, Gail Abramson, Stanley Cohen, Joan Boxer and John Braun contributed the articles which were chosen for second honors.

Copies of MJM Chatter have been sent to the state association which will select nine entries to be sent to the National TB Association for judgment by a committee of health educators and journalists.

First Baptist Men Hear City History In Talk by Rigby

Describing Kingston as the town "which for 300 years was the testing ground for the ideas and high ideals which today we call Americanism," Harry Rigby Jr., was the guest speaker for the First Baptist Men's Club Wednesday night as he gave a detailed history of the city from the times of the redheaded carpenter Thomas Chambers, whose ability and drive, welded a band of early settlers into an organized group that was more "American" than any other colony on the continent.

Drawing on a vast store of historical knowledge gained in part from countless hours of work as a member of the Kingston Tercentenary Committee, Mr. Rigby traced the story of a town with the dark, forbidding hemlocks of the Catskills at its back and the "river that flows two ways"—the lordly Hudson—as its link with the outside world.

Sees Growth Ahead

Pointing out that, from the early 1700s when it was New York's third largest settlement, to the peak of its Golden Age in 1852, Kingston had grown and prospered phenominally for the times, the speaker concluded by saying, "Kingston is not dead, as some people would have you believe. It is simply taking a breather and letting the rest of the United States catch up with us. We have reached the point now where we are ready to go forward with a normal and natural growth. . . . Once again we are on the main line—the new State Thruway runs past our back door. We can't help but grow, but it is our job to channel that growth so as to retain the sound characteristics of the city we love. Ours is an average American city of the best type, which has held American ideals intact. We must have the faith that makes all things possible, and be happy and proud to live in Kingston, where the best is yet to come."

Prior to Mr. Rigby's talk, the club and its guests enjoyed a pancake supper prepared by the refreshment committee under the leadership of George Matthews who took over due to the illness of the regular chairman, Leslie Garrison.

Among items of business discussed during the evening, the club made final plans for its annual Ladies' Night in February, at which Frederic Snyder will be the guest speaker.

Possibility of bringing the Oberlin University Men's Chorus to Kingston right after Easter also was discussed, and the group dismissed after a closing prayer by the Rev. Donald E. Brown.

Hospital Auxiliary Has Guest Speaker

The Kingston Hospital Auxiliary met Tuesday evening in the nurses home, when Mrs. Brokenshaw of Shady was the guest speaker. Mrs. Brokenshaw discussed Ceramics, the art of pottery, and gave a demonstration.

Mrs. Fred Carr reported on the progress of the Hospital dance to be held on Saturday, Feb. 7, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The proceeds from the dance "will enable the auxiliary to continue its good cheer work in the Kingston Hospital." Mrs. Carr said the advance ticket sale has been most gratifying. Tickets may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Arthur Hazenbush or Mrs. George Rifenbary.

Members of the auxiliary "who gave so generously of their time and effort during the holidays" were thanked by Mrs. Peter D. Corsones, president. She also expressed appreciation to Mrs. Chester Van Gaasbeek and Mrs. Glen Van Gaasbeek, who donated gifts for all the ward patients; Mrs. James Norton who headed the hospital decorating committee, and Miss Grace Schrieber for donating wreaths from the Kingston House of Flowers.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. George Rifenbary and Mrs. Adrian Kaplan.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, 'Children Are People,' etc.)

"MY DEAR" CAN BE OVER-DONE

A reader would like my opinion on the following phrase. She says: "I have been criticized for using 'my dear' when speaking to people. I was never conscious of this habit because members of my family always have used it before me. Is it bad form, especially when said to people who are not intimate friends?"

While not especially good form, neither is it especially bad—unless said to actual strangers, particularly by a woman to every man she meets.

Obvious Exception to Rule

Dear Mrs. Post: I know it is not proper for a bride marrying a second time to wear a bridal veil, but I wonder if an exception can be made in this case: My daughter's first husband was in the service and they were to have been married on his furlough. However, he was taken ill and sent to the hospital. They found he had an incurable disease and my daughter was told he would not live very long. Of course he did not know this and asked my daughter to marry him and live on the grounds as a soldier's wife until he was well. Wanting to make his last days happy, she married him at his bedside. He died shortly after. Now my daughter is going to be married again and we would like her to have the kind of wedding she always dreamed of, and missed. Would this be possible, or might it cause criticism?

Answer: Taking it for granted that all of her friends know the tragedy of the earlier wedding, there could not possibly be any criticism in her wearing bridal clothing for what is in truth her first marriage.

Wife Showed Proper Behavior

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening a very distinguished public personage gave a speech before a large audience. After his speech everyone rose in ovation and applauded him. His wife, who was in the audience, did neither and I would like to know if this was proper behavior on her part.

Answer: She was entirely correct in her behavior, since applauding her husband would be considered the same as applauding herself.

Would you like some simple menus for a dinner party, buffet lunch, cocktail party, or child's party? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-25, "Menus for Every Occasion," will be helpful. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care The Freeman, P. O. Frivold, Sr., Scarsdale, at 3 p. m. Sunday, Jan. 25, in the Dutch Reformed Church, High Falls. The Rev. Garret Timmer, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony. A reception for 50 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The church was decorated with snapdragons. Mrs. Tracy Sutton, organist, played traditional wedding selections. Miss Theda Sutton, as soloist, sang Ave Maria, and Because.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white ballerina gown fashioned with a bodice of Chantilly lace over bridal satin, long sleeves, and a nylon tulle over satin skirt. Her fingertip-length veil was secured to a lace cap. She carried a nosegay of white roses and sweetpeas.

Miss Lois Mickle of High Falls was the honor attendant. With her blue ballerina gown of net over taffeta, styled with fitted bodice and a full skirt, she wore a matching headpiece and carried a Colonial type bouquet.

Mrs. Mary Van Laer and Mrs. Elwin Schoonmaker of High Falls, were their sister's bridesmaids. They wore gowns of pink net over taffeta, having fitted bodices and full skirts. Matching headpieces and Colonial type bouquets completed the ensembles. Miss Nancy Schoonmaker, the bride's niece, was flower girl. First Baptist Men Hear City History In Talk by Rigby

Describing Kingston as the town "which for 300 years was the testing ground for the ideas and high ideals which today we call Americanism," Harry Rigby Jr., was the guest speaker for the First Baptist Men's Club Wednesday night as he gave a detailed history of the city from the times of the redheaded carpenter Thomas Chambers, whose ability and drive, welded a band of early settlers into an organized group that was more "American" than any other colony on the continent.

Drawing on a vast store of historical knowledge gained in part from countless hours of work as a member of the Kingston Tercentenary Committee, Mr. Rigby traced the story of a town with the dark, forbidding hemlocks of the Catskills at its back and the "river that flows two ways"—the lordly Hudson—as its link with the outside world.

Sees Growth Ahead

Pointing out that, from the early 1700s when it was New York's third largest settlement, to the peak of its Golden Age in 1852, Kingston had grown and prospered phenominally for the times, the speaker concluded by saying, "Kingston is not dead, as some people would have you believe. It is simply taking a breather and letting the rest of the United States catch up with us. We have reached the point now where we are ready to go forward with a normal and natural growth. . . . Once again we are on the main line—the new State Thruway runs past our back door. We can't help but grow, but it is our job to channel that growth so as to retain the sound characteristics of the city we love. Ours is an average American city of the best type, which has held American ideals intact. We must have the faith that makes all things possible, and be happy and proud to live in Kingston, where the best is yet to come."

Prior to Mr. Rigby's talk, the club and its guests enjoyed a pancake supper prepared by the refreshment committee under the leadership of George Matthews who took over due to the illness of the regular chairman, Leslie Garrison.

Among items of business discussed during the evening, the club made final plans for its annual Ladies' Night in February, at which Frederic Snyder will be the guest speaker.

Possibility of bringing the Oberlin University Men's Chorus to Kingston right after Easter also was discussed, and the group dismissed after a closing prayer by the Rev. Donald E. Brown.

Hospital Auxiliary Has Guest Speaker

The Kingston Hospital Auxiliary met Tuesday evening in the nurses home, when Mrs. Brokenshaw of Shady was the guest speaker. Mrs. Brokenshaw discussed Ceramics, the art of pottery, and gave a demonstration.

Mrs. Fred Carr reported on the progress of the Hospital dance to be held on Saturday, Feb. 7, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The proceeds from the dance "will enable the auxiliary to continue its good cheer work in the Kingston Hospital." Mrs. Carr said the advance ticket sale has been most gratifying. Tickets may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Arthur Hazenbush or Mrs. George Rifenbary.

Members of the auxiliary "who gave so generously of their time and effort during the holidays" were thanked by Mrs. Peter D. Corsones, president. She also expressed appreciation to Mrs. Chester Van Gaasbeek and Mrs. Glen Van Gaasbeek, who donated gifts for all the ward patients; Mrs. James Norton who headed the hospital decorating committee, and Miss Grace Schrieber for donating wreaths from the Kingston House of Flowers.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. George Rifenbary and Mrs. Adrian Kaplan.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

(Author of Etiquette, 'Children Are People,' etc.)

"MY DEAR" CAN BE OVER-DONE

A reader would like my opinion on the following phrase. She says: "I have been criticized for using 'my dear' when speaking to people. I was never conscious of this habit because members of my family always have used it before me. Is it bad form, especially when said to people who are not intimate friends?"

While not especially good form, neither is it especially bad—unless said to actual strangers, particularly by a woman to every man she meets.

Obvious Exception to Rule

Dear Mrs. Post: I know it is not proper for a bride marrying a second time to wear a bridal veil, but I wonder if an exception can be made in this case: My daughter's first husband was in the service and they were to have been married on his furlough. However, he was taken ill and sent to the hospital. They found he had an incurable disease and my daughter was told he would not live very long. Of course he did not know this and asked my daughter to marry him and live on the grounds as a soldier's wife until he was well. Wanting to make his last days happy, she married him at his bedside. He died shortly after. Now my daughter is going to be married again and we would like her to have the kind of wedding she always dreamed of, and missed. Would this be possible, or might it cause criticism?

Answer: Taking it for granted that all of her friends know the tragedy of the earlier wedding, there could not possibly be any criticism in her wearing bridal clothing for what is in truth her first marriage.

Wife Showed Proper Behavior

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening a very distinguished public personage gave a speech before a large audience. After his speech everyone rose in ovation and applauded him. His wife, who was in the audience, did neither and I would like to know if this was proper behavior on her part.

Answer: She was entirely correct in her behavior, since applauding her husband would be considered the same as applauding herself.

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

It was no surprise to me when the Swedish team won the European championship last September. In Jan Wohlin, known affectionately as "the fat boy," the Swedish team has one of the finest card players in the world.

I look forward with pleasure to the book of the 256 hands of the recent world championship match in New York largely because so many fine hands were played by Wohlin. (Bridge fans won't find this tournament book in the stores; it's being published at cost by the American Contract Bridge League).

Today's hand was played by the 250-pound expert in the finals of the match between Sweden and Italy last September. Wohlin pulled the "impossible" game out of the fire by giving an opponent a chance to make a crucial mistake.

West opened his singleton diamond, and East took the ace and returned the suit to let West ruff. West shifted to clubs, properly enough, forcing out Wohlin's ace.

At this moment things looked very bad for our hero. He had already lost two tricks, he was bound to lose the ace of trumps, and he couldn't exactly eat the losing ten of clubs.

What would you do if you were playing the hand? Can you see any chance for the contract—even if you assume that an opponent will make some reasonable mistake?

Wohlin calmly led a spade to dummy's ace and returned the nine of diamonds from the dummy. East saw no reason to play the queen of diamonds (which would set up the rest of dummy's diamonds) since his partner was ruffing diamonds. So East played low, and Wohlin discarded the ten of clubs and held his breath.

Poor West had to ruff with the ace of trumps, which meant that Wohlin had combined his club loser and his trump loser on the same trick. Now nothing could stop him!

Maybe it wasn't such a good chance, but it was the only chance there was. I take off my hat to a player ingenious enough to find such a "shot in the locker."

EAT WELL for Less

Cheese Soup Is Meal in Itself

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Ever try cheese soup as a main luncheon dish? You should like it, particularly if you have one of those hand-size electric beaters to do the heavy work lightly for you.

Quick Cheese Soup
(Serves 4)

Two tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 carrots, peeled and grated, 3 medium onions, grated, 2 to 3 tablespoons sifted flour, 2 cups well-seasoned chicken stock (if not available, use chicken bouillon cubes and water), 8 ounces Cheddar cheese (grated), 2 cups milk, salt and white pepper to taste.

Melt butter in top part of double boiler over low flame. Add vegetables and braise for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Blend in flour, and cook for one minute, stirring constantly.

Add chicken stock, and cook until thickened, stirring occasionally. Place over boiling water in lower part of double boiler; add cheese. Beat with rotary or whirl beater until cheese has melted (about 2 minutes).

Add enough milk to thin soup to consistency of cream. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Serve hot or well chilled with crisp croutons.

This soup need not be strained. However, if you wish to serve it strained, put soup through sieve, and reheat if necessary.

Here's a good cheese dish we had recently for lunch. We cut up all the odds and ends of cheese in the refrigerator. Cheddar, processed sharp cheese, and a few pieces of Swiss cheese. Then a pot was greased lightly with bacon fat and into the pot went one can condensed tomato soup. The cut up cheese (nearly ¾ pound) went into the soup and all cooked in the double boiler until the cheese was thoroughly melted. Then in went ½ cup milk.

All was beaten with our little electric hand-size beater until smooth, and seasoned with salt, Cayenne and Worcestershire. Serve very hot over unbuttered slices of toast.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, ready-to-eat cereal, bacon or jelly omelet, enriched toast, butter or margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Quick cheese soup, croutons, celery, half grapefruit, cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Scalloped salmon, steamed rice, stewed tomatoes with onion and green pepper, enriched bread, butter or margarine, green salad, lemon meringue pie, coffee, milk.

Health for All

Return To Normal Living

Let's assume that you are a tuberculosis patient. It could happen to you, you know. There are some 400,000 Americans with active tuberculosis today, and the disease strikes about 115,000 persons in this country every year, at any age and in any walk of life.

Let's also assume, for purposes of this discussion, that you are already in a tuberculosis hospital receiving the best of medical care. You have learned that, after months of rest in bed, treatment with drugs, and possibly surgery, your disease will be arrested. In short, you will recover. How complete your recovery will be, however, will depend largely on how you live after you leave the hospital.

The question is: Can you find, after you leave the hospital, the way of life necessary for a productive and healthy future?

You have to answer this question yourself, but you will find in the modern tuberculosis hospital a whole team of people ready to help you. This team includes doctors, nurses, social workers, occupational therapists, vocational counselors, and others.

They call themselves a rehabilitation team, since the term rehabilitation covers the whole process of recovery and makes possible the patient's return to a useful, normal life.

The doctors and nurses can help you get well physically and can advise you how to stay well after you leave the hospital. The doctor, of course, is the one to decide what work and play you can undertake physically. A social worker can help you and your family with personal problems, emotional, social, or economic.

Occupational therapists can help you learn new skills, even while you are in the hospital. A vocational counselor may help you discover aptitudes not seriously considered before, or disclose opportunities which you never knew about. He can help you find the job that will best suit your abilities, and that will safeguard your health. Suitable employment has been found for thousands of recovered TB patients.

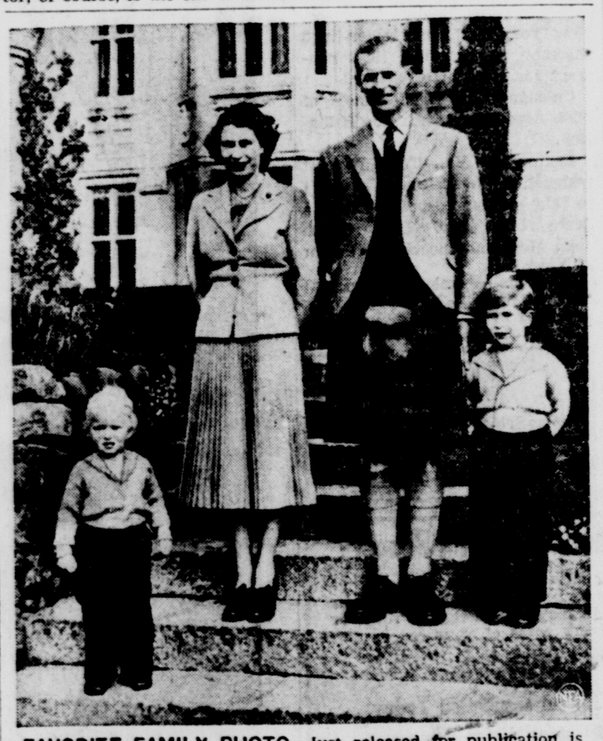

All these specialists will be working with you to make sure that your return to normal living will be complete and permanent.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, 74 John street, Kingston, N. Y.

Air Force 'Cans' Engines

New York (AP)—The American Iron and Steel Institute says the Air Force and Air Materiel Command are canning aircraft engines and clothing for overseas use. The world's largest cans are made of 11 and 12 gauge low carbon hot-rolled steel plates. They are opened with wrenches, not can openers, and can be re-used. Humidity, big bugaboo in engine shipment, is overcome by use of desiccants placed inside the cans before closing. After the two halves are bolted together, dehydrated air is pumped through a special valve.

Why We Say--

INCOME TAX

. . . From Civil War

Before 1913 the people of the U. S. did not have a Federal income tax, although the first income tax plan had been tried out during the Civil War and immediately discarded. It is said that the U. S. and Canada owe their modern concepts of income taxes to England (Thanks a lot).

Girl Scout News

Troop 62

The Girl Scouts Troop 62, Church of the Comforter, have reported on activities during the past few months. The girls made metal ash trays as Christmas gifts for their parents, under the direction of Mrs. Ivan Whitmore. Another Christmas project was the collection of mittens for those in need. Twenty-eight pairs were brought in to decorate the mitten tree. The troop packed and shipped them to Winnebago Indians in Nebraska. The Christmas party was held with parents and friends attending.

In cooperation with the Brownie Troop, a booth was set up at the church fair, and part of the money realized was donated to the flower fund of the Church.

An award night was held early in January. Clerk badges were earned by Nancy DeWitt and Ellen Carney. Campcraft and Outdoor Cook badges were awarded to Drucilla Freer and Nancy DeWitt. Membership stars went to Nancy DeWitt, Ellen Carney, Barbara Carney, Dianne Lifer, Judy Van Bramer and Patricia Sember.

Theatre TV Grows

New York (AP)—It is estimated that about 100 theatres in all parts of the country have installed projection equipment for theatre television. Linked together by network just like tele-broadcast stations, the theatres present sports and other spectacles to a paying audience. Two processes are used, one direct from a special picture tube and the other through a filmed process that takes a picture off the tube, develops it at high speed and then puts it through a movie-type projector.

Baked Alaska

In making Baked Alaska at home the trick is to be sure that both the cake and the very firm ice cream are completely covered by the meringue before the meringue is browned in the oven.

PLATTEKILL

Plattekill, Jan. 28—Final plans for the addition to the Plattekill school have been submitted by Harry Halverson, architect, of Kingston, to members of the Board of Education of the Wallkill Central District and after a few minor changes, bids will be submitted in order that construction may commence in February as scheduled. The new addition is a portion of the adopted building program, the expenditure of $768,000 to be involved.

Charles Ira Thompson, son of Mrs. Ira Merwin, was inducted into the armed forces and left Monday for the induction center.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Coons were Herbert Coons of Pawling, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Andersen and children of Schenectady.

The regular meeting of the Plattekill Grange was held Saturday night at the Grange Hall when Youth Night was observed. The entire program was in charge of the youthful members of the organization, with Ralph Jenkins, as chairman, assisted by Elaine Williams, Elizabeth Kopaski, Ann Murphy and Nathaniel Dawes. Dan Barnhart, Stone Ridge, chairman of the Ulster County Pomona Youth Committee, was present to participate in the program. Panel discussion, games, music and square dancing comprised the program. Serving refreshments were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Langlitz, Mr. and Mrs. George Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Grimm, Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. George Sisti, Jr., Albert Langlitz, Ralph Birdsall, and John Emenecker. Mrs. George McMullen, announced that the second in a series of card parties will be held Friday night Feb. 13 at the Grange Hall, and sponsored by the service and hospitality committee. The committee also will sponsor a collection for the March of Dimes campaign, now in progress. The use of the Grange Hall and facilities have been donated for a card party which members of the Methodist and Catholic Churches of Plattekill will conduct to benefit the polio fund Friday night, Jan. 30. Members of the Grange recently conducted a pageant of the months, with scenes and music appropriate for each month. Participating were Carol Ann Martin, Elaine Williams, Mrs. Arthur Fosler, Muriel Fosler, Charles Everett. Modeling their bridal gowns were Mrs. Elnore Lozier, Mrs. George Martin, Mrs. Burton Ward, Mrs. Burton Van Aken and Mrs. James Wilkin. Mrs. Arthur Fosler appeared as bridesmaid and flower girls were Christine Grismer, Karen Van Aken and Janet Fosler. Others appearing in various scenes in the program were Arlene Bernard, George Daley, Wilma Scott, Burton Ward, Robert Murlhy, Mrs. Grant Evans, Mrs. Linwood Underhill, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Edmunds, James Wilkin and Burton Van Aken.

Occupying their newly built homes at this time in this locality are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gately and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony DiBella and family.

Sunday, Jan. 25, was the regular Communion Day for children of the parish of Our Lady of Fatima, attending public and parochial schools.

The annual enumeration of dogs has been completed in the Town of Plattekill with 658 animals being tabulated by the warden.

Members of the Plattekill Grange dartball team have a game scheduled with Lake Katrine at the latter place tonight. Mt. Tremper will play the local team Feb. 4 at the Plattekill Grange Hall.

The Livingston Blauvelt property in this section has been sold to Henry Raaske of New York.

Written for NEA Service

It was no surprise to me when the Swedish team won the European championship last September. In Jan Wohlin, known affectionately as "the fat boy," the Swedish team has one of the finest card players in the world.

I look forward with pleasure to the book of the 256 hands of the recent world championship match in New York largely because so many fine hands were played by Wohlin. (Bridge fans won't find this tournament book in the stores; it's being published at cost by the American Contract Bridge League).

Today's hand was played by the 250-pound expert in the finals of the match between Sweden and Italy last September. Wohlin pulled the "impossible" game out of the fire by giving an opponent a chance to make a crucial mistake.

West opened his singleton diamond, and East took the ace and returned the suit to let West ruff. West shifted to clubs, properly enough, forcing out Wohlin's ace.

At this moment things looked very bad for our hero. He had already lost two tricks, he was bound to lose the ace of trumps, and he couldn't exactly eat the losing ten of clubs.

What would you do if you were playing the hand? Can you see any chance for the contract—even if you assume that an opponent will make some reasonable mistake?

Wohlin calmly led a spade to dummy's ace and returned the nine of diamonds from the dummy. East saw no reason to play the queen of diamonds (which would set up the rest of dummy's diamonds) since his partner was ruffing diamonds. So East played low, and Wohlin discarded the ten of clubs and held his breath.

Poor West had to ruff with the ace of trumps, which meant that Wohlin had combined his club loser and his trump loser on the same trick. Now nothing could stop him!

Maybe it wasn't such a good chance, but it was the only chance there was. I take off my hat to a player ingenious enough to find such a "shot in the locker."

EAT WELL for Less

Cheese Soup Is Meal in Itself

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Ever try cheese soup as a main luncheon dish? You should like it, particularly if you have one of those hand-size electric beaters to do the heavy work lightly for you.

Quick Cheese Soup
(Serves 4)

Two tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 carrots, peeled and grated, 3 medium onions, grated, 2 to 3 tablespoons sifted flour, 2 cups well-seasoned chicken stock (if not available, use chicken bouillon cubes and water), 8 ounces Cheddar cheese (grated), 2 cups milk, salt and white pepper to taste.

Melt butter in top part of double boiler over low flame. Add vegetables and braise for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Blend in flour, and cook for one minute, stirring constantly.

Add chicken stock, and cook until thickened, stirring occasionally. Place over boiling water in lower part of double boiler; add cheese. Beat with rotary or whirl beater until cheese has melted (about 2 minutes).

Add enough milk to thin soup to consistency of cream. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Serve hot or well chilled with crisp croutons.

This soup need not be strained. However, if you wish to serve it strained, put soup through sieve, and reheat if necessary.

Here's a good cheese dish we had recently for lunch. We cut up all the odds and ends of cheese in the refrigerator. Cheddar, processed sharp cheese, and a few pieces of Swiss cheese. Then a pot was greased lightly with bacon fat and into the pot went one can condensed tomato soup. The cut up cheese (nearly ¾ pound) went into the soup and all cooked in the double boiler until the cheese was thoroughly melted. Then in went ½ cup milk.

All was beaten with our little electric hand-size beater until smooth, and seasoned with salt, Cayenne and Worcestershire. Serve very hot over unbuttered slices of toast.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, ready-to-eat cereal, bacon or jelly omelet, enriched toast, butter or margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Quick cheese soup, croutons, celery, half grapefruit, cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Scalloped salmon, steamed rice, stewed tomatoes with onion and green pepper, enriched bread, butter or margarine, green salad, lemon meringue pie, coffee, milk.

Health for All

Return To Normal Living

Let's assume that you are a tuberculosis patient. It could happen to you, you know. There are some 400,000 Americans with active tuberculosis today, and the disease strikes about 115,000 persons in this country every year, at any age and in any walk of life.

Let's also assume, for purposes of this discussion, that you are already in a tuberculosis hospital receiving the best of medical care. You have learned that, after months of rest in bed, treatment with drugs, and possibly surgery, your disease will be arrested. In short, you will recover. How complete your recovery will be, however, will depend largely on how you live after you leave the hospital.

The question is: Can you find, after you leave the hospital, the way of life necessary for a productive and healthy future?

You have to answer this question yourself, but you will find in the modern tuberculosis hospital a whole team of people ready to help you. This team includes doctors, nurses, social workers, occupational therapists, vocational counselors, and others.

They call themselves a rehabilitation team, since the term rehabilitation covers the whole process of recovery and makes possible the patient's return to a useful, normal life.

The doctors and nurses can help you get well physically and can advise you how to stay well after you leave the hospital. The doctor, of course, is the one to decide what work and play you can undertake physically. A social worker can help you and your family with personal problems, emotional, social, or economic.

Occupational therapists can help you learn new skills, even while you are in the hospital. A vocational counselor may help you discover aptitudes not seriously considered before, or disclose opportunities which you never knew about. He can help you find the job that will best suit your abilities, and that will safeguard your health. Suitable employment has been found for thousands of recovered TB patients.

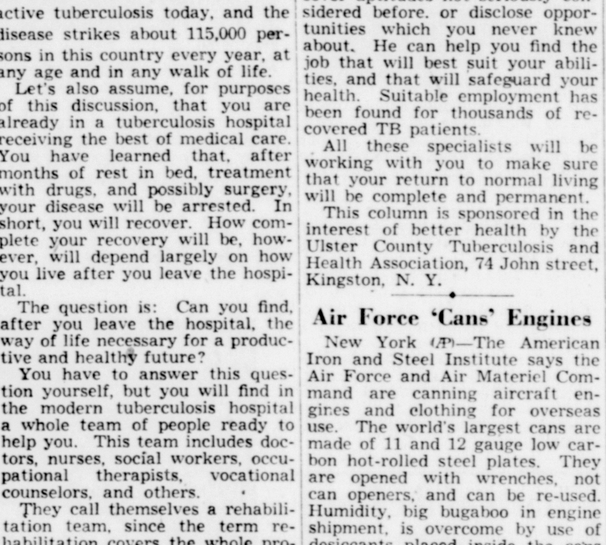

All these specialists will be working with you to make sure that your return to normal living will be complete and permanent.

Air Force 'Cans' Engines

New York (AP)—The American Iron and Steel Institute says the Air Force and Air Materiel Command are canning aircraft engines and clothing for overseas use. The world's largest cans are made of 11 and 12 gauge low carbon hot-rolled steel plates. They are opened with wrenches, not can openers, and can be re-used. Humidity, big bugaboo in engine shipment, is overcome by use of desiccants placed inside the cans before closing. After the two halves are bolted together, dehydrated air is pumped through a special valve.

Why We Say--

. . . From Civil War

Before 1913 the people of the U. S. did not have a Federal Income tax, although the first income tax plan had been tried out during the Civil War and immediately discarded. It is said that the U. S. and Canada owe their modern concepts of income taxes to England (Thanks a lot).

Sherman White and Billy Loes Cagers Slated Tonight

Ex-All-American, Dodger Ace Due For Pro Twinbill

Crack IBM Squad In Preliminary

One of the modern era's most famous college basketball stars—Sherman White, late of Long Island University—and two major league baseball stars—Billy Loes and Johnny Simmons are featured on tonight's professional basketball card at the municipal auditorium.

Sponsored by the Lions Club for its welfare fund, the doubleheader White's College Bombardiers against Loes All Stars in the feature game at 8:30 p. m.

The IBM Country Club squad, rated the finest independent quintet in the Hudson valley, takes on Wiltwyck Motors of the YMCA League at 7:30 p. m.

George Svirsky, chairman of the Lions Club basketball committee, predicted a large turnout.

"There has been a brisk demand for tickets in the last few days," he said, "and if we get a break in weather, the hall should be filled. We are counting on a heavy sale at the door."

White's supporting cast will be recruited primarily from the Pine Plains club operated by George Steutzle. It includes the well-known Johnny Cottrill regarded by many as the best player in the area.

The fabulous Sherman White was the sparkplug of Coach Clair Bee's last great Blackbird squad at Long Island University. He was a unanimous All-America choice and experts predicted a bright professional career for him.

He has been displaying sensational form in independent ball averaging more than 40 points a game. He and Cottrill will form a potent one-two punch against Loes' former collegians.

Loes, the sensational Brooklyn Dodger rookie pitcher who recently signed a $22,000 contract, was an All-Metropolitan basketball star at Bryant High. Equally adept at basketball and baseball, the young Greek lad chose the diamond and made a rapid rise to fame with the Dodgers.

Johnny Simmons, who played pre-war ball with the Kingston Recreations, was one of NYU's great college basketeers and captain and played major league ball with the Washington Senators until 1949. He played pro basketball with the Boston Celtics of the NBA and is a brother to Connie Simmons, the New York Knickerbocker ace.

The remainder of Loes roster features a flock of former "name" college performers, notably Tom O'Connor, 1949 captain at St. Francis, and Danny Buckley, ex-St. John's University captain.

Others include Big Gene Zellers, 6 feet, 5, formerly of Hofstra; Freddy Hall, ex-American Leaguer at Trenton; Pete Dente of LaSalle College of Philadelphia and Joe Bruno of Temple University. Mike Caslin and Big George Simons of Kentucky University round out the roster.

The preliminary game should furnish plenty of action. The IBM cagers have won 17 out of 19 games to date, and battled Siena College to a 63-58 decision. Four of the five IBM starters range over 6 feet and the club has a penchance for high totals. Wiltwyck players are familiar with the auditorium boards and the local players are geared for a strong game, realizing the prestige that will go with a triumph over IBM. The regular Wiltwyck roster will be augmented by other local players.

Foul Shot Decides 'Y' Cage-Game

Waterous Lumber Company pulled out a 43 to 42 squeaker victory over the Village Rest in one of the YMCA "B" Division basketball games Wednesday night at the Y.

In the other contest, the Accord Chevies registered a 62-55 decision over the Newkirk Aces.

Carl Van Wagenen's conversion of a foul shot a second after the final period expired gave the Woodstockers their close victory.

Van Wagenen was fouled just as the period ended by Jack Beaver as Van Wagenen tried a shot from the bucket. He converted the first free throw for the deciding point of a well-played ball game.

Joe Hilton and Waterous were the big guns for the winners with 16 and 12 points while Vince Van Bramer and Jack Johnson were high for the Village Rest with 11 and 10 in that order.

The Accord Chevies finished strong in their 62-55 victory over the Aces. A last period rally of 19 points decided the outcome.

Sale of Cardinals Looms as Saigh Gets Prison Term for Tax Evasion

Draws 15 Months, Fine Of $15,000 in Court

St. Louis, Jan. 29 (AP)—A meteoric, sometimes turbulent rise to baseball success appeared at an end today for Fred Saigh, the owner of the St. Louis Cardinals who was sentenced to 15 months imprisonment and fined $15,000 for federal income tax evasion.

Pronouncement of the sentence came in federal court here yesterday as Saigh pleaded no defense in a five-count indictment returned against him last spring, and threw himself on the mercy of the court.

The government at the same time agreed to withdraw three of the five counts against the short, dapper 48-year-old Saigh.

A few hours later Federal Judge Roy W. Harper sentenced him to 15 months in prison on each count, the sentence to run concurrently. He also fined Saigh $10,000 on one count and $5,000 on the second

Maximum penalty on each count is up to five years imprisonment or a maximum fine of $10,000 or both.

Saigh, who had broken into tears when informed of the indictment last spring, had to control his voice as he rose to address the court.

"This means, of course, I will have to dispose of the Cardinals," he said. "There's no way I can stay in baseball."

Thinks Sentence Too Tough

Speaking as a lawyer, another portion of his succession, Saigh commented he had seen men receive lesser sentences for income tax evasion.

"I think you have been too tough with me," said he.

Judge Harper quickly and sharply answered Saigh's observation:

"You plead that you are guilty to those essential elements and if you were not guilty you should have stood upon a plea of not guilty. Don't come in and plead before me and then ask me to say you are wrong."

Specifically, the counts Saigh faced charged evasion of $19,299 in taxes. One claimed evasion of $14,551 in 1947 and the other evasion of $4,748 in 1949. The original indictment charged evasion of $49,620 in taxes from 1946 through 1949.

By his own statement Saigh is through in baseball. Free on $2,000 bond, he has until May 4, when the sentence will be enacted, to clear up business matters.

Officials Decline Comment

Baseball officials for the most part, including Commissioner Ford Frick and National League President Warren Giles, declined immediate comment.

A source high in the sport, however, pointed out there are two possible steps that can be taken by baseball.

1. The commissioner can invoke the rule that gives him power to bar anybody from baseball on the grounds that he is detrimental to baseball.

2. The National League executives can use a clause in their constitution to keep a person from owning a club.

The same high baseball authority said a Houston, Tex., group had made inquires about buying the Cardinals. The Texas group was understood to have asked whether it should try to negotiate a deal directly with Saigh or talk business with the National League.

The source also said it would be practically impossible to move the franchise in 1953, if the club was sold to an outside group.

Saigh, in St. Louis, flatly stated he had made no plans as yet to dispose of his stock. He also said there are no deals pending.

Oilman Is Interested

But in Houston, George W. Starke, multi-millionaire oilman, said he might still be interested "if it is a good business deal."

"I was definitely interested in the purchase of the Cardinals prior to their sale by Sam Breadon to Bob Hannegan and Fred Saigh," Starke said. "I have had no reason to keep up with the financial side of the Cardinals since. Nor do I know what their present assets or liabilities are.

"I would be interested in them, too, as a civic institution because I believe baseball is of vital public interest."

While most of the available baseball officials were reserving comment, owner Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs pointed out the late Commissioner K. M. Landis "ran a lot of men out of baseball for a lot less."

Frick said "there are too many legal angles to this situation. If, after talking with my attorney, I decide to make a statement, I will call a press conference."

Giles, who'll preside at the National League meeting tomorrow, also declined to comment "until I discuss the matter with the National League Council and the commissioner."

Oil Capitol Captures $15,000 Hialeah Race

Miami, Fla., Jan. 29 (AP)—Jockey Conn McCreary, who won the 1949 Kentucky Derby with a great stretch run on Ponder, gave Oil Capitol the same sort of ride Wednesday to capture the $15,000 Palm Beach Handicap at Hialeah Park.

Oil Capitol was dead last in a field of 14 at the three-eighths pole in the seven furlong feature and was 12th at the five eights marker, but he caught the favored Battlefield in the final strides to win by a neck.

Oil Capitol moved up to sixth entering the stretch and came down the long straightaway like a flash to pass the pace-setting Eatontown, Sagittarius, Nimble Fox and Battlefield in that order, collaring the latter at the wire.

"He really took off when he started to run," said McCreary. "He surprised me—must have made up 12 lengths."

Battlefield, largest money-winning horse still racing, was ridden by Al Schmidl, who said he saw Oil Capitol coming "but there wasn't much I could do."

Solly Hemus of the St. Louis Cardinals was hit the most times by pitched balls during the 1952 season. He was nicked 20 times.

KBA Deplores Low Entry For Tenpin Tournament

43rd Millrose Games To Open at Garden

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—Olympic champions will be as common as flu bugs tonight when the 43rd annual Millrose Games open the Madison Square Garden indoor track season before an anticipated sellout crowd of 15,000.

But if everything goes according to form, Fred Dwyer, the youngster from Villanova College, will steal the thunder from the aces who showed their heels to everyone in Helsinki last summer.

Dwyer will be the favorite to dethrone Don Gehrmann, four-time winner of the Wanamaker Mile, and many of the experts are predicting he'll go under 4:08, which is mighty fast stepping indoors these days. For a time, it looked as though only Gerhmann, Fred Wilt and Rolf Lamers, the German, would battle it out with Dwyer because three other entries were knocked out by the flu.

But Sture Landquist, a Swedish exchange student from Oklahoma A and M, winner of the Sugar Bowl Mile a month ago, and Walter Mollineux of Brown University were entered to bring the field up to six. Landquist has been eager to show his stuff against the top runners and this is his opportunity, while Mollineux merely was taken out of the half-mile event.

Total Expected Lowest in Years

With only slightly more than 10 per cent of its 224 registered teams entered in the 16th annual city tournament, Kingston Bowling Association officials today expressed disappointment, dismay.

Thomas Orr, KBA president, said he was puzzled at the low number of entries with the deadline (Saturday, Jan. 31) only a few days away.

"Unless there is a deluge of last-minute applications," Orr stated, "the entry for this year's tournament figures to be the lowest in several years."

Orr compared the KBA registration of 23 teams (noon Wednesday) with the 50 teams recruited by the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association for its 12th annual tournament starting Saturday at New Paltz.

Lauds KWBA Policy

"The women of the KWBA are supporting their tournament with a 49 per cent registration," Orr noted. "They have a registration of 98 five-player squads, six teams of four members and four with three players.

"That kind of performance," Orr went on, "shows that the women support their tournament a lot better than the men. We are hoping, of course, that we may be swamped with a late rush. But the way it looks now the entry will not come up to expectations.

In response to a question, the KBA president said he did not think the increased fee for the team event had adversely affected the entries.

"The bowling rates went up last fall," said Orr, "and we naturally had to step up the entry fee to absorb the increases. Furthermore, we are guaranteeing $125 for first place and that will be the highest payoff in KBA history."

The KBA's 15th annual tournament in 1951 attracted 109 teams for an all-time record. There was no tournament because of the New York state championships last year.

Other Competition

Out of town tournaments which offer lucrative prizes ranging from $1500 to $750 for first place with 100 per cent handicap are making steady inroads against local tournaments, it was noted.

Thirteen Kingston teams have entered the $1500 Journal-American 100-per cent Handicap Sweepstakes, while the Dutchess Recreation offers $750 for first place and 100 per cent entries. The IBM tourney also weans teams away from the KBA meet.

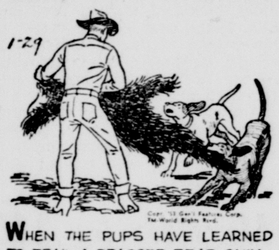

"These tournaments are hard to compete against," Orr stated. "They offer too much in the way of inducement. We can only appeal to loyalty of the bowlers. Maybe the women do a better job in that respect.

"This year," he went on, "we made certain that every team captain of a five-man team received an entry blank. We followed this up with secondary appeals to the league secretaries. The only thing left is to wait for a last minute rush."

A horse stabled at Hialeah this winter is named Broken Lens. The horse had had impaired vision in one eye since birth.

Crack IBM Squad In Preliminary

One of the modern era's most famous college basketball stars—Sherman White, late of Long Island University—and two major league baseball stars—Billy Loes and Johnny Simmons are featured on tonight's professional basketball card at the municipal auditorium.

Sponsored by the Lions Club for its welfare fund, the doubleheader White's College Bombardiers against Loes All Stars in the feature game at 8:30 p. m.

The IBM Country Club squad, rated the finest independent quintet in the Hudson valley, takes on Wiltwyck Motors of the YMCA League at 7:30 p. m.

George Svirsky, chairman of the Lions Club basketball committee, predicted a large turnout.

"There has been a brisk demand for tickets in the last few days," he said, "and if we get a break in weather, the hall should be filled. We are counting on a heavy sale at the door."

White's supporting cast will be recruited primarily from the Pine Plains club operated by George Steutzle. It includes the well-known Johnny Cottrill regarded by many as the best player in the area.

The fabulous Sherman White was the sparkplug of Coach Clair Bee's last great Blackbird squad at Long Island University. He was a unanimous All-America choice and experts predicted a bright professional career for him.

He has been displaying sensational form in independent ball averaging more than 40 points a game. He and Cottrill will form a potent one-two punch against Loes' former collegians.

Loes, the sensational Brooklyn Dodger rookie pitcher who recently signed a $22,000 contract, was an All-Metropolitan basketball star at Bryant High. Equally adept at basketball and baseball, the young Greek lad chose the diamond and made a rapid rise to fame with the Dodgers.

Johnny Simmons, who played pre-war ball with the Kingston Recreations, was one of NYU's great college basketeers and captain and played major league ball with the Washington Senators until 1949. He played pro basketball with the Boston Celtics of the NBA and is a brother to Connie Simmons, the New York Knickerbocker ace.

The remainder of Loes roster features a flock of former "name" college performers, notably Tom O'Connor, 1949 captain at St. Francis, and Danny Buckley, ex-St. John's University captain.

Others include Big Gene Zellers, 6 feet, 5, formerly of Hofstra; Freddy Hall, ex-American Leaguer at Trenton; Pete Dente of LaSalle College of Philadelphia and Joe Bruno of Temple University. Mike Caslin and Big George Simons of Kentucky University round out the roster.

The preliminary game should furnish plenty of action. The IBM cagers have won 17 out of 19 games to date, and battled Siena College to a 63-58 decision. Four of the five IBM starters range over 6 feet and the club has a penchance for high totals. Wiltwyck players are familiar with the auditorium boards and the local players are geared for a strong game, realizing the prestige that will go with a triumph over IBM. The regular Wiltwyck roster will be augmented by other local players.

Cardinal Owner Sentenced to Prison

Fred Saigh, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, leaves courtroom in St. Louis after U. S. District Judge Roy W. Harper accepted a plea of nolo contendere to charges of income tax evasion. Judge Harper sentenced him to 15 months in prison on two counts, the sentences to run concurrently. Saigh was also fined $10,000 on one count and $5,000 on another. (AP Wirephoto)

Oil Capitol Captures $15,000 Hialeah Race

Miami, Fla., Jan. 29 (AP)—Jockey Conn McCreary, who won the 1949 Kentucky Derby with a great stretch run on Ponder, gave Oil Capitol the same sort of ride Wednesday to capture the $15,000 Palm Beach Handicap at Hialeah Park.

Oil Capitol was dead last in a field of 14 at the three-eighths pole in the seven furlong feature and was 12th at the five eights marker, but he caught the favored Battlefield in the final strides to win by a neck.

Oil Capitol moved up to sixth entering the stretch and came down the long straightaway like a flash to pass the pace-setting Eatontown, Sagittarius, Nimble Fox and Battlefield in that order, collaring the latter at the wire.

"He really took off when he started to run," said McCreary. "He surprised me—must have made up 12 lengths."

Battlefield, largest money-winning horse still racing, was ridden by Al Schmidl, who said he saw Oil Capitol coming "but there wasn't much I could do."

Solly Hemus of the St. Louis Cardinals was hit the most times by pitched balls during the 1952 season. He was nicked 20 times.

KBA Deplores Low Entry For Tenpin Tournament

43rd Millrose Games To Open at Garden

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—Olympic champions will be as common as flu bugs tonight when the 43rd annual Millrose Games open the Madison Square Garden indoor track season before an anticipated sellout crowd of 15,000.

But if everything goes according to form, Fred Dwyer, the youngster from Villanova College, will steal the thunder from the aces who showed their heels to everyone in Helsinki last summer.

Dwyer will be the favorite to dethrone Don Gehrmann, four-time winner of the Wanamaker Mile, and many of the experts are predicting he'll go under 4:08, which is mighty fast stepping indoors these days. For a time, it looked as though only Gerhmann, Fred Wilt and Rolf Lamers, the German, would battle it out with Dwyer because three other entries were knocked out by the flu.

But Sture Landquist, a Swedish exchange student from Oklahoma A and M, winner of the Sugar Bowl Mile a month ago, and Walter Mollineux of Brown University were entered to bring the field up to six. Landquist has been eager to show his stuff against the top runners and this is his opportunity, while Mollineux merely was taken out of the half-mile event.

BEAR DOG TRAINING

WHEN THE PUPS HAVE LEARNED TO TRAIL A DRAGGED BEAR SKIN, THE TRAINER PICKS IT UP WHILE THE PUPS 'WOOL' IT AROUND AND SHAKES IT TO GET THEM TO FIGHT IT. THUS, THE FIGHTING INTEREST OF EACH IS QUICKLY SHOWN. INCREASE THE TRAILING DISTANCE AS PUPS IMPROVE AND KEEP ENCOURAGING THEM TO BARK ON TRAIL AND IN FIGHTING.

AFTER A DOZEN OR MORE LESSONS LAY A SCENT TRAIL WITH A CAPTIVE BOBCAT. LET THE PUPS TRAIL IT A FEW TIMES. THEN LET THEM TRAIL, TREE AND KILL IT IN A FIGHT. THE SCRAP PROVIDES EXPERIENCE FOR MORE DANGEROUS GAME LATER ON.

Of the regular 1952 National League shortstops, Chicago Cub Roy Smalley played the least number of games at the position. He was in 82.

Total Expected Lowest in Years

With only slightly more than 10 per cent of its 224 registered teams entered in the 16th annual city tournament, Kingston Bowling Association officials today expressed disappointment, dismay.

Thomas Orr, KBA president, said he was puzzled at the low number of entries with the deadline (Saturday, Jan. 31) only a few days away.

"Unless there is a deluge of last-minute applications," Orr stated, "the entry for this year's tournament figures to be the lowest in several years."

Orr compared the KBA registration of 23 teams (noon Wednesday) with the 50 teams recruited by the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association for its 12th annual tournament starting Saturday at New Paltz.

Lauds KWBA Policy

"The women of the KWBA are supporting their tournament with a 49 per cent registration," Orr noted. "They have a registration of 98 five-player squads, six teams of four members and four with three players.

"That kind of performance," Orr went on, "shows that the women support their tournament a lot better than the men. We are hoping, of course, that we may be swamped with a late rush. But the way it looks now the entry will not come up to expectations.

In response to a question, the KBA president said he did not think the increased fee for the team event had adversely affected the entries.

"The bowling rates went up last fall," said Orr, "and we naturally had to step up the entry fee to absorb the increases. Furthermore, we are guaranteeing $125 for first place and that will be the highest payoff in KBA history."

The KBA's 15th annual tournament in 1951 attracted 109 teams for an all-time record. There was no tournament because of the New York state championships last year.

Other Competition

Out of town tournaments which offer lucrative prizes ranging from $1500 to $750 for first place with 100 per cent handicap are making steady inroads against local tournaments, it was noted.

Thirteen Kingston teams have entered the $1500 Journal-American 100-per cent Handicap Sweepstakes, while the Dutchess Recreation offers $750 for first place and 100 per cent entries. The IBM tourney also weans teams away from the KBA meet.

"These tournaments are hard to compete against," Orr stated. "They offer too much in the way of inducement. We can only appeal to loyalty of the bowlers. Maybe the women do a better job in that respect.

"This year," he went on, "we made certain that every team captain of a five-man team received an entry blank. We followed this up with secondary appeals to the league secretaries. The only thing left is to wait for a last minute rush."

A horse stabled at Hialeah this winter is named Broken Lens. The horse had had impaired vision in one eye since birth.

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Sam Kalloch's carefully laid plans to shatter Newburgh Academy's 29-game winning streak were snarled in a psychological reverse Tuesday afternoon in that miniature gym where Kingston High's all-time skein of 43 came to grief one cloudy afternoon.

Instead of folding up under the impact of Bobby Spreer's departure, because of the 8-semester rule, the Goldbacks just wavered slightly. They spotted the Blues a 20-9 lead, clicked off 10 straight points, tied the score at 29-29, later 35-35 and then ran riot.

It was quite a melodramatic setting, they say. Spreer, who has been granted permission to sit on the NFA bench in street clothes for the remainder of the season, watched through misty eyes as his former teammates launched their victory charge.

When the final gun sounded, the Goldbacks hoisted Bobby on their shoulders and carried him off the floor in triumph. Causing George Palmateer to quip:

"Lanky Masterson is getting too fat, so they picked on Bobby."

About that NFA skein. It will reach 87 and then come tumbling down on the municipal auditorium court on Feb. 24.

This fellow Spreer was a handsome performer for the Goldbacks over three straight seasons. He lacked the color and fire of his brother, Richie, but compiled a career average of better than 15 points.

Spreer's absence points up the old axiom that an athletic institution travelling a hot cycle invariably is its own best source of supply. Take NFA, for instance. The loss of Spreer figured to be a damaging blow, but you couldn't prove it at Poughkeepsie. Unheralded Billy Maher has taken over Bobby's mantle and will wear it with dignity and authority. Ask Coach G. Warren Kias.

Spreer or no Spreer, Newburgh is blessed with the best talent in the league. Kingston High is a year away. They have a "big fellow," Herbie Waterous coming up from the Jayvees, while Dick Bezemer should be at his peak. Skipper Brodhead is a standout sophomore who seems destined for All-DUSO rating.

"Lanky" Masterson will still have that fellow Burkowski, "The Marvel" you know. Mickey got off to a poor start but lately has been blasting the hoop at a 20-plus average. The Larry Kimball-Bob Early backcourt tandem is challenged only by Kingston's Bill DuBois and Bill Haber. Burkowski never did succumb to the "sophomore jinx" while Bezemer should be a potent "junior."

One final word about the Bobby Spreer case. There must be a lot of folks relieved by the developments. It was common gossip and rumor around the DUSO League that the Goldback ace was ineligible. But nobody except Sam Kalloch was willing to take the bull by the horns. It was a touchy subject and nobody wanted to be the scapegoat.

The fact that Sam was involved is at the same time coincidental and ironical. The portly Blue mentor, hailed by DUSO sportswriters as "Coach of the Year" was riding on an unprecedented crest of popularity not only with the press but his fellow coaches.

The Spreer incident should not deprecate Sam's standing in the lodge. He did the proper thing. It was an open and shut case and should not have caused any greater stir than the departure of Irv Kushner, the great Monticello star. Monticello just dropped Kushner from the roster without any fanfare when he completed eight semesters of varsity competition.

The Spreer case does point up a problem. Does each individual school or the conference maintain the eligibility records for the DUSO athletes? We believe the central office of the DUSO (president) should have those files and they should be checked carefully at the start of each semester. This would remove from rumor and suspicion any doubtful cases.

Murphy's 720 New Central Rec Major Record

Spearheads Jack's Rest With 248-227 245 Heavy Pinnage

Restaurant Keglers Rap 1006-1008-2990

Ed Murphy authored a new individual high triple record for the Central Rec Major League Wednesday night when he pounded out a brilliant string of 248-227-245 for 720 at the Railroad avenue drives.

Murphy's heavy pinnage spearheaded Jack's Restaurant to a pair of 1000 games—1006 and 1008—as the restaurant trundlers packed a hefty 2990 team series.

For Murphy it was his first 700 of his tenpin career and placed him in the No. 3 slot in the top triples of the local bowling area.

Murphy's 720 eclipsed the former Central Rec Major League high of 686 rolled by Larry Weishaupt. Weishaupt heads the local pin-busters with a 765 in the Hudson Valley Bowling League and 746 in the Ferraro Major. George Shufeldt's 738 series in the Ferraro Major is the third-ranking high triple rolled to date.

Jack's sizzling scoring last night kept them out in front in the league race as they captured three straight from Mickeys. Jack's now hold down first place with a 41-16 record while Pontiacs are in second with 37½-19½. Old Capitals are third with 36-21 while Hymes Shoes and Alpines are tied for fourth with 27-30 records.

Four Blast 600

Larry Petersen, Sr., emerged as the No. 2 kegler in the Central Rec Major Wednesday with a solid 258 solo and 638 series, one of the four 600's rolled in the loop. George "Stooge" Robinson rapped the hat trick for 217-212-205 and 634; Bill Johnson 202-221-612 and Harold Broskie 220-601.

The top 500 trundlers included Jimmy Amendola with 200-223-594; Hod Spaulding, the piano tycoon, 202-211-583; Herm Seelbach 212-578; Cliff Davis 237-574; Cliff Quick 212-572 and Charlie "Juice" Manfro 203-576.

In the lower echelon were H. Myers with 244-566; Larry Weishaupt 564; Frank "Boots" Leskie 210-561; Fred Ferraro 200-203-557; Bill Murray 555 and Bill Lawrence 214-553.

Team results:

Jack's Rest 3, Mickey's 0; Hymes Shoes 2, Pontiacs 1; Alpine 3, Welch's Grocery 0; Old Capitals 2, Quality Maple 1.

Maurer Leads CYO—594

Joe Maurer led the CYO-Holy Name circuit at the Bowlodrome planks with a string of 209-183-202 for 594. Norb Scherer hit 203-206-555; Dom Tomczyk 540; Joe Mannello 539; John Sweeney 201-538; Romanus Dellay 521; George Uhl 520; Leo Yonnetti 504 and Joe Mahar 210-518.

Betty Schoonmaker's progressive scores of 160-181-187 for 528 paced the Chalet Pioneer Women's wheel. Also of note were Helen Sutton with 457; June Van Kleeck 441; Livia Tenedini 439; Emma Pratt 433; Mabel Cudney 418; Charlotte Gracy 401; M. Gilmartin 391; Helene Mollenhauer 389 and J. Schultz 376.

Team results:

Demarest Flames 2, Gilmartin's Lunch 1; Century Cement 2, Towne Shoppe 1; Moylans 3, Snyder's Chicks 0.

New Pioneer Mark

Rita Amarello posted a new high triple for the Ferraro Pioneer Women's League Wednesday night when she fired 519 on sticks of 153-187-179. The 519 eclipsed the former high of 510 rolled by Dottie LaRocca.

Also of note were Joan Brueckner with 490; Shirley Myers 455; Nell Glennon 451; Gen Whitmore 449; Lillian Cameron 441; Phyllis Wolff 441; Marge Burns 433; Fritzi Davis 433; Pauline Barth 432; P. Duffy 417; J. Krueger 416; L. Jordan 410; E. MacElveen 409; B. Tucker 408; M. Henry 405; C. Buckman 404 and D. LaRocca 401.

Team results:

Worfs 3, Doblers 0; Geraldine Shope 3, Jumps Market 0; Jones Dairy 3, Carnrights Dairy 0; DeLuca Cleaners 3, Smith-Parish 0; Stone Ridge 2, Greyvan Lines 1; Silsby Motors 3, Herzogs 0.

Vernon Freese, who represents Rosendale on the executive board of the Kingston Bowling Association, scintillated with a 592 series in this week's session of the Chalet Leaders League.

His series made up on games of 193-203-196 outdistanced Bill Lawrence by 20 sticks. W. Fatum posted 226-562; V. Kuhn 512, Ed McCaffrey 502, R. Dellay 212-501; Ed Whitaker and Jim Fahey 500; Clary Buddenhagen 200-499; G. Segelken and E. Myers 496; Hank Yonetti 494 and J. Fatum 492.

A Giant in the Fold

Bobby Thomson, slugging infielder-outfielder of the New York Giants, holds the pen and grins at Manager Leo Durocher after signing his 1953 contract at the Giants' New York office. Thomson, best remembered for his Homeric circuit clout which wrecked the Dodgers' 1951 pennant hopes, reportedly signed for the same $35,000 he received last year.

Thomson Will Begin Role As Giants' Base Stealer

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—Bobby Thomson, one of the fastest men in baseball, will try for more stolen bases this season with the blessing of Manager Leo Durocher.

For years, Thomson's speed has blinded the National League. They talked of a match race with Sam Jethroe. Durocher was willing to pit Bobby against anybody in the league. Still is. But he never stole bases.

In 900 games with the New York Giants, Thomson has stolen a total of only 26 bases. Last year he pilfered only five. Even in '51 when his playoff homer won the "miracle" pennant, he stole only five. In 1950 the total was three.

Lacks Extra Step

"He just doesn't seem to get that extra step," said Durocher at the Giants office after Thomson signed his contract for a reported $35,000. "Sometimes he's there with plenty to spare. Other times he's thrown out when a man like Al Dark would have made it."

Thomson sat quietly listening while the manager made apologies for his failure to steal bases.

"If you want to hear my reaction," he said, "I might as well get in on the discussion, too. I just don't run enough. You only learn to steal bases by practice.

"I always thought I could be in the same class with Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson in stealing bases. But I don't run enough."

Durocher seemed interested.

"Maybe I'd better take a hint," he said. "And cut him loose more often. One reason we don't have him steal so much is this: When he's on first he's sure to score on a long single to the outfield. He's almost as well off on first."

Thomson figured he could steal bases by surprising the other clubs.

"They never expect me to go," he said. "I don't have any reputation as a base stealer. They seem to think I've got two left feet or something like that. I'd like to try."

Thomson, up to 190 pounds, hopes to reach 198 before he reports at the Phoenix, Ariz. training camp. He weighed only 175 at the end of last season.

As far as returning to third base, in case Willie Mays is released from the army on a hardship plea, it will be all right with Bobby.

Ready for Any Port

"Personally, I think these long legs of mine were built for the outfield," he said. "But I play wherever Leo says."

Don Zimmer, tabbed as the eventual successor to Pee Wee Reese, also signed a Brooklyn contract yesterday. The young shortstop batted .310 for Mobile in 1952. Three of the Dodgers' rookie pitching hopefuls, Ken Lehman, Ray Moore and Ed Roebuck also came to terms.

Others to sign contracts yesterday were pitcher Marv Grissom, Chicago White Sox, outfielder Cal Abrams and pitcher Bill Dunn of Pittsburgh and outfielder Hank Edwards, and pitchers Dick Littlefield and Vern Taylor of the St. Louis Browns. The Brownies now have satisfied 29 of the 37 players on their 1953 roster.

Crossbreeding Dangers

By JOE STETSON
(Dog Editor)

It is astonishing how many times the question of the logic of crossbreeding recurs. The subject has been brought up and presumably disposed of so often that I was surprised when Art Murray, who has had hunting dogs of one kind or another for years, asked:

"What kind of luck would I have breeding my pointer to my good setter bitch?"

In a cross such as he contemplated there is a great deal in common between the two breeds. They are similar in general size and proportion and they have been bred for many generations to perform the same duties—namely to seek upland game birds, to point them upon discovery and, when desired and trained for it, to flush and/or retrieve upon command.

"Both parents are good hunters from good hunting stock," I replied. "The chances are that the pups will be good hunters. In fact, such crosses have been made before and offspring are commonly called "droppers". From the hunting standpoint the idea would be reasonable.

"On the other hand," I continued, "how about appearance? Some of the pups would be long haired and some would seem to be short haired with feathers in the strangest combinations. More important, it would be impossible to predict accurately the appearances of puppies in future generations.

"I'm not concerned about appearance", said Art, "just so long as a dog works well."

"That's all very well to say," I replied, "but there's no man who wouldn't want the dog he loves and is so proud of to be as good looking as possible. In breeding, we think of soundness, good temperament and functional ability first, but while we are acquiring these things we can also be giving the appearance some consideration along the way.

"What are you going to do with the pups you don't keep?" I asked.

"Sell them, of course," was the answer.

"And who would pay you any kind of a price for a pup that could not be registered, whose mature appearance would be questionable and whose offspring would be unpredictable and unregisterable?"

"What would you do then?" asked Art.

"I'd look for a setter dog that is as good a hunter and as attractive looking as your pointer dog and have your setter bitch bred to him.

"Incidentally, Art," I continued, "your idea is not nearly as far off base as some of the brainstorms in crossbreeding that come my way. Some folks want to cross pointers with beagles to get a dog that will point birds and give tongue on rabbits. Others think that a beagle—retriever cross will get them a dog that will retrieve rabbits after running them.

"Let's try not to undo what has taken breeders many years of careful selective breeding to accomplish.

Spearheads Jack's Rest With 248-227 245 Heavy Pinnage

Restaurant Keglers Rap 1006-1008-2990

Ed Murphy authored a new individual high triple record for the Central Rec Major League Wednesday night when he pounded out a brilliant string of 248-227-245 for 720 at the Railroad avenue drives.

Murphy's heavy pinnage spearheaded Jack's Restaurant to a pair of 1000 games—1006 and 1008—as the restaurant trundlers packed a hefty 2990 team series.

For Murphy it was his first 700 of his tenpin career and placed him in the No. 3 slot in the top triples of the local bowling area.

Murphy's 720 eclipsed the former Central Rec Major League high of 686 rolled by Larry Weishaupt. Weishaupt heads the local pin-busters with a 765 in the Hudson Valley Bowling League and 746 in the Ferraro Major. George Shufeldt's 738 series in the Ferraro Major is the third-ranking high triple rolled to date.

Jack's sizzling scoring last night kept them out in front in the league race as they captured three straight from Mickeys. Jack's now hold down first place with a 41-16 record while Pontiacs are in second with 37½-19½. Old Capitals are third with 36-21 while Hymes Shoes and Alpines are tied for fourth with 27-30 records.

Four Blast 600

Larry Petersen, Sr., emerged as the No. 2 kegler in the Central Rec Major Wednesday with a solid 258 solo and 638 series, one of the four 600's rolled in the loop. George "Stooge" Robinson rapped the hat trick for 217-212-205 and 634; Bill Johnson 202-221-612 and Harold Broskie 220-601.

The top 500 trundlers included Jimmy Amendola with 200-223-594; Hod Spaulding, the piano tycoon, 202-211-583; Herm Seelbach 212-578; Cliff Davis 237-574; Cliff Quick 212-572 and Charlie "Juice" Manfro 203-576.

In the lower echelon were H. Myers with 244-566; Larry Weishaupt 564; Frank "Boots" Leskie 210-561; Fred Ferraro 200-203-557; Bill Murray 555 and Bill Lawrence 214-553.

Team results:

Jack's Rest 3, Mickey's 0; Hymes Shoes 2, Pontiacs 1; Alpine 3, Welch's Grocery 0; Old Capitals 2, Quality Maple 1.

Maurer Leads CYO—594

Joe Maurer led the CYO-Holy Name circuit at the Bowlodrome planks with a string of 209-183-202 for 594. Norb Scherer hit 203-206-555; Dom Tomczyk 540; Joe Mannello 539; John Sweeney 201-538; Romanus Dellay 521; George Uhl 520; Leo Yonnetti 504 and Joe Mahar 210-518.

Betty Schoonmaker's progressive scores of 160-181-187 for 528 paced the Chalet Pioneer Women's wheel. Also of note were Helen Sutton with 457; June Van Kleeck 441; Livia Tenedini 439; Emma Pratt 433; Mabel Cudney 418; Charlotte Gracy 401; M. Gilmartin 391; Helene Mollenhauer 389 and J. Schultz 376.

Team results:

Demarest Flames 2, Gilmartin's Lunch 1; Century Cement 2, Towne Shoppe 1; Moylans 3, Snyder's Chicks 0.

New Pioneer Mark

Rita Amarello posted a new high triple for the Ferraro Pioneer Women's League Wednesday night when she fired 519 on sticks of 153-187-179. The 519 eclipsed the former high of 510 rolled by Dottie LaRocca.

Also of note were Joan Brueckner with 490; Shirley Myers 455; Nell Glennon 451; Gen Whitmore 449; Lillian Cameron 441; Phyllis Wolff 441; Marge Burns 433; Fritzi Davis 433; Pauline Barth 432; P. Duffy 417; J. Krueger 416; L. Jordan 410; E. MacElveen 409; B. Tucker 408; M. Henry 405; C. Buckman 404 and D. LaRocca 401.

Team results:

Worfs 3, Doblers 0; Geraldine Shope 3, Jumps Market 0; Jones Dairy 3, Carnrights Dairy 0; DeLuca Cleaners 3, Smith-Parish 0; Stone Ridge 2, Greyvan Lines 1; Silsby Motors 3, Herzogs 0.

Vernon Freese, who represents Rosendale on the executive board of the Kingston Bowling Association, scintillated with a 592 series in this week's session of the Chalet Leaders League.

His series made up on games of 193-203-196 outdistanced Bill Lawrence by 20 sticks. W. Fatum posted 226-562; V. Kuhn 512, Ed McCaffrey 502, R. Dellay 212-501; Ed Whitaker and Jim Fahey 500; Clary Buddenhagen 200-499; G. Segelken and E. Myers 496; Hank Yonetti 494 and J. Fatum 492.

A Giant in the Fold

Bobby Thomson, slugging infielder-outfielder of the New York Giants, holds the pen and grins at Manager Leo Durocher after signing his 1953 contract at the Giants' New York office. Thomson, best remembered for his Homeric circuit clout which wrecked the Dodgers' 1951 pennant hopes, reportedly signed for the same $35,000 he received last year.

Thomson Will Begin Role As Giants' Base Stealer

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—Bobby Thomson, one of the fastest men in baseball, will try for more stolen bases this season with the blessing of Manager Leo Durocher.

For years, Thomson's speed has blinded the National League. They talked of a match race with Sam Jethroe. Durocher was willing to pit Bobby against anybody in the league. Still is. But he never stole bases.

In 900 games with the New York Giants, Thomson has stolen a total of only 26 bases. Last year he pilfered only five. Even in '51 when his playoff homer won the "miracle" pennant, he stole only five. In 1950 the total was three.

Lacks Extra Step

"He just doesn't seem to get that extra step," said Durocher at the Giants office after Thomson signed his contract for a reported $35,000. "Sometimes he's there with plenty to spare. Other times he's thrown out when a man like Al Dark would have made it."

Thomson sat quietly listening while the manager made apologies for his failure to steal bases.

"If you want to hear my reaction," he said, "I might as well get in on the discussion, too. I just don't run enough. You only learn to steal bases by practice.

"I always thought I could be in the same class with Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson in stealing bases. But I don't run enough."

Durocher seemed interested.

"Maybe I'd better take a hint," he said. "And cut him loose more often. One reason we don't have him steal so much is this: When he's on first he's sure to score on a long single to the outfield. He's almost as well off on first."

Thomson figured he could steal bases by surprising the other clubs.

"They never expect me to go," he said. "I don't have any reputation as a base stealer. They seem to think I've got two left feet or something like that. I'd like to try."

Thomson, up to 190 pounds, hopes to reach 198 before he reports at the Phoenix, Ariz. training camp. He weighed only 175 at the end of last season.

As far as returning to third base, in case Willie Mays is released from the army on a hardship plea, it will be all right with Bobby.

Ready for Any Port

"Personally, I think these long legs of mine were built for the outfield," he said. "But I play wherever Leo says."

Don Zimmer, tabbed as the eventual successor to Pee Wee Reese, also signed a Brooklyn contract yesterday. The young shortstop batted .310 for Mobile in 1952. Three of the Dodgers' rookie pitching hopefuls, Ken Lehman, Ray Moore and Ed Roebuck also came to terms.

Others to sign contracts yesterday were pitcher Marv Grissom, Chicago White Sox, outfielder Cal Abrams and pitcher Bill Dunn of Pittsburgh and outfielder Hank Edwards, and pitchers Dick Littlefield and Vern Taylor of the St. Louis Browns. The Brownies now have satisfied 29 of the 37 players on their 1953 roster.

One final word about the Bobby Spreer case. There must be a lot of folks relieved by the developments. It was common gossip and rumor around the DUSO League that the Goldback ace was ineligible. But nobody except Sam Kalloch was willing to take the bull by the horns. It was a touchy subject and nobody wanted to be the scapegoat.

The fact that Sam was involved is at the same time coincidental and ironical. The portly Blue mentor, hailed by DUSO sportswriters as "Coach of the Year" was riding on an unprecedented crest of popularity not only with the press but his fellow coaches.

The Spreer incident should not deprecate Sam's standing in the lodge. He did the proper thing. It was an open and shut case and should not have caused any greater stir than the departure of Irv Kushner, the great Monticello star. Monticello just dropped Kushner from the roster without any fanfare when he completed eight semesters of varsity competition.

The Spreer case does point up a problem. Does each individual school or the conference maintain the eligibility records for the DUSO athletes? We believe the central office of the DUSO (president) should have those files and they should be checked carefully at the start of each semester. This would remove from rumor and suspicion any doubtful cases.

This fellow Spreer was a handsome performer for the Goldbacks over three straight seasons. He lacked the color and fire of his brother, Richie, but compiled a career average of better than 15 points.

Spreer's absence points up the old axiom that an athletic institution travelling a hot cycle invariably is its own best source of supply. Take NFA, for instance. The loss of Spreer figured to be a damaging blow, but you couldn't prove it at Poughkeepsie. Unheralded Billy Maher has taken over Bobby's mantle and will wear it with dignity and authority. Ask Coach G. Warren Kias.

Spreer or no Spreer, Newburgh is blessed with the best talent in the league. Kingston High is a year away. They have a "big fellow," Herbie Waterous coming up from the Jayvees, while Dick Bezemer should be at his peak. Skipper Brodhead is a standout sophomore who seems destined for All-DUSO rating.

"Lanky" Masterson will still have that fellow Burkowski, "The Marvel" you know. Mickey got off to a poor start but lately has been blasting the hoop at a 20-plus average. The Larry Kimball-Bob Early backcourt tandem is challenged only by Kingston's Bill DuBois and Bill Haber. Burkowski never did succumb to the "sophomore jinx" while Bezemer should be a potent "junior."

When the final gun sounded, the Goldbacks hoisted Bobby on their shoulders and carried him off the floor in triumph. Causing George Palmateer to quip:

"Lanky Masterson is getting too fat, so they picked on Bobby."

About that NFA skein. It will reach 37 and then come tumbling down on the municipal auditorium court on Feb. 24.

He has expanded the conference with the National Security Council, bringing the heads of several agencies to the White House.

Influenza Causes Deaths

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Public Health Service said today the current influenza epidemic apparently is causing some increase in deaths over the nation. It was the first time the health service had referred to the widespread incidence of 'flu across the country as an epidemic. A spokesman said that when an outbreak of a disease is sufficiently general it has reached epidemic proportions. Total deaths reported from 106 cities for the three weeks ended Jan. 24 have run about 11,300 each week, the spokesman said. This is about 10 per cent above the three-year median figures.

Audit Is Ordered

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—Secretary Benson today ordered a special audit of the multi-billion-dollar corporations and lending agencies in the Agriculture Department to set forth their financial condition. "I consider it only prudent administration to have this financial accounting at the beginning of my term of office," Benson said in a formal statement. The audit will be made by department auditors with the aid of the general accounting office, an agency of Congress.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Newspaper Published Here Back in 1875

Highland, Jan. 29—Today there are four residents of the Town of Lloyd who know Highland had a newspaper as far back as 1875 and fewer still who have seen a copy of that paper. The first edition of The Whitney Zeitung, as the newspaper was called, came from the press in January, 1875. This monthly newspaper, which was published by Clarence J. Elting and E. H. Whitney, was edited and printed in the former Ezekial Elting homestead at the Bridge Circle, Milton avenue. The yearly subscription rate was 10 cents with a single copy costing one cent. There were four pages in each edition with two columns to the page.

At the top of page 1 was the name with a cut of an eagle below it. On the first page and first column was an editorial greeting: We present our readers with the first copy of the Zeitung, hoping that it may amuse, instruct and please. Our aim will be to benefit not only our friends but ourselves. We suggest that our patrons take several copies to give to their friends as kindness to others brings happiness to ourselves. Elting's initials follow. At the bottom of the page is an admonition to patronize home industry.

In column 2 of page 1 is a contributed story, The Haunted Hut. This tale is carried over on the next page and in following issues of the Zeitung. This page also carries a cut of a skeleton rising out of the floor to illustrate an incident in the story. This woodcut together with that of the eagle and another of a coin, which appear several times in the paper, were made by Elting. This page carries the announcement of the marriage of Luther E. Elting to Miss Isabella R. Workman, by the Rev. Horace Wood at the Milton Methodist Church Sunday, Jan. 16, 1875.

Items Are Listed

Home Items heads the first column of page 3. It contains such items as: Our story, The Haunted Hut, is founded on fact. The noted John Stone resides at Ricetown Station. The Whitney Zeitung is a neutral paper in politics. Is Punch and Judy, Mother Goose, etc. given up? We hope not. The railroad men from Boston were in Highland looking over the route of the humbug (railroad) on the 21st. The coming entertainment, a display of Chinese fireworks, will be held under the auspices of John Thorn & Co.

The next column of page three carries the caption, Business Items. In it are: We believe the Sun is about to be published. All those who play croquet should buy a set advertised in another column, Besides affording amusement for the long winter evenings it keeps you in practice for the outdoor game. Although furs are out of style, they are often very useful. Don't buy brittle stuff but get Elting's Indestructible. The above picture (a coin with an eagle on it) is our trade mark. No articles are genuine without it. C.J.E.

The fourth page carries advertisements, which it is stated, costs two cents a line for each insertion. These include Elting's Table Croquet sets, with a complete description, priced one dollar. Job printing done cheap at the Zeitung office. The Enchanted Tea Chest or the Hundred Wreaths of Perfume; Sorrento Fretwork for beautifying homes. Interested parties are asked to apply to the editor. It would appear that all goods advertised were made by or sold by the Zeitung. With the exception of the headline of the ads which were printed in capitals, the main body of the ads were in paragraph form.

Live News Appears

As in practically all items in the paper a four-point type was used for the ads which were one-column wide. The May, 1875, issue was enlarged to three and one-quarter inches by four inches and the June issue was four by five inches. The ads now take the form of present day ads. More and real live news appear in the columns.

The Zeitung was published for two years, possibly for a shorter time. By January 1877 Whitney evidently passed out of the picture for in the early part of that year the first of the Quarterly Star appeared, edited and published by Elting. Volume 1, number 1, of the Star covered the months of January, February and March. In it is a story, The Old Farm House, which was a continuation of the story started in the Zeitung. From this one is justified in concluding the Zeitung had folded up. In an editorial Elting calls the Star an 'amateur periodical,' devoted to miscellaneous reading matter. The Star was four by five inches, and sold for 15 cents per year, by mail 20 cents. It contained fiction, editorial news, some humorous matter and ads on the back cover page. There were twelve pages in all.

The Rev. Donald Broad, Brooklyn, will be at the home of Mrs. C. W. Rathgeb Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Hubert Elting and Miss Rowena Harcourt were Sunday dinner guests of Assemblyman and Mrs. John F. Wadlin.

Miss Ann Wilcox, a senior at Elmira College, arrives this weekend for the midwinter vacation. She will have Miss Patricia Schoonmaker, Port Jervis, as her guest.

Robert Casper representing Highland High School won third place in the Ulster county section of the national high school oratorical contest in the auditorium of the Saugerties High School Friday evening. Six county schools competed: Ellenville, Highland, Kingston, Saint Ursula's Academy, Saugerties and W[illegible]ill. Contestants delivered prepared oration on some phase or application of the constitution. Orations were between 10 and 12 minutes in length. First prize of $15 was won by John La Houd, Saugerties, who spoke on The Constitution—the Vessel of Democracy; Mary Johnston, Kingston, whose topic was The American Bill of Rights, and Arthur J. Scarzello, Wallkill, who discussed The Privileges and Responsibilities of an American Citizen. Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of schools, acted as host and introduced the Rev. Clarence Brown, chaplain of the Ulster County Legion. He ordered the advancement of the colors and the national anthem was sung by the audience accompanied by the music supervisor of schools.

A short history of the contest which had its inception in 1937 was given by John C. Miller, Ulster county Aremicanism director, chairman of the contest. He introduced the speakers by number and title of oration. Contestants names were withheld until after the decision of the judges had been computed. Low score determined the older of awards to contestants. An excellent interlude of music by a girl's sextet and a boy's four-piece orchestra followed the third speaker. Tellers were Tom Bohan, former New York State vice-commander; Everett Cotty, Kerhonkson, former county commander. Timekeepers were William H. Yates, supervising principal, Highland; Charles Gilmour, of Saugerties Post. Judges were Dr. Charles E. Baker, professor of English, State Teachers College, New Paltz; Louis Bruhn, former district attorney for Ulster county; Dr. Jack C. Cotton, professor of speech, State Teachers College, New Paltz; Hon. John B. Sterley, judge of County Surrogate Court; Dr. Roland Will, professor of social studies, State College, New Paltz. The winner will represent Ulster county in the third district contest, representing seven counties. This will be held February 14 in Kingston High School at 8:15 o'clock. First and second winners will then proceed to a zone contest. Zone winners will meet in a state-wide contest at Oneonta at a date to be determined. State winners proceed to national regional contests and national regional winners meet in a final national contest in which all four finalists receive scholarship awards. First prize is a $4,000 scholarship, second prize a $2,500 scholarship, third, $1,000 and fourth a $500 scholarship. According to Miller, it is quite probable the New York Department of the American Legion may institute, possibly this year, a first prize of a $3,200 scholarship for the state winner.

Berle Pays $76 Fines

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—TV comedian Milton Berle played a straight man role today in traffic court. He paid $76 in fines for four parking violations dating back to last May. With no sign of his usual clowning, he said: "I want to be a good citizen." Berle pleaded guilty although his attorney Herbert M. Rosenberg, who said the comedian had a full-time chauffeur and had not driven an automobile himself in three and a half years. Rosenberg said Berle felt morally though not legally responsible for the parking tickets.

He has expanded the conference with the National Security Council, bringing the heads of several agencies to the White House.

Influenza Causes Deaths

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Public Health Service said today the current influenza epidemic apparently is causing some increase in deaths over the nation. It was the first time the health service had referred to the widespread incidence of 'flu across the country as an epidemic. A spokesman said that when an outbreak of a disease is sufficiently general it has reached epidemic proportions. Total deaths reported from 106 cities for the three weeks ended Jan. 24 have run about 11,300 each week, the spokesman said. This is about 10 per cent above the three-year median figures.

Audit Is Ordered

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP)—Secretary Benson today ordered a special audit of the multi-billion-dollar corporations and lending agencies in the Agriculture Department to set forth their financial condition. "I consider it only prudent administration to have this financial accounting at the beginning of my term of office," Benson said in a formal statement. The audit will be made by department auditors with the aid of the general accounting office, an agency of Congress.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Newspaper Published Here Back in 1875

Highland, Jan. 29—Today there are four residents of the Town of Lloyd who know Highland had a newspaper as far back as 1875 and fewer still who have seen a copy of that paper. The first edition of The Whitney Zeitung, as the newspaper was called, came from the press in January, 1875. This monthly newspaper, which was published by Clarence J. Elting and E. H. Whitney, was edited and printed in the former Ezekial Elting homestead at the Bridge Circle, Milton avenue. The yearly subscription rate was 10 cents with a single copy costing one cent. There were four pages in each edition with two columns to the page.

At the top of page 1 was the name with a cut of an eagle below it. On the first page and first column was an editorial greeting: We present our readers with the first copy of the Zeitung, hoping that it may amuse, instruct and please. Our aim will be to benefit not only our friends but ourselves. We suggest that our patrons take several copies to give to their friends as kindness to others brings happiness to ourselves. Elting's initials follow. At the bottom of the page is an admonition to patronize home industry.

In column 2 of page 1 is a contributed story, The Haunted Hut. This tale is carried over on the next page and in following issues of the Zeitung. This page also carries a cut of a skeleton rising out of the floor to illustrate an incident in the story. This woodcut together with that of the eagle and another of a coin, which appear several times in the paper, were made by Elting. This page carries the announcement of the marriage of Luther E. Elting to Miss Isabella R. Workman, by the Rev. Horace Wood at the Milton Methodist Church Sunday, Jan. 16, 1875.

Items Are Listed

Home Items heads the first column of page 3. It contains such items as: Our story, The Haunted Hut, is founded on fact. The noted John Stone resides at Ricetown Station. The Whitney Zeitung is a neutral paper in politics. Is Punch and Judy, Mother Goose, etc. given up? We hope not. The railroad men from Boston were in Highland looking over the route of the humbug (railroad) on the 21st. The coming entertainment, a display of Chinese fireworks, will be held under the auspices of John Thorn & Co.

The next column of page three carries the caption, Business Items. In it are: We believe the Sun is about to be published. All those who play croquet should buy a set advertised in another column, Besides affording amusement for the long winter evenings it keeps you in practice for the outdoor game. Although furs are out of style, they are often very useful. Don't buy brittle stuff but get Elting's Indestructible. The above picture (a coin with an eagle on it) is our trade mark. No articles are genuine without it. C.J.E.

The fourth page carries advertisements, which it is stated, costs two cents a line for each insertion. These include Elting's Table Croquet sets, with a complete description, priced one dollar. Job printing done cheap at the Zeitung office. The Enchanted Tea Chest or the Hundred Wreaths of Perfume; Sorrento Fretwork for beautifying homes. Interested parties are asked to apply to the editor. It would appear that all goods advertised were made by or sold by the Zeitung. With the exception of the headline of the ads which were printed in capitals, the main body of the ads were in paragraph form.

Live News Appears

As in practically all items in the paper a four-point type was used for the ads which were one-column wide. The May, 1875, issue was enlarged to three and one-quarter inches by four inches and the June issue was four by five inches. The ads now take the form of present day ads. More and real live news appear in the columns.

The Zeitung was published for two years, possibly for a shorter time. By January 1877 Whitney evidently passed out of the picture for in the early part of that year the first of the Quarterly Star appeared, edited and published by Elting. Volume 1, number 1, of the Star covered the months of January, February and March. In it is a story, The Old Farm House, which was a continuation of the story started in the Zeitung. From this one is justified in concluding the Zeitung had folded up. In an editorial Elting calls the Star an 'amateur periodical,' devoted to miscellaneous reading matter. The Star was four by five inches, and sold for 15 cents per year, by mail 20 cents. It contained fiction, editorial news, some humorous matter and ads on the back cover page. There were twelve pages in all.

The annual meeting of the Lloyd Rod and Gun Club was held Tuesday evening.

Miss Helen Thoren, an apprentice nurse from New York, is making her home with Mrs. Clarence Rathgeb while stationed here.

The Rev. Donald Broad, Brooklyn, will be at the home of Mrs. C. W. Rathgeb Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Hubert Elting and Miss Rowena Harcourt were Sunday dinner guests of Assemblyman and Mrs. John F. Wadlin.

Miss Ann Wilcox, a senior at Elmira College, arrives this weekend for the midwinter vacation. She will have Miss Patricia Schoonmaker, Port Jervis, as her guest.

Robert Casper representing Highland High School won third place in the Ulster county section of the national high school oratorical contest in the auditorium of the Saugerties High School Friday evening. Six county schools competed: Ellenville, Highland, Kingston, Saint Ursula's Academy, Saugerties and W[illegible]ill. Contestants delivered prepared oration on some phase or application of the constitution. Orations were between 10 and 12 minutes in length. First prize of $15 was won by John La Houd, Saugerties, who spoke on The Constitution—the Vessel of Democracy; Mary Johnston, Kingston, whose topic was The American Bill of Rights, and Arthur J. Scarzello, Wallkill, who discussed The Privileges and Responsibilities of an American Citizen. Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of schools, acted as host and introduced the Rev. Clarence Brown, chaplain of the Ulster County Legion. He ordered the advancement of the colors and the national anthem was sung by the audience accompanied by the music supervisor of schools.

A short history of the contest which had its inception in 1937 was given by John C. Miller, Ulster county Aremicanism director, chairman of the contest. He introduced the speakers by number and title of oration. Contestants names were withheld until after the decision of the judges had been computed. Low score determined the older of awards to contestants. An excellent interlude of music by a girl's sextet and a boy's four-piece orchestra followed the third speaker. Tellers were Tom Bohan, former New York State vice-commander; Everett Cotty, Kerhonkson, former county commander. Timekeepers were William H. Yates, supervising principal, Highland; Charles Gilmour, of Saugerties Post. Judges were Dr. Charles E. Baker, professor of English, State Teachers College, New Paltz; Louis Bruhn, former district attorney for Ulster county; Dr. Jack C. Cotton, professor of speech, State Teachers College, New Paltz; Hon. John B. Sterley, judge of County Surrogate Court; Dr. Roland Will, professor of social studies, State College, New Paltz. The winner will represent Ulster county in the third district contest, representing seven counties. This will be held February 14 in Kingston High School at 8:15 o'clock. First and second winners will then proceed to a zone contest. Zone winners will meet in a state-wide contest at Oneonta at a date to be determined. State winners proceed to national regional contests and national regional winners meet in a final national contest in which all four finalists receive scholarship awards. First prize is a $4,000 scholarship, second prize a $2,500 scholarship, third, $1,000 and fourth a $500 scholarship. According to Miller, it is quite probable the New York Department of the American Legion may institute, possibly this year, a first prize of a $3,200 scholarship for the state winner.

Berle Pays $76 Fines

New York, Jan. 29 (AP)—TV comedian Milton Berle played a straight man role today in traffic court. He paid $76 in fines for four parking violations dating back to last May. With no sign of his usual clowning, he said: "I want to be a good citizen." Berle pleaded guilty although his attorney Herbert M. Rosenberg, who said the comedian had a full-time chauffeur and had not driven an automobile himself in three and a half years. Rosenberg said Berle felt morally though not legally responsible for the parking tickets.
